Another bitter winter ahead Muskie predicts fuel emergencies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Calling the energy outlook for this winter "grim indeed," Sen. Edmund Muskie Sunday accused the administration of inadequate planning and predicted the nation may face another season of fuel emergencies.

Muskie, D-Maine, said a study just completed by his subcommittee on intergovernmental relations shows that a second consecutive frigid winter could mean a repeat of last year's school closings, reduced business hours and 1.2 million layoffs.

Although the administration developed emergency energy plans for the coming season, Muskie said his committee found "that the sum total of their impact is likely to be both too little and too late."

"In short, the subcommittee believes that if the forecasters are right and we do face another hard winter, the federal government is simply not adequately prepared," he said in a speech to be delivered Monday on the Senate floor.

Specifically, Muskie said, the panel found the government does not have the power it is counting on in several instances to increase supplies or reduce demand for natural gas, and while it expects states to be the first line of defense in a winter emergency, many lack the necessary authority.

Dock strike continues

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Several ships were lined up along docks waiting to be unloaded at the nation's second largest port Sunday as local dock workers continued their general strike.

Harbor police reported no picket lines Sunday, but dock foremen said no one had shown up for work.

The longshoremen, defying the wishes of local and national unions, voted Saturday to continue a general strike against the Port of New Orleans. General strike supporters said the selective strike strategy was unworkable in New Orleans because container ships account for a smaller percentage of port traffic than in New York.

The strike is costing the city an estimated $2 million each day the port is closed.

ERA extension?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Griffin Bell said Sunday the Justice

Department is preparing an opinion on whether the Constitution permits a deadline extension for ratification of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

Bell said the opinion on ERA was requested by the White House — which supports the amendment — and he expects department attorneys to complete it within a week to 10 days.

news briefs

Women and health

Representatives of both the Women's Health Counseling Service in Chapel Hill and Durham Women's Health Co-operative will lead a discussion on "Improving Health Care for Women" at 7:30 p.m. Monday at A Woman's Place, 110 Henderson St.

The program, which will focus on patient-physician relationships, self-assertiveness, the role of "minor medical complaints," contraception and pregnancy, is designed to stimulate women's thinking about health care.

In the first part of the program, the moderators will consider women as health-care consumers and discuss the development of women's health care as an issue.

Participants in the program will then break up into small groups to informally discuss personal experiences and health care themes.

Cuban, underground links

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An FBI report says Cuban espionage agents operating in the United States and Canada gave limited help to the Weather Underground in the late 1960s and early 1970s, it was reported Sunday.

The militant antiwar organization also received some technical aid from North Vietnam, according to the 400-page report, but the FBI found no evidence that the Soviet Union or China ever tried to stir up U.S. dissidents, the New York Times reported.

Stephen Biko autopsy

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The autopsy report on the death of black leader Steve Biko will show he suffered brain damage, rib injuries, burns and probable kidney failure, the Johannesburg Sunday Express said Sunday.

The newspaper quoted "sources connected with the forensic investigation" into Biko's death in jail Sept. 12.

Biko's death in prison Sept. 12 has raised an international outcry.
