

Undergrads gain access to library

Undergraduate UNC students are now permitted to check out books from the Health Sciences Library by applying for a library card.

In the past, books in this library were available only to graduate students. The new policy was initiated at the beginning of the fall semester.

The Health Sciences library is expanding to other campus libraries.

Regarding other library-system changes, Roger Harris, head of the catalog department at Wilson Library, said that the cataloging of the remaining 600,000 books under the Library of Congress system will be finished when the new library building is completed in 1981.

The change from the Dewey Decimal System to Library of Congress cataloging began eight years ago. Harris said the new system is "the quickest, least expensive and most efficient method of organizing volumes in a library this size." There are 2.25 million volumes in the UNC library system.

Rights panel improving campus communication

by Linda Morris
Staff Writer

The appearance of Angela Davis on campus was the first visible effort of a new Student Government committee formed last summer to work for the improvement of campus communication problems.

The Committee on Human Rights and Relationships, headed by Roland Staton, a junior from Salisbury, was designed to initiate and promote programs to contribute to understanding among groups and individuals in the campus and community.

The committee consists of 30 students, the majority of whom are black, according to Staton. Other minority groups, including gay students and women, are also represented on the committee.

"The No. 1 priority of the committee, as outlined by both Student Government and the administration, is to provide a link between different groups on campus to help improve communication," Staton said.

Organizational meeting for the Walk for Humanity will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 29, upstairs in the Y Bldg. All committee chairpersons and all interested people are invited to attend.

The Department of Psychology presents Patricia F. Waller of the University of North Carolina to speak on "Monitoring and Controlling Driver Behavior; Bias in the System" at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 29, in 112 Davie Hall. Interested persons may meet with the speaker for dinner at Kwikie Take Out. For more information call Dave Eckerman, 933-5084 or Helen Johnson, 968-9339.

Items of Interest

Residents of Country Club Precinct (includes Morrison, Ehringhaus, Parker, Teague, and Avery dorms) may register to vote Wednesday, Sept. 29 in the Morrison lobby. Registration officials will be there from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Students interested in working for the Nov. 2 bond referendum should contact Rich Eisenstadt in Suite C of the Carolina Union or call 933-3186.

Bicycle registration will be conducted by the Campus Police and the Student Transportation Commission Sept. 27 to Sept. 30 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. For only 50 cents your bike can be theft-proof!

Come meet Dave Flaherty, candidate for governor. Dave will be in the Pit at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 29.

Students who did not subscribe to the 1976 Yackety Yack, the student yearbook, can still do so. Numerous books will be available about mid-October, and students desiring one should sign the waiting list on the door of the Yack office, Suite D of the Carolina Union. If you want a book, please sign the list soon, as it is growing longer. Seniors who wish to buy a 1974 yearbook can pick one up at the Yack office between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. for $5.

The committee will survey relationships among groups to help prepare projects. The study will be completed with help from members of the sociology department.

In conjunction with the YMCA, the committee will sponsor a Human Rights Month in February with speakers, panels and human rights' discussions.

A tutorial program, in which faculty members would assist student tutors, is also planned. The student tutors would help students who are having difficulty in a particular course.

Other plans include lectures and seminars by qualified people in the dormitories to stress the value of human interaction and understanding.

The committee provided a slide presentation for freshmen at a joint session of the YMCA Freshman Camp and Preorientation Camp, sponsored by the Black Student Movement. The presentation dealt with the variety of lifestyles and attitudes at UNC, and encouraged acceptance of them.

The Human Rights Committee was the product of a study by the Committee on the Disadvantaged and Minorities. The study suggested the format for a permanent committee to work on communication problems.
