and making it easier for individuals to establish retail credit. Any student can apply to be a delegate, and approximately 50 seats on the delegation will be filled this fall. Applications can be obtained from and returned to the Carolina Union desk. Applicants will be contacted for interviews, which will be held Sept. 13, 14 and 15.

NCSL, established in 1937 as a debating exercise, is composed of 40 student delegations from North Carolina universities, colleges and technical institutes. Since its establishment, NCSL has been instrumental in bringing issues to the attention of certain agencies and the N.C. General Assembly and in passing bills drawn up by its student delegations. Last year, the UNC delegation researched and wrote a bill on sex discrimination in the availability and cost of insurance in North Carolina and another that authorized gubernatorial succession and an assertive veto.

Some ABC stations upset over 'Soap'

By STEPHEN HARRIS
Staff Writer

Soap, ABC's new prime time soap opera farce, has several of the network's North Carolina affiliates in a lather. WRAL (Channel 5) in Raleigh and WCCB (Channel 18) in Charlotte, said they will not run Soap because of the show's content. Soap is a situation comedy that deals with sexual, racial and religious themes. Among its main characters are a transvestite, a promiscuous mother and daughter, an impotent husband, an adolescent obsessed with pornography and other characters not usually portrayed on television.

The controversial show has made program selection difficult for television managers. "The show's subject matter is not the problem," said Fred Barber, general manager of WRAL. "It's that the show has no substance. The things it treats, it treats in a frivolous way." "It is a very adult-type program, and I think it would offend a number of our adult viewers." "We felt that Soap was not something that should go on the air," said Beverly Poston, program director at WCCB. "We felt that it was a little too permissive. Because of this, we felt we had a responsibility to not run it. A show of this type can be a precedent for other shows of its type, and we felt a responsibility to stand against it." But WGHP (Channel 8) in High Point has decided to air the program. In a prepared statement released Tuesday, WGHP officials said, "Although we have reservations on Soap, we think the show... is in good enough taste and is acceptable to broadcast." Stations WWAY (Channel 3) in Wilmington and WCTI (Channel 12) in New Bern also will broadcast the program, which debuts Sept. 13. Barber of WRAL and Cy Bahakel of WCCB, two station heads, each made the final decision not to air the show on their stations. Barber delayed a decision on the show for four months. He saw the first two episodes of Soap at an ABC station managers' meeting in Los Angeles in May. He was told that the two episodes would be redone and other scripts would be available for inspection later. In early August, ABC let Barber screen a third episode and the two remade ones. However, the promised scripts were not available. Barber considered the new shows unacceptable and decided not to air them.
