News in Brief

Ford: Carter's carrier veto a mistake
CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Former President Gerald Ford said Sunday he will not enter debate over President Carter's veto of a nuclear aircraft carrier. But, he said, "There's nothing like having more than enough."
"I happen to believe very strongly that carrier capability is absolutely essential to the future and has proven to be vital since the 1940s," said the former president. "I'm not going to get into the current discussion as to a nuclear carrier. My record is clear in the budget of 1977."

Beirut cease-fire seems to be holding
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — East Beirut's Christians emerged cautiously from their basement shelters for the first time in 10 days Sunday as a Syrian-Christian cease-fire appeared to be holding, except for an isolated outbreak of sniper fire.
Political leaders in this half-Moslem, half-Christian nation were skeptical about the chances for success of the truce, declared Saturday, unless the talks between President Elias Sarkis and Syrian President Hafez Assad in Damascus produce an overall agreement. The two were scheduled to meet again Sunday.
Beirut police estimated that 1,300 Lebanese were killed and more than 2,000 wounded in the 10 days of fighting. The Syrians have not reported their casualties.

Nutrition research falls behind the times
WASHINGTON (AP) — Although federal nutrition research successfully dealt with the nation's food needs in the past, it has failed to adjust to the changing health problems of the population, says a congressional advisory group.
The Office of Technology Assessment said in a report released Sunday that there has been little research on the long-term effects of the abundant diet consumed by most Americans, even though diet may be a major factor in such illnesses as heart disease and cancer.

Spaniards arrived in Jamestown first
WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government publication says Spanish explorers established the first settlement in the eastern United States at almost the same spot in Virginia where Englishmen were to build Jamestown nearly a century later.
Citing a historian's book published in 1893 and apparently forgotten since then, it gives the date as 1526, only 34 years after Christopher Columbus made his first voyage of discovery to the New World.
The publication also says that on the same expedition, a Spanish explorer named Estaban Gomez gave the name Rio de San Antonio to the waterway known today as the Hudson River. That was 80 years before English sea captain Henry Hudson discovered the river, the authors say.

Economic plans said nearly ready
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Walter Mondale said Sunday the administration's new anti-inflation program has been largely decided but is not expected to be announced until after Congress adjourns for the year.
There have been reports that the plan will include voluntary wage and price guidelines with the government putting pressure on both labor and business to abide by them.

N.C. leaders divided on splitting education, HEW

RALEIGH Private and public college representatives clashed at a Friday meeting of a legislative panel studying state aid for private schools.
Joseph Greer, vice chairperson of the North Carolina Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, told panel members that without increased state aid to limit the increasing tuition gap between public and private colleges, many private schools face extinction.
"Increased state funding is sure to be required as inflation continues," Greer said. "Your task is to determine whether students will continue to have the option of going to a private college, or whether they will be priced out of the market."
Greer said the present legislative aid program has been responsible for the current halt in declining private college enrollments.
The state presently awards $200 to each needy North Carolina resident attending an accredited private college in the Tar Heel State. In addition, the General Assembly provides a $400 tuition grant for each full-time undergraduate at a private college, regardless of personal need. In a letter to the UNC Board of Governors, the independent colleges on Sept. 27 requested an additional $200 per student through the tuition grant program.
The association also recommended the state provide aid to undergraduate students at private colleges, up to one-half the average cost to the state for each full-time undergraduate enrolled in the 16-campus University system.
The joint House-Senate committee to study private college assistance, co-chaired by Rep. J.T. Pugh of Asheboro and Sen. Robert Wynne of Raleigh, is considering the association's suggestion and will report to the 1979 General Assembly.
Roy Carroll of Appalachian State University, chairperson of the 16-campus UNC Faculty Council, told the committee Friday that for private colleges, no real crisis exists that calls for an immediate and significant increase in state financial support.
"It does not seem fair to us to commit more money to the private schools when there are unmet needs at the public colleges," Carroll said. "Here we have one more claimant to state funds, and the prospect of more than a token salary increase for UNC faculty in the next session of the General Assembly looks bleak."
"What merits the 50 percent increase in the tuition grant program?" Carroll asked. "Private institutions are more numerous than ever."
