Leaders air views on desegregation at SG conference

By NANCY HARTIS
Staff Writer

Students from across the state and UNC administrators aired their views on UNC's desegregation plan here Friday during the annual conference of the North Carolina Association of Student Governments (NCASG).

Cleon F. Thompson, vice president of student services and special programs for the UNC system, defended the plan, which does not comply with some of the federal guidelines for desegregation laid down by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

"Let me point out that the HEW criteria are not the law, but an interpretation of the law," Thompson said. "The University of North Carolina and the Board of Governors have not sought a confrontation with HEW. We have not sought... defiance." Thompson emphasized the complexity of the desegregation issue and concluded, "We remain convinced that our response... is the right response to make."

Thompson fielded questions from several students in the audience, including Byron Horton, chairperson of the Black Student Movement (BSM). The BSM picketed University Day ceremonies two weeks ago in protest of UNC's desegregation plan.

The NCASG representatives were welcomed earlier by UNC President William C. Friday, who has promoted the plan, and William Strickland, associate vice chancellor for student development. Friday told the audience, "Desegregation will be an active issue for certainly the next several months if not the next year."

N.C. State Senator McNeill Smith also addressed the group. Smith, who has announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate, did not speak on politics but focused his remarks on education policy in North Carolina.

Another UNC General Administration official, Stan C. Broadway, addressed students on the future of student financial aid and how student leaders can help financial aid offices reach prospective aid applicants.

The group also held a number of private workshops Friday. The NCASG is composed of student-body presidents and their cabinets from the 16 UNC-system campuses.

Candidate asks Board to check out charges

By DAVID STACKS
Staff Writer

HILLSBOROUGH — Carrboro mayoral candidate Bob Drakeford Friday asked the Orange County Board of Elections to investigate charges that elections registrars improperly questioned UNC students registering to vote earlier this month.

But the board's investigation will be limited by restrictions imposed by the N.C. General Assembly, elections board chairperson Joe Nassif told Drakeford.

State law requires local elections boards to hear appeals only from people denied the right to register.

Drakeford said he knows of no one who was denied the right to register, but he has heard of registrars asking at least two questions not on the approved list of questions used to determine residency: "Do you plan to live here the rest of your life?" and "Did you know your parents will lose you as a tax deduction if you register in Orange County?"

"Admittedly, this is second-hand information," Drakeford said. "But when I get the same information from 20 or 25 people, I suspect there is some truth in it."

Board attorney Lonnie Coleman agreed that the rumor probably has its roots in truth, but he said the three-member panel can do little until someone challenges a registrar's decision to refuse registration.

WUNC raises over $38,000

University-owned WUNC-TV collected more than $38,000 for operational expenses and salaries Oct. 14-17 during a pledge marathon.

"We got about 1,500 telephone calls," said Barbara Schutz, WUNC-FM business manager. "Money is still coming in, and we hope to hit about a $40,000 figure."

WUNC is required to raise money in order to receive funds from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, an arm of the federal government set up to distribute money. WUNC operates on an annual budget of approximately $225,000.

NAVY NUCLEAR PROPULSION. THE FASTEST WAY UP IN NUCLEAR ENGINEERING.

If you want to get into nuclear engineering, start by getting into the Nuclear Navy.

The Navy operates more than half the reactors in America. So our nuclear training is the most comprehensive you can get. You start by earning your commission as a Navy Officer. Then we give you a year of advanced nuclear technology, training that would cost you thousands if you could get it in graduate school. During your career, you'll get practical, hands-on experience with our nuclear powered fleet. Maybe you'll work on a nuclear submarine, maybe a nuclear cruiser. But wherever you work, you'll really get to prove your worth—as a young Nuclear Propulsion Officer entrusted with the most advanced technical equipment known to man.

If that sounds like the kind of responsibility you're looking for, speak to your Navy recruiter. He can tell you if you qualify as a Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate. Or call toll free 800-841-8000. (In Georgia, 800-342-5855.)

Navy Nuclear Propulsion Officer. Some men wait for the future. He lives it now.

NAVY OFFICER. IT'S NOT JUST A JOB, IT'S AN ADVENTURE.

"There are a lot of people who, perhaps for political reasons, are concerned about the number of students who vote," Coleman said. "However, the board needs to know the names of these folks (those denied the right to register) before it can do anything."
 Coleman, Drakeford and Nassif all said they do not know which registrar is involved. The improper questioning supposedly occurred at the Carrboro Town Hall on Oct. 3, 4 or 6.
 Nassif said Friday he would ask officials of the N.C. Board of Elections and the U.S. Internal Revenue Service if the question regarding the student's tax status is valid.
 "It's obvious if someone has been here 20 or 30 days this may be the line of questioning," Nassif said. "For someone who has been here 20 or 30 years, it's a little different."
 "Actually, most any question can be asked. The issue is whether the question is pertinent."
 Nassif noted the similarity of Drakeford's allegations and charges made by the Orange County Committee in February and March.
 "Last spring we were challenged because we registered too many students," Nassif said. "Now we're being charged with registering too few students."
 The Orange Committee unsuccessfully petitioned the state elections board last spring to purge the names of 2,000 UNC students from voter registration books, saying the students were illegally registered to vote in Orange County.
