Panel backs 10 percent hike in tuition

RALEIGH (AP)—A legislative subcommittee Thursday recommended a 10 percent tuition increase for in-state students in the 16-campus UNC system. The special panel also proposed an increase of 24 percent in tuition for out-of-state residents. The recommendations were made by a six-member subcommittee of the joint House and Senate appropriations committees on education. Tuition levels vary among the UNC campuses. The subcommittee also agreed to cut in half UNC's tuition remission program for talented students. UNC legislative lobbyist R. D. McMillan said that money is used to pay graduate assistants who also teach in the research programs at some university campuses. He said between 20 percent and 25 percent of the money is also used by the athletic departments at the UNC campuses. The recommendation was to cut $500,000 from the program in the first year and $1 million in the second. "It unquestionably will cripple programs at the research institutes, and athletic programs at all the institutions," McMillan said.

Taiwan to 'swallow the bitter'

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP)—Taiwan will "swallow the bitter" and go along with U.S. plans to handle relations between the countries through private corporations, officials announced Thursday. But they stressed their cooperation will have close government ties. James Soong, director of Taiwan's information office, announced that Taiwan was creating the Coordination Council for North American Affairs to act as the counterpart to the American Institute in Taiwan. Washington established the institute to handle American interests in Taiwan after it broke diplomatic relations with Nationalist China and established ties with communist China on Jan. 1.

Forecast: Economy sinks, gas prices jump

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's economy probably will sink into a mild recession this year, with rising unemployment and an inflation rate stuck at a high level through 1980, a group of the nation's top business leaders said Thursday. Even as the Business Council issued its pessimistic economic forecast, the government reported that industrial output increased only 0.1 percent in January, the smallest amount in a year. And Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal had additional bad news for Americans, saying further increases in oil and gasoline prices are both inevitable and necessary.

Fetus display disrupts abortion seminar

WASHINGTON (AP)—A seminar aimed at studying ways to reduce the number of abortions was disrupted Thursday when a woman displayed a dead fetus on a blue baby blanket. Nancy Hackle, who said she was a member of a group called People Expressing Concern for Everyone, said the outburst was a way of protesting abortion. She said the female fetus had died on Monday. Several women, weeping openly, condemned the tactic at a seminar billed as an effort to bring together women on both sides of the abortion issue for a practical discussion on decreasing the number of terminated pregnancies.

Couples get 'humiliation' damages

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Two black couples are entitled to "humiliation damages" totaling $3,000 because they were assigned rooms in a floor of a Holiday Inn designated for blacks, a state appeals court has ruled. In a 2-1 ruling Wednesday, the Appellate Division of Superior Court ordered the Holiday Inn of Fort Lee to pay the couples $1,500 each because of a policy that placed blacks only in rooms on the second floor of the four-story hotel.

U.S. prepares airlift from Iran

TEHRAN (AP)—The United States readied helicopters and big jets Thursday for a massive airlift of thousands of Americans from Iran, where anti-Americanism is running high and the anti-shah revolutionary alliance is splintering into hostile factions. Bloody fighting raged for the third straight day in the northwest city of Tabriz, where hundreds were reported killed. Unconfirmed reports said rebels seeking local autonomy were battling forces of the provisional government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. In Tehran, Marxist gunmen attacked an apartment building where they said agents of SAVAK, the shah's secret service, were holding out. These "urban guerrillas" have rejected Khomeini's call to turn in their arms, distributed or stolen during last weekend's bloody climax to the year-long anti-shah campaign. Some radicals have denounced the makeup of the five-day-old government as not sufficiently leftist. As the 78-year-old Moslem holy man Khomeini struggled to restore law and order in Iran, the monarch he forced out of the country, Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, moved from one guest house in Morocco to another, a possible sign he is ready for a long stay abroad. "We cannot protect American lives in Iran," said the U.S. Embassy's announcement of the evacuation. "You are allowed one suitcase per person. Evacuation planes will begin flying 17 February."

The Khomeini camp, whose fighters rescued the Americans, identified the attackers as communists and rightists trying to discredit the new regime. Some of the guerrillas described themselves as communists. There are believed to be 7,000 Americans left in Iran, down from a peak of about 45,000 one year ago. U.S. officials hope to reduce the number to about 2,000 with the evacuation. Those expected to remain include skeletal staffs at the embassy and at some corporate headquarters, about 100 American journalists and many Americans married to Iranians. A caller asked Ambassador William Sullivan on Thursday whether Americans could venture out into Tehran's streets. "I wouldn't if I were you," he replied. The embassy was guarded Thursday by armed pro-Khomeini guerrillas. Mehdi Bazargan, prime minister of the Khomeini government, directed that evacuees be given safe passage to Tehran's Mehrabad International Airport and sufficient guards for the movement of 1,000 persons a day. Turkey gave permission to the United States to send five big helicopters and six C-130 transport planes to an air base at Incirlik, southern Turkey, for possible use in the evacuation. Two other U.S. transports were standing by in Athens, Greece. But U.S. officials in Washington said these would be used only in an emergency. The evacuation will begin Saturday with at least two chartered Pan American World Airways jetliners that each can carry about 400 people, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said. It was reported that if needed the helicopters might be used to ferry Americans into Tehran from outlying cities. The Tehran airport is expected to reopen Saturday, when Khomeini has called on all Iranians to end the strikes that crippled the Iranian economy and helped bring down the shah's government. U.S. officials in Washington denied reports that snags had developed in negotiating arrangements for the evacuation with the Iranian government. Anti-Western feelings helped fuel the uprising against the pro-West shah, and harassment and threats against Americans increased in recent weeks as the shah's government weakened and the armed forces withdrew to their barracks or joined the uprising. Probably the biggest group to be evacuated are 1,600 employees of Bell Helicopter International and their dependents. The company had been training Iranian military crews to fly helicopters. Tim Gette, a Bell Helicopter spokesman in Fort Worth, Texas, said employees being withdrawn from Iran will be laid off because they were hired specifically for the Iranian job. There were unconfirmed reports that those fighting Khomeini's revolutionary army in Tabriz might be intent on secession from Iran, as happened briefly in the late 1940s when Tabriz was the capital of the Soviet-backed People's Republic of Azerbaijan.

merger

said. "But what they will really join together are students, liberals and blacks in both towns. The days of discounting those groups is over." Drakeford said a number of people want a merger because they don't like some things the Carboro Board of Aldermen has done, such as supporting the successful recreation bond and seeking federal and state grants.

"We've always been the tail of the dog, and now we're wagging a little too independently," Drakeford said. "Some people don't like that." Drakeford said he does not think Carboro would benefit from the merger because the town would not receive equal representation, noting there are no Carboro residents on the Chapel Hill-Carboro Board of Education. Drakeford said he does not think a merger would save money by ending duplication of services and officials. For instance, Drakeford said, the police chiefs in each town would become assistants to a third new police chief. "That's what they did in the merger of Wake and Raleigh school systems. They made both superintendents assistants and brought in a guy from New Jersey to be superintendent," Drakeford said.

Kelly

appoint students to the various chancellor's committees and to push for student positions on these committees. Richard Klimkiewicz, Chris Mackie and Harold Schmuck, the three candidates who opposed Kelly for president, might have a place in his administration. Kelly hinted, "I'd like to talk to them before I take office," he said. Phillips discussed with Kelly many Student Government issues, including the Springfest concerts, the proposed new athletic coliseum, student-ticket prices for Greensboro basketball games and Student Stores money that finances $25,000 in athletic scholarships. "I will spend this weekend deciding how the administration will be formed as far as its positions," Kelly said. "I think it'll be a real smooth transition." The campus action line, which was one of Kelly's main campaign promises, will be implemented by the time students return from spring break, Kelly said. "I was really surprised that we won by that much," Kelly said of his election victory. "I was really expecting a runoff." "I'd like to thank everybody that helped and voted for me, especially Tom Terrell, my campaign manager," Kelly said.

John Thomas, a Carboro resident who has been working for merger, said he would like to see a local referendum this spring or in late summer when students are in town. "Within the next three weeks, I want to meet with Student Government members and find out how they feel about the issue," he said. Carboro Alderman Sherwood Ward, who favors the merger, said, "I think now is the most appropriate time to bring discussions. It's imperative that we at least sit down and see what we'll do about this sudden surge of publicity." Ward said the issue would have to come up among the aldermen in the future, probably in the procedures committee. Chapel Hill Alderman Robert Epting said the towns could not correctly evaluate whether the towns should merge until the tax reassessment of both towns takes place during the next two years. "After that, the towns can estimate the taxes and service levels in the two towns and decide how much each would have to upgrade service to make them equal," Epting said. "A lot of information would need to be gathered before a referendum could be held."
