Pizza Hut gets new roof

Chapel Hill will soon be the home of the most unusual Pizza Hut out of the over 3,000 in existence. The company will rent space in the renovated, but not red-roofed, Pure Building, formerly the home of the Campus Party Store. Staff photo by Allan Jernigan.

The pizza controversy is over. After heated opposition and architectural changes, Pizza Hut has found a home at 112 W. Franklin St.

Out of character with its usual design, the Pizza Hut will be located in the renovated Campus Party Store Building and is scheduled to open Feb. 6.

"There are 3,000 Pizza Huts in the world, and there is not another one like this," Dave Morris of Pizza Hut said.

The refurbished building where the Pizza Hut is located will be called the Pure Building, after the Pure Oil station what was once on the property.

In addition to the Pizza Hut, Owen Gwyn, owner of the property, will rent spaces to Wedge and Racket, a golf and tennis shop; and electrical supply and repair shop; and Three Witches, a gift store.

The Pizza Hut has been in developmental stages for almost a year. Gwyn decided last March not to rent the property to Pizza Hut after battling with the town for two months.

Pizza Hut was not given a building permit because Alderman Robert Epting appealed issuance of the permit to the board of adjustment. The appeal failed, but because Pizza Hut had not submitted a local developmental-impact assessment, the permit was delayed further.

Robert Page, a local lawyer representing Pizza Hut, threatened to challenge the assessment requirement in court. He contended the requirement was not established until after the building permit was approved.

It was at this point that Gwyn decided not to rent to Pizza Hut because of town inconsistencies. He said he felt the project had met all guidelines.

Last summer Gwyn decided to renovate the building to make it acceptable to the town.

Morris said it was difficult to convince the Pizza Hut parent company to accept a non-image building, but because the business wanted to be on Franklin Street so badly, it consented. Morris said Pizza Hut has been looking for a Franklin Street location for about six years.

Epting had maintained that a Pizza Hut with parking in front would create traffic problems and change the character of Franklin Street. The newly styled Pizza Hut meets his approval, he said Thursday.

"The building is a landmark now," Epting said. "It pleases me that Pizza Hut has come to take part in the community and hasn't tried to give us 'Anywhere, USA.'"

Flu brought by out-of-staters?

A few students with flu-like symptoms — coughing, muscle aches and fever up to 103 degrees — have trudged to the Student Health Service this week, and doctors there say they feel the number of student flu cases may increase in coming weeks.

Outbreaks of Type A2 Texas influenza in Pennsylvania and New Jersey are confirmed in the latest information from the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, and Dr. James McCutchan of the Student Health Service speculates that the strain may have been carried back to Chapel Hill by students who went home to those states for Christmas.

"Influenza does what it wants to do," McCutchan said. "I would guess there's going to be more cases, but that's not scientific."

McCutchan said he is hesitant to label any one case of illness as influenza, due to the expense of lab confirmation of the illness.

"It costs $30 to find out if what you've got is flu, and then they'll tell you to take aspirin. Most people would take the aspirin first and save the $30."

Chapel Hill is one of the hot spots statewide, according to Dr. J. M. McCormick of the state Communicable Disease Control Branch.

Most confirmed cases have been the A2 Texas strain, McCormick said, but that strain is related to last year's A2 Victoria, so there is some degree of immunity in the general population.

An outbreak of influenza in Russia, however, poses a greater threat because it is not related to either the Texas or Victoria strains.

McCormick said the Russian strain may appear in this country this year or next and would particularly affect young people born since 1957, since a similar strain has not appeared in the United States since then.

EARN OVER $650 A MONTH RIGHT THROUGH YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you're a junior or a senior majoring in math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It's called the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate-Collegiate Program (NUPOC-C for short) and if you qualify, you can earn as much as $650 a month right through your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you'll receive an additional year of advanced technical education. This would cost you thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy, we pay you. And at the end of the year of training, you'll receive a $3,000 cash bonus.

It isn't easy. There are fewer than 400 openings and only one of every six applicants will be selected. But if you make it, you'll have qualified for an elite engineering training program. With unequalled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, and gilt-edged qualifications for jobs in private industry should you decide to leave the Navy later. (But we don't think you'll want to.)

Ask your placement officer to set up an interview with a Navy representative when he visits the campus or contact your Navy representative at 919-872-2005 (collect). If you prefer, send your résumé to the Navy Nuclear Officer Program, Code 312-B468, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22203, and a Navy representative will contact you directly. The NUPOC-Collegiate Program. It can do more than help you finish college: it can lead to an exciting career opportunity.
