

Hayes opposed for first time in county race

By CAM JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Although candidates for two Orange County political offices say they will not campaign to win the November elections, a political newcomer in a third race will face an incumbent who has not been challenged for 24 years.

ABS to offer pre-registration aid

The Association of Business Students will conduct a pre-registration advising service to deal with questions about the business major that may arise during freshman and sophomore pre-registration.

The service will be offered during the week of Oct. 30 and will be located at the top of the stairs on the third floor of of deeds, incumbent Democrat Betty June Hayes is facing her first Republican challenger since being elected in 1954. Sheriff C.D. "Buck" Knight is unchallenged in his bid to retain the office he has held since 1959.

In the race for Orange County Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, three of the five candidates contacted said they will do no South Building. Hours will vary, but they will be posted in the main lobby of Carroll Hall and at the ABS office, 210 Carroll Hall. Appointments will not be necessary.

The service will be open to anyone with questions, but it will be geared mainly toward freshmen and sophomores, says Betsy Levy, chairperson of the Orientation and Evaluation Committee of the ABS.

The ABS has offered the service for the past two semesters, and Levy says it has been pretty effective.

"The main purpose is to make sure students have the prerequisites before it's too late," Levy says.

campaigning for the two openings on the board.

Hayes, from Hillsborough, is challenged by Carolyn Griffin of Chapel Hill, who called Hayes' 24-year unchallenged incumbency a disgrace to Orange County. "I think the people are ready for change, ready to turn out fixtures," Griffin said.

Before being elected register in 1954, Hayes served seven years as assistant register of deeds. She had no opposition in the May Democratic primary.

The register of deeds office administers North Carolina laws covering land titles and birth, death and marriage records.

Hayes said her record of service and legislative contacts makes her more qualified for the job. She has served as program director and chairperson of the North Carolina Register of Deeds Association, a lobbying group in the state legislature.

"I have no platform except the service I've rendered and the experience I've gained," Hayes said. "We have to make changes the way we register land titles. With the background and experience I have, I'm the best qualified to make sure they go forward."

Griffin said she feels confident she can do the job although she has no experience with land records. "I don't have any particular thing which says I can do this job, but I have worked at public jobs," she said.

Griffin, who worked at the UNC payroll office for two years, is a substitute traffic attendant at the Chapel Hill municipal parking lots.

Both candidates said their campaigns consist of personal contacts and newspaper advertising. Hayes said most of her campaign money comes from her own pocket. She added that she has donated money to the county Democratic Party, which is printing brochures for Democratic candidates.

Griffin said she has received funds from the county Republican Party and has solicited donations from private citizens.

Neither candidate would reveal how much money has been spent or collected. Under state law, campaign finance reports are to be filed by Oct. 30 with the Orange County Board of Elections.

Sheriff Buck Knight, the unchallenged candidate who needs only one vote to retain the seat he's held for 19 years, said the major goal of his next term will be to increase his staff of 29 deputies.

In the race for Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, candidates contacted said they are not campaigning because they feel the board is not a political one.

The Orange Soil and Water Conservation Office is charged with advising building contractors, developers and private citizens who ask for help in limiting soil erosion and preventing water pollution.

Clayton Hithcock, candidate for the board from Hillsborough, gave a typical reaction. "You can't afford to spend a bunch of money trying to gain an office which offers service to people," he said.

AAD to hold meeting tonight

Problems with your landlord? The Association of Apartment Dwellers and the Carolina Union will sponsor a workshop on dealing with landlords at 8 tonight in Room 209 of the Carolina Union.

Julia Wood of the UNC speech department will outline various strategies for diplomacy between tenants and landlords at the workshop. Methods for dealing with problems such as ignored repair requests and the failure of a landlord to return a security deposit also will be covered.

"It won't be a forum type of thing," says Cary Ulman, AAD co-chairperson. "It will be more like an interpersonal workshop—along the lines of a training workshop."

Landlords as well as apartment dwellers and other interested persons are invited to attend the workshop. Role-playing exercises involving common situations that arise between residents and landlords will follow Dr. Wood's presentation.

"We're trying to present strategies persons can use to get what they want from landlords," says Ulman.

Chapel Hill Transportation Director Bob Godding said a final version of the Highway and Transit Bill still must be worked out and a formula for the distribution of the funds decided on before Chapel Hill can begin to put together an application for the funds.

"I expect it to be next October before we begin to receive the federal funds," Godding said.

Is it sick to love a pen?

Is it crazy to love marker pens that give you the smoothest, thinnest line in town...and feel so right in your hand? Is it mad to worship pens with clever little metal "collars" to keep their plastic points from getting squishy?
Not if the pen is a Pilot marker pen.
Our Razor Point, at only 69c, gives the kind of extra-fine delicate line you'll flip over. And for those times you want a little less line, have a fling with our fine point 59c Fineline. It has the will and fortitude to actually write through carbons.
So, don't settle for a casual relationship. Get yourself a lasting one, or two, to have and to hold...at your college book store.

News in Brief

New pope installed in Vatican ceremony

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John Paul II assumed the throne of St. Peter Sunday before one of the largest crowds in Vatican history and reached out symbolically to Roman Catholics in the Soviet bloc.

Like his predecessor, John Paul I, the new pope decided against the traditional crowning with the beehive-shaped papal tiara, and against being carried by a dozen footmen in the gilded, portable throne.

Progress reported in SALT II talks

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. and Soviet negotiators wound up almost eight hours of talks late Sunday without reporting a breakthrough on a new treaty to limit strategic arms. But Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance sounded an optimistic note in describing the day's second round of talks as "constructive," according to a Vance spokesman.

Though no details were provided by U.S. officials, it seemed clear that after outlining their position in the morning the Soviets had refined their proposals in a gesture of compromise when they returned to the table in the Kremlin.

Administration plans new energy program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Carter administration, with one big energy victory behind it, is preparing a second energy program to close what it views as gaps in the first plan.

Federal energy officials say the new plan will be aimed more at boosting U.S. energy supplies than was the big energy bill passed in the closing hours of the 95th Congress.

And Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger disclosed to reporters last week that it will include some kind of proposed tax on oil intended to curb imports. But whether the tax will be a warmed-over version of Carter's rejected crude-oil tax or the "windfall profits tax" preferred by oil companies and their allies in Congress remains an open question.

Natural gas shortage to ease next year

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Authorities say one effect of the controversial energy act just passed by Congress will be to ease North Carolina's chronic natural gas shortage.

The company that supplies the state's natural gas, Transco Companies Inc. of Houston, will be able to buy gas in Texas and Louisiana that had been withheld from interstate pipelines because producers could get a higher price at home, according to corporation president Jack Bowen. Under current federal law, all natural gas is sold at the same federal prices.
