Longet gets 30 days, plans appeal

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI)—Singer Claudine Longet Monday pleaded to a judge for leniency, then was sentenced to 30 consecutive days in jail and placed on two years probation for the shooting death of her lover, pro skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich.

Miss Longet, who had faced a maximum sentence of two years in jail and a $5,000 fine, said after the sentence was imposed she "fell into the hands of a district attorney who was more concerned with his own ambition than with finding truth and justice."

Defense attorney Charles Weedman said he would appeal, thus delaying implementation of District Judge George Lohr's sentence. Lohr ordered Miss Longet, 36, to serve the sentence anytime before Sept. 1 and pay a $25 probation fine.

Singer Andy Williams, Longet's former husband, accompanied her to court and cried softly when Lohr pronounced the sentence. He walked to his wife, hugged her and told reporters, "she does not deserve to go to jail."

Miss Longet was convicted Jan. 14, after a two-week trial, of negligent homicide. Sabich was killed last March 26 in the resort chalet he and Miss Longet shared for 18 months. She claimed a .22-caliber pistol discharged accidentally as Sabich was showing her how to use it.

In her request for leniency, Miss Longet told Lohr a harsh jail term would adversely affect her children.

"At this point, I don't think there is any more that can be done to me than has been during the last 10 months," she said.

"My children and I are very close, and I love them very much, and they firmly believe in my innocence," she told Lohr. "I wonder what they will think when a system they believe in would send me to prison."

She asked to be permitted to serve any sentence on nonconsecutive days so she could care for her children, as recommended by a probation officer. Miss Longet said the alternative was sending her two boys and one girl to California with Williams.

Lohr told Miss Longet he was convinced Sabich's death was unintentional and recognized she was "a good mother." But he said her "conduct resulted in a death. A crime was committed. No sentence might undermine respect for the law, and she did not serve any time in jail waiting for trial."

District Attorney Frank Tucker, accused by Miss Longet of using her case to further his political ambitions, said the prosecution believed "any therapeutic value from serving a sentence would be achieved by serving it one day after another."

Miss Longet said she was disappointed at Lohr's sentence, but "because of the thousands of letters I have received from all over the world, reaching out with good words and prayers, I feel very good. Because of that, I realize people are beautiful and kind."

Chiefs see Soviet buildup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Joint Chiefs of Staff believe the Soviet Union is seeking military superiority and pursuing a strategy that provides for survival of most of its urban population in event of nuclear attack.

The assessments of Soviet military thinking were included in nine pages of unclassified replies to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., which were released Monday.

Proxmire asked the joint chiefs for comment on allegations by the recently retired head of Air Force intelligence, Maj. Gen. George J. Keegan Jr., that the United States has fallen behind Russia in military power.

While the service chiefs disagreed with Keegan's conclusion, George S. Brown, chairman of the joint chiefs, said many of the intelligence judgments involved "are essentially correct and address areas which deserve increasing attention."

"The available evidence suggests the U.S.S.R. is engaged in a program designed to achieve military superiority, but that they have not achieved this goal," the chiefs said.

Given enough warning of nuclear attack for civil defense machinery to go into operation, the chiefs said the Russians could probably "assure survival of a large percentage of the leadership necessary to maintain control, reduce prompt casualties among the urban population to a small percentage and give the Soviets a good chance of being able to distribute at least a subsistence level of supplies to the surviving population."

The chiefs said "some current studies" indicate 10 Americans might die for every Russian killed in a nuclear exchange, "but only in a worst case scenario."

"Hardened" military headquarters that can withstand nuclear attack are dispersed through the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe and Mongolia, the chiefs said.

"First echelon command control communications centers of the Soviet government and armed forces on a national level are dispersed and hardened within an 80-mile radius of Moscow," they said.

Other hardened installations include military targets and "it is believed the Soviets have constructed blast shelters in some major manufacturing plants."
