

Soccer beats Terps, 1-0

COLLEGE PARK, Md.—Sophomore John Fernandez scored on a direct penalty kick with 6:23 left in the second overtime period to give UNC a 1-0 ACC soccer victory over Maryland Wednesday.

Fernandez's goal past Terrapin goalkeeper Sid Kaufman was his fourth of the season, and he is now tied with Steve Scott for the point lead on the UNC team with 12.

The Tar Heels raised their record to 10-2-4 overall and 3-1-1 in the ACC. Maryland fell to 5-5-2 overall and 1-2-0 in ACC action.

Carolina goalie Kevin Kane recorded his eighth shutout of the year. He had nine saves, while the Terrapins fired 17 shots on goal. UNC totaled 11 shots, with Maryland goalkeepers Larry Howell and Kaufman combining for four saves.

UNC has three games remaining on its schedule—with Old Dominion Nov. 4 in Chapel Hill, Nov. 8 at East Carolina and Nov. 11 at home against Davidson.

UNC still has hopes of an NCAA regional tournament bid. "If we win the rest of our games we're in a good position for a bid," Coach Anson Dorrance said.

Hawaii baseball trip open to fans

Any student interested in traveling with the UNC baseball team to Hawaii over spring break should contact Coach Mike Roberts in 137 Carmichael Auditorium for information about price, dates and travel plans.

The Tar Heels will play six games over the break. Roberts said that there is space on the chartered flight for 100 persons, and extra spots not taken by the team members and coaches will be open to students and fans. Headquarters for the trip will be the Sheraton Waikiki.

Facing life and death with Jesus

By MICHAEL CORDTS
Rochester Democrat and Chronicle

Debra Barnard is a 24-year-old widow who is facing life the same way her husband, Clayton, faced death July 10 at St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester, N.Y.

"Jesus is with me. He'll give me the direction," she said. "Clayton had no fear of dying. He knew he was going to heaven and I know he now has perfect peace."

Barnard was on Carolina's wrestling team the past two seasons and had just landed his first full-time job out of college when he learned he had acute leukemia last spring. His acceptance of his affliction was complete. He died at age 23 on July 10 with his wife at his side.

"There was no preparation," Mrs. Barnard said. "We're Christians and Christ was the center of Clayton's life. Jesus is so kind. He gives joy in any situation."

Barnard transferred to Carolina in 1976 after being named an NCAA Division III All-American three years in a row at Ashland College in Ohio. Because of NCAA regulations he had to be red-shirted his first year at UNC but was counted on by Coach Bill Lam to wrestle at 167 pounds his senior year. He finished first in the 1977 Carolina Invitational.

"He was just a fantastic guy, a real leader," teammate Dean Brior said. "Clayton was a standout Christian man who always had eight or 10 things going on at the same time."

Mrs. Debra Barnard will speak at 7:15 tonight in the Rams Room of Kenan Field House as part of a Fellowship of Christian Athletes program. The public is invited.

A month before the ACC tournament this spring, a cold developed into pneumonia, but doctors didn't find anything seriously wrong with Barnard. He graduated and went North to begin student teaching.

On June 2, Barnard felt tired and listless. His appetite disappeared and on June 9 he entered St. Mary's Hospital for tests. The next day his sister was married and the doctor summoned the family to the hospital after the ceremony.

The Rev. Donald Riling of the Christian Center Church in Brockport was summoned to the hospital. "I was touched," the preacher said. "He had no fear. He said he'd been a fighter and a wrestler all his life. It was a new challenge for him."

"His wife is just as amazing. I know one thing, Clayton would've been famous had he lived. Clayton belonged to an incredible family and he had a smile on his face through the whole ordeal."

Barnard's prowess on the wrestling mat made him a town hero in Hilton, N.Y. In 1973 he was the Monroe County champion in his weight class, the Section Five champion, the state freestyle champion and finished third in the AAU state tournament.

He won the John J. Ordiway award as Section Five's outstanding wrestler. Ordiway was an outstanding wrestler who died of leukemia eight years ago.

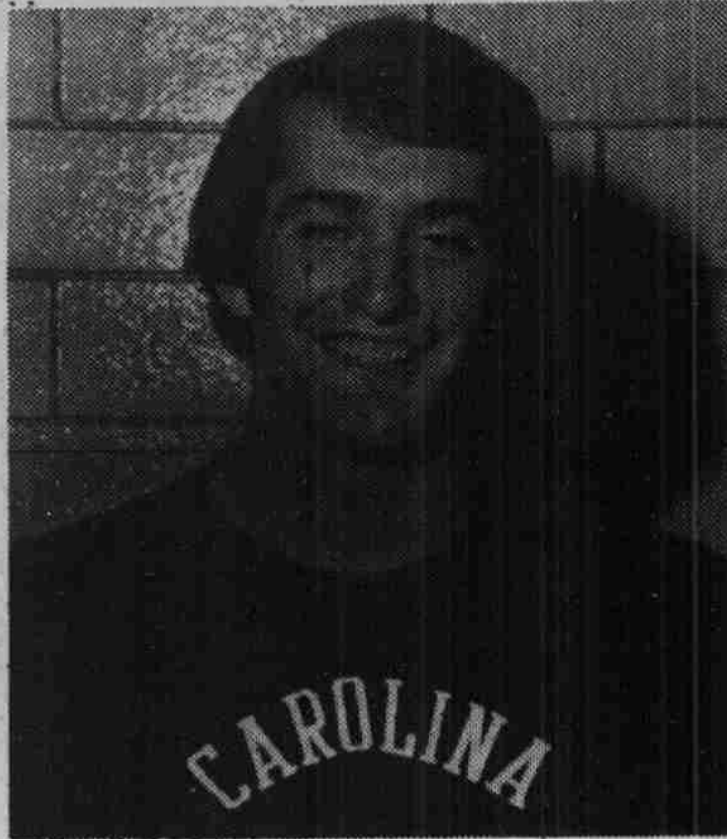

Barnard was his high school's senior athlete of the year and the president of the National Honor Society. David Toth of Brighton recruited Barnard to study and wrestle at Ashland College. He also introduced Barnard to his future wife.

"We started going to a Christian dating class as friends and two weeks later decided to get married," Mrs. Barnard said. "We didn't tell anyone for four weeks because we didn't want to shock our friends. We both felt God directed us to marry."

They exchanged vows in July of 1976, shortly before Barnard transferred to UNC to pursue a teaching career. He and his wife were preparing to move to Ohio where Barnard had been hired as a teacher and coach in a church-affiliated school when the listless feeling set in.

But he ended up at St. Mary's, encouraging other patients to accept Christ even though his body was wracked by cancer and aflame from the chemotherapy treatments.

"Clayton talked about those who had to face death without the Lord," his wife said.
