Harriet Laura Herring, professor emerita of sociology, died Dec. 18 in a Kinston nursing home at the age of 84. Herring was one of the original generation of sociologists who, in the 1920s and 1930s, established the University's sociology department as one of the best departments in the country. She retired in 1965.

Cecil Slaton Johnson, professor emeritus of history, died Dec. 31 while visiting his daughter in Chevy Chase, Md. Johnson, 76, joined the UNC faculty in 1931 and retired in 1968. From 1936 to 1961 he served on the General College staff as adviser, acting dean, associate dean and dean. He was a resident of Chapel Hill.

C. Hugh Holman, Kenan Professor of English, has won the Winthrop College Writers' Award for nonfiction with his book, "The Loneliness at the Core: Studies in Thomas Wolfe." The award is given each year to writers who were either born in South Carolina (Holman is from Cross Anchor) or lived there while writing the work. Holman's book is a collection of essays that he has written over the past 20 years. He studies the autobiographical events and thematic structure of Thomas Wolfe's works, searching for reasons why Wolfe wrote both good and bad fiction. "Thomas Wolfe was a remarkably uneven writer," Holman says.

Lewis Leary, professor emeritus of English, has received the Jay B. Hubbell award for distinguished service in the study of American literature. The award is generally considered to be the foremost distinction in the field of American

The UNC Karate Club and the American Tae Kwon Do Association present Women's Self-Defense at 7:30 p.m. January 13, in Room 215 of the Carolina Union.

The UNC Debate Team will meet at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, January 13, in 109 Bingham Hall. If unable to make the meeting, see Mr. Balthrop in 101-A Bingham Hall.

Items of Interest

Tickets for the UNC-Duke basketball game will be distributed at 5 p.m. Thursday, January 13, at Carmichael Auditorium.

Applications for registration for the last administration of the 1977 Federal Summer Employment Examination must be postmarked no later than January 13. All interested students should come to the Career Planning and Placement office to read the information booklet (Announcement 414) and pick up a registration form.

The APO Spring Book CO-OP is now collecting and selling books in Rooms 202 and 204 of the Carolina Union. The Co-op will be accepting books until January 17 and selling books until January 19, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily except Sunday.

All student volunteers returning for another semester of volunteer work at N.C. Memorial Hospital are reminded they must preregister Wednesday through Friday, January 12, 13 and 14, in the Volunteer Office, Room 106 Main Hospital. All students interested in volunteering are required to sign up from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, January 17 and 18, in Room 106, the Volunteer Office. Questions call 966-3136.

RA applications are due Thursday, January 13, 1977. All candidates living in University residence halls or Granville Towers should return them to the Resident Director or Assistant Tower manager. All other applicants should return them to the Department of University Housing, Carr Building. Any applications received after January 13 will be considered late. These late candidates will be considered as alternate status, or for several staff openings. Because late applicants will miss the spring pre-employment training, it is helpful if late applicants have had previous residence hall staff experience.

literary scholarship. Leary joined the UNC English department in 1968 and retired from active teaching in June 1976.

A book edited by David M. Stewart, a geology professor, has been selected by the American Nurses Association for its 1976 Book-of-the-Year award. "Safe Alternatives in Childbirth," was edited by Stewart and his wife, Lee. Mrs. Stewart is president of the National Association of Parents & Professionals for Safe Alternatives in Childbirth (NAPSAC), which published the book. The Stewarts are also cofounders of the national organization.

Geraldine Gourley, School of Public Health professor, has retired after 17 years in the department. "It will be a very important loss, but we're hoping to replace her with someone equally outstanding," said Bernard G. Greenberg, dean of the School of Public Health. Gourley, a native of Kansas, came to UNC from the Denver University School of Social Work in 1953. She left UNC in 1956 but returned in 1963 to continue her social-work role as an associate professor of maternal and child health, with a joint appointment at the School of Social Work.

John T. Hughes, professor of health administration in the School of Public Health, has been elected president of the American Board of Dental Public Health. He assumed the position Jan. 1. The board creates and maintains standards for the practice of dental public health and issues certificates of ability in preventive dentistry and dental public health to licensed dentists.
