The Chapel Hill Board of Aldermen approved the construction of a $1 million multipurpose municipal facility Monday night. Construction of the project is set to begin October 1978.

The 24-acre site, located between Glen Heights and the Horace Williams Airport, will include storage facilities for street-maintenance vehicles and materials, garages for town-owned vehicles and buses, an animal shelter, a glass-recycling plant, the public works department office and a towed-car lot.

The aldermen also passed an ordinance limiting the operating hours of the proposed recycling plant as a response to concerns expressed by Glen Height residents. In an earlier meeting, the residents complained about the noise the plant will generate.

In other action, the board approved the completion of four remaining links of seven-mile bicycle and pedestrian pathway around Chapel Hill. The system, called the greensways system, was begun in 1976.

One of the proposed links will cross the property of Wilbur Katz, a

Athletic equipment worth over $1,000 stolen

More than $1,100 worth of athletic equipment was reported missing from Carmichael Auditorium and Boshamer Stadium Monday, University Police said.

Approximately 100 golf clubs and two baskets of golf balls valued at $1,000 were stolen from a storage area in Carmichael between noon Wednesday and early Monday morning, according to police reports.

The missing items were in a locked storage room and there was no sign of forced entry. Sources reported that several keys fit the storage room door, police said.

In Boshamer Stadium, athletic officials said thieves took 18 baseballs, 30 towels and 2 bats from a locker in the visitors' locker room.

Also missing were a varsity baseball helmet, two t-shirts, a pair of coaching trousers and several pairs of socks and hose. Total value of the items missing from Boshamer is $123.50.

Police reports said the goods stolen from the stadium were missing from a

Hot water scalds Teague residents

Teague residents awoke Tuesday morning to scalding water in their showers due to a break in the dorm's cold-water pipe.

"The break was discovered about 6:30 this morning," said Steve McCormick, Scott College residence director. "When it broke, the pressure was so great that water came out of the ground and was running all over the sidewalk. It blew rocks and dirt all over the place."

The Orange Water and Sewer Authority arrived at 8 a.m. to repair the pipe. Cold water restored to Teague at about 3:45 p.m.

"We had it fixed once, and then it busted again," one worker on the scene said. "I hope it'll hold this time."

McCormick said a similar break occurred at Parker last year.

"The water was so hot this morning, you couldn't even take a shower," complained one Teague resident.

"I know they want us to conserve water, but this is ridiculous," he said.

"We couldn't even flush the toilets," another resident said.

A University Police spokesperson said investigators believe both thefts were committed by the same person or several persons working together. No arrests have been made in either case.

Moss ignores criticism, advocates CGC changes

By BARRY SMITH
Staff Writer

Student Body President Bill Moss plans to continue to work on changes in the Campus Governing Council (CGC) Finance Committee despite considerable opposition to his ideas, a Moss aide said Tuesday.

The Moss plan calls for changes in the composition of the CGC Finance Committee and changes in the fiscal year.

Greg Underwood, Moss' executive assistant, said the ideas are still in the planning stage. "We're not making a proposal," Underwood said. "We're merely kicking around ideas."

Four members of the CGC Rules and Judiciary Committee have expressed opposition to some of Moss' proposals. Since changes would require amending the student constitution or CGC by-laws, the Rules and Judiciary Committee would have to approve the changes before they go to CGC for final approval.

The part of the plan that has drawn the most opposition is the presidential appointment of two members of the Finance Committee. The finance committee currently is composed of the president and six CGC members, one of whom is elected chairperson.

David Hackleman, a Rules and Judiciary Committee member, said he opposed that idea. "I do not believe that he (the president) should appoint anyone to the committee," Hackleman said.

Committee member Gus Lehock said the presidential appointment changes were "changes for the president's power's sake." Lehock said because the executive branch of Student Government gets money and the president gets a $1,600 scholarship, a conflict of interest would arise if Moss appointed members.

"I don't like to see any presidential directive on the committee," Lehock said.

Hackleman said the rules committee would probably oppose the plan to have the president appoint any Finance Committee members.

Chip Cox, chairperson of the Rules and Judiciary Committee, said he favors the plan. He said he did not think the changes would put a lot of power into the president's hands. The CGC would still have the final say, he said.

Two other members of the Rules and Judiciary Committee, Martin Perolutt and Diane Schafer, also said they were opposed to giving the president that power.

Moss' plan to change the fiscal year faces less opposition. The plan would make the fiscal year run concurrent with the calendar year.
