

When you take away the uniform and the lifestyle what have you got?

The Job.
The Coast Guard's involved in things like saving lives, fighting pollution, enforcing the law, and maintaining navigational systems. They're big jobs and they're important jobs. To the country and to the people who do them. And you could be involved in one of them after just 18 weeks in Officer Candidate School in Yorktown, Va.

As an officer in the Coast Guard you would be in a position of responsibility and leadership. It's a challenging job. One where you'll prove to yourself and others that the 4 years you spent in college were well worth it.

The Pay & Benefits.
As an Ensign in the Coast Guard, your starting salary will be over $10,000 a year. During your first 3 years, normal promotion and seniority will increase your salary by over 40%. Along with that come generous living allowances and benefits. Your medical and dental care is free. If you get married, your family also receives medical coverage. If you make the Coast Guard your career, you can apply for post-graduate training. And if you're selected, we'll pay your tuition plus keep you on full salary while you're attending school.

There's also a generous retirement plan if you stay with us for at least 20 years. That's something you won't find with many private companies.

The Opportunities.
The jobs the Coast Guard does are anything but ordinary. Which means that doing those jobs will pay off in training and experience that is anything but ordinary. You'll develop skills in management and leadership that will be invaluable to you and your career. Skills you can use whether you stay in the Coast Guard or not.

And you'll be able to travel. A Coast Guard Officer doesn't stay put. Your assignment could be in any of a variety of locations around the country or overseas.

The Future.
As with any job you're interested in now, the future has got to be an important consideration. Where's the job going to lead you? In the Coast Guard your future is, to say the least, expandable. Whether you make it a career or not, the experience and skills you'll develop will be hard to match anywhere else. The most important of which will be the skill of handling yourself in a management situation. Because that's what you'll be involved in on the first day of your job as a Coast Guard Officer. And when you've got that kind of experience, you can use it anywhere.

EPC to hear pass-fail views today

The Faculty Council's Educational Policy Committee will hold an open hearing on the pass-fail option at 3:30 p.m. today in 310 Davis Hall.

Vaida Thompson, committee chairperson, said she doesn't expect any changes in policy as a result of the hearing, but she encouraged students to attend.

Thompson said she has received written statements from a number of faculty members on the subject.

Many faculty members have expressed concern that the present policy allows students to do a minimum of work and still receive a passing grade.

EPC members are concerned about the effect pass-fail grades may have on a student's transcript when he submits an application to graduate schools.

"Several pass-fail courses may not hurt a student, but many courses make me wonder about the motivation of a student," said Nancy Murray, an assistant dean in the UNC Masters of Business Administration program. "It is also harder to evaluate a transcript if a student has taken several courses pass-fail."
