

Big Four Tournament

Carolina and Duke meet in the opener tonight

By GENE UPCHURCH
Sports Editor

Back during those warm summer evenings this year, some of the ACC's best basketball players got together to play some pickup games and have some fun. Players like Carolina's Phil Ford and Duke's Gene Banks played hard, then sat back, talked and watched the others play.

But there won't be any of that hand-shakin', back-slappin' friendliness tonight when many of those same players gather in the Big Four tournament in Greensboro.

In the first round at 7 p.m., Carolina and Duke, two of the most evenly matched opponents in the Atlantic Coast Conference, square off. Then, at 9 p.m., Wake Forest and N.C. State meet. The losers of these games meet Saturday at 7 p.m., while the championship game follows at 9 p.m.

Duke is relying heavily on the performance of its sensational freshman

Lady cagers to face ASU

The Carolina women's basketball team, coming off a 82-47 win over Virginia Union in its season opener Tuesday night, travels to Boone Friday for a 7 p.m. contest with Appalachian State.

Coach Jennifer Alley, who called the Virginia Union win a "confidence builder," expects a good basketball game.

"Appalachian is always tough. It will be a close one. If our defense plays tight we could possibly break it open," Alley said.

Alley is not the only person looking for a close Division I battle. Appalachian State Coach Judy Clark said she knew the game would be very close.

"We play a different type of game and have a different type of strategy, but we expect to give them a good game. It will be a close one," Clark said.

Clark's team is led by two starters from last season, Carol Almond and Madeline Froch. Almond, an All-Conference selection last year, was the Division I leader in assists as she tallied 101 during the 1976-77 season. Froch is a 6-foot-1 center.

Alley has not decided on a starting lineup either, but said she may go with all veteran players. She listed juniors Fran Hardison, Cathy Shoemaker and Linda Matthews and sophomores Bernadette McGlade and Kathy Sapp as possible starters. She also pointed out freshman Aprille Shaffer as a possible starter.

The game is the season opener for Appalachian State, a factor which Alley says may make the game closer. "I hate this is their opener. They have been practicing for a long time and all they want to do is play. They can kill you if they make their minds up to do it."

Club Rams in semis

The Carolina Rams club football team will host Davidson at 2 p.m. Saturday on the Astroturf in the semifinals of the state club football playoffs. No admission charged.

Appalachian State plays UNC-Wilmington in the other semifinals game.

Banks to help reconstruct a program that has faltered in recent years. Banks has played impressively in preseason and early season games, and the Blue Devils think an indication of things to come for them will be tonight against the Tar Heels. Banks joins a tough front line of Mike Gminski and Kenny Dennard.

Banks suffered a hip pointer in practice this week, but it's not expected to hinder his performance. Mike O'Koren, Carolina's tough sophomore forward, suffered a similar injury before the Tar Heels' opener against Oregon State and led Carolina with 21 points.

Carolina and Duke both are undefeated in the young season. Carolina ran to 31- and 26-point wins in two games over Oregon State, while the Blue Devils have had little trouble downing the relatively easy teams on their early schedule.

Even though Carolina's margins during the first two wins were large, it's hard to tell how well the team has progressed. After winning so easily in the first game over the Beavers, the Tar Heels had difficulty settling down for the second game. Sloppy play, numerous turnovers and fouls marked it, but every player saw action.

O'Koren, Ford and Rich Yonakor have been important point producers for Carolina so far. Dudley Bradley has not had hot-shooting games but had his hand in on many turnovers. Reserves have seen considerable action, with Jeff Wolf, Geff Crompton and John Virgil making big contributions.

Wake Forest has won the seven-year-old tournament four times, including the last three. State has won it three times and Carolina once.

All four teams in the tournament have 2-0 records.

Heels in state women's meet

Carolina's women's swim team and its coaches are a bit perplexed over N.C. State's being ranked higher than the Heels in a poll in a national swim magazine.

Swimming World, which UNC head swimming coach Frank Comfort calls "the Bible of swimming," ranked State seventh in the nation in preseason and UNC ninth. Carolina finished ahead of State in the AIAW nationals last year and lost no one to graduation, while the Pack lost a couple of swimmers. The ranking could be justified by a strong freshman class at State.

But both teams will get a good indication of just how accurate the rankings are when they meet in the North Carolina AIAW championships today and Saturday in Raleigh. Duke, Appalachian State and East Carolina round out the field.

"This is not going to be just fun and games," co-captain Bonnie Brown said. "It's going to be a tough meet."

Comfort, although in Pennsylvania with the men's team, says "We are putting tremendous emphasis on this meet and State is putting tremendous emphasis on this meet. It will be a great confrontation."

First-year assistant coaches Alan Toll and Susan Allen will direct the women's efforts.

While the struggle for first place should be between Carolina and State, Duke could challenge.

"On the top they have a couple of girls that can cause a lot of trouble," Brown said. "They'll take away points that we need to win," she said.

The two-day meet will feature sprints (50- and 100-yard races), 200-yard individual medley and relays, and the 500-yard free.

State boasts top sprinters; Carolina looks to its depth.

"It's going to be our quantity against their quality," Brown said.

Amos Lawrence

Lawrence top rookie

RALEIGH (UPI) — North Carolina freshman tailback Amos Lawrence was the near unanimous choice of the Atlantic Coast Conference Sports Writers Association as this year's rookie of the year. It was announced Thursday.

Lawrence, who rushed for 1,211 yards in 10 games and averaged 6.3 yards per carry, also was named to the All-ACC backfield along with backs Ted Brown of North Carolina State and James McDougald of Wake Forest.

The slender, elusive, 180-pound freshman was chosen rookie of the year by all but one of the 124 association members.

He did not play in the Tar Heel's season opener against Kentucky, but quickly proved his worth in a 8-2-1 season finish and the ACC championship.

He rushed for more than 100 yards in six of 10 games and set a league rushing record and a NCAA freshman record by gaining 286 yards against Virginia.

Heel JV soccer in state semifinals

Carolina's junior varsity soccer team has advanced to the semifinals of the state tournament and will play the Hendersonville soccer club Saturday in Greensboro for the right to play in the finals.

Carolina has only one loss all season in a league with 24 teams and has beaten teams in adult senior leagues.

Housing department issues $3,500 in rebates

Freshmen tripled in dormitory rooms have received rebates totalling nearly $3,500 since the UNC Department of Housing began the refund program two months ago, according to the department's records.

Since the rebate program began Oct. 5, 123 of the 159 freshmen still living three and sometimes four to a room as of Oct. 3 have gotten a refund on their dormitory rent.

The refunds are given only to students who were still tripled on Oct. 3, thus excluding 313 of the 372 freshmen tripled at the beginning of the semester. These students were reassigned to less crowded campus housing during August and September.

The rebate is computed from Aug. 21, the day after residence halls opened to freshmen, to the day the third roommate received his relocation offer from the Department of Housing. An additional two days are added to give the student time to move. Each student living in the crowded room receives a rebate.

To calculate the rebate amount, the number of nights students were crowded is multiplied by 20 percent of the nightly rate for that particular residence hall. An average-priced hall rate is $2.28 per night. Twenty percent of this figure is 46 cents.

Using the computation process, if three students have been tripled from Aug. 21 to Nov. 30, each roommate will receive $46.46.

The refunded money will be credited to the student's account with the University Cashier, where it may be left as credit toward other charges. If the student chooses, he may request a refund two weeks after the third roommate has relocated.

Twelve freshmen males still have to move from the remaining crowded rooms, a spokesperson for the Department of Housing said Tuesday. This leaves 36 students who will receive a rebate. Relocation offers have been given to these 12 students, but the department has not received their answers to the offers.

These 12 men and their roommates will receive higher rebates because they have been tripled for most of the fall semester.

UPI honors Hardison

Carolina senior tackle Dee Hardison was named to the second-team United Press International All-America squad announced Thursday.

Atlantic Coast Conference players receiving honorable mention were Wake Forest's Steve Young and Larry Teary and Clemson's Joe Bostic.

Hardison was named to the Associated Press first-team All-America squad earlier this week.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"
Psalms 2:1 and Acts 4:25
"Ye that love the Lord hate evil! ... Take thou away from me the noise of thy songs; for I will not hear the melody of thy viols. But let judgment run down as waters and righteousness as a mighty stream!" Psalm 7:10 and Amos 5:23 and 24.
One may love the great hymns and music of the Church, but if one does not "hate evil" it appears God does not appreciate the music, and it is unacceptable!
"I have thought of my life as an arrow shot out of a bow: For a moment it is seen as it takes its flight across the landscape, then drops into obscurity. Let me be a man of ONE BOOK, THE BIBLE, and let me walk in its light for my own safety and that of my fellow men, that when I drop out of sight into obscurity I may be "Safe in The Arms of Jesus." — This is not an accurate quote, but it is based on a statement of John Wesley. In one respect it is suggested he was mistaken, for the light his life reflected of The One Book has shined not for moment but through centuries and has been seen across a very limited landscape not at all, but across the landscape of most of the world. He, and "The people called Methodists" "Loved The Lord, and hated evil" in obedience to the command of God. They were especially noted, and offensive to many, for rebuking sin wherever they saw it — the sin of "any want of conformity unto or transgression of The Law of God." Often they suffered for it, but the reason they gave for "giving offense" was that they must "deliver their own souls" for they did not warn men of God's wrath and curse to come upon the unrepentant. God would require the blood of lost souls at their hands. Read Ezekiel 3:17, etc., and chapters 18 and 33.
"The heart in your bosom is a 'muffled drum' beating out a march to the cemetery for you!" When they take you and me to the cemetery for deposit, it is because our spirit has left his "home of clay" and gone to its "long home," and back to God Who gave it. The Bible tells of two different kinds of "long homes." One where "eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard, neither hath entered the mind of man the things God hath prepared for them that love Him." — a man's mind is not capable of thinking of or imagining the great good, job and blessing of that home.
We mouth much about "The love of God," but it would be well if we considered more "our love for God" and how and in what manner it is manifested. Jesus Christ said that in order that the world might know that He loved God, He obeyed Him and did as He was commanded: "Arise and let us go hence!" He arose, and went to meet the mob, the cross, as most of His disciples fled.
The other "long home" is the "lake of fire" prepared for the devil and his angels, for raging and unrepentant men and nations, for "God is angry with the wicked every day" and "The wicked shall be turned into hell, and all the nations that forget God." Psalm 7:11 and Psalm 9:17. "It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment." Hebrew 9:27. The judgment, that appointment will tell the story, as the hand-writing on the wall did in the 5th chapter of Daniel. whether or not we are "weighed and found wanting."
