Local, professional talent to perform at 'Que Pasa?'

By KATHY MORRILL because of occasional location changes.

Staff Writer

Are you getting tired of just mixing and barhopping on Thursday nights? Want some real entertainment?

"Oue Pasa?" offers a variety of entertainment, including magicians, speakers, films, dancers and musicians at 8 p.m. every Thursday in Gerrard Hall. Oue Pasa? is a new, continuing program sponsored by the UNC Social Committee. It replaces Deep Jonah.

"The goal of Que Pasa? is to provide a center of unique programming on the campus which will involve local students and professional talent," said Bill Steigerwald, Social Committee chairperson.

Most shows will be in Gerrard Hall, but students should check the .. Daily Tar Heel Campus Calendar every week said Steigerwald.

"We want Que Pasa? to be more like a small concert than a coffeehouse, and that's why we're moving it out of Deen Jonah," Steigerwald said. "Also, Deep Jonah only held 49 people because of fire regulations. Gerrald Hall can hold 350 comfortably.'

Tonight's program is "Dance, Magic. and Music." It will feature a belly-dancer. magician and guitar duo and will be in Gerrard Hall, next to the Campus Y.

On Oct. 12, the program will move to Great Hall and will feature travelingblues and folk singer Paul Geremia.

The Social Committee welcomes suggestions for upcoming shows. Students with suggestions should call Bill Steigerwald at 933-2257 or drop by Suite A of the Union.

Student vote urged on Carrboro bonds

By TERRI HUNT Staff Writer

Carrboro city officials now are heading a drive to get student voters registered by Tuesday so the students can vote in the Nov. 7 election.

As well as a senate and congressional seat, $2 million worth of bonds for Carrboro are at stake that day. The bonds would pay for items, including the construction of a bike path and swimming pool.

The bonds include:

· Recreation facilities bonds for a 40acre land purchase, a 25-meter swimming pool designed for competitive and leisure swimming, baseball and open fields and a 2.1 mile bicycle path extending along N.C. 54 bypass, Jones Ferry Road, Carr Street and the railroad tracks to Chapel Hill at Cameron Avenue.

· Fire station building bonds for expansion and remodeling of the fire station.

 Public building bonds for citizen and handicap access modifications to the town hall building and expansion of the public works building.

· Land acquisition bonds for purchasing land for the future site of a fire substation and expansion of the public works vard.

"I'm amazed at the number of students who don't know about the bonds," Melva Okun, information coordinator for the bond issues, said.

Okun, who has been conducting a door-to-door campaign to inform the public about the bond issues, said it is important that voters realize they can vote on each bond individually. If one bond is defeated, the other bonds still can be approved, she said.

living in Carrboro register to vote, because the bike paths will be of great importance to them," Okun said. "The path is designed to serve the apartment complexes in the area where mostly students live."

To be eligible to vote in the Nov. 7 election, students must register by Tuesday. Registration will be from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. today and Tuesday at the Carrboro Town Hall, and on Tuesday night from 7-9 p.m.

Students registering need to take two forms of identification showing a current Carrboro address and be prepared to declare Carrboro as their permanent residence for at least an indefinite period.

"The whole process only takes about five minutes," Okun said. "The law requires that you need to have lived here at least 30 days prior to the election, so you could have moved here by Oct. 7 and still be able to register and vote."

Anyone interested in the position of 1979 Orientation Commission Chairperson should leave name and telephone number in Box 17, Carolina Union. Preliminary interviews will be scheduled within one week.
