opportunity to leave the state rather than be jailed for protesting.

"The devil said, 'If thou be the son of God, come down from the cross.' The devil keeps saying that all along," King said. "But I'm glad that Martin Luther King Jr. didn't come down that night in Montgomery. If he had come down that night, I'm afraid we would still be segregated on buses, hotels.

"But that's all changed now. There ain't no more segregation—except those who have segregation in their hearts.

"There was a time when blacks couldn't attend this university. But somebody lived, and somebody suffered, and somebody died so that you might be sitting here tonight."

The values of today's society are misplaced, King said. Educational values are definitely mixed up.

"You've got to carry something up there (to school) with you," King said. "If you don't, you won't bring anything back. You can't just ride through.

"We think we must make an A to be good. But you can take an A into the world and make a nothing. Whatever field you go into, be prepared to defend it. Be prepared to defend what you stand on."

People should avoid a misplaced value in things like degrees and possessions, King said.

"We don't have any trouble checking into hotels anywhere anymore," he said. "It's tougher checking out. Not many of us can stand $50 a night for a hotel room. But we can check in there.

"Isn't it astounding? Isn't it amazing how, whatever the cost, no matter how much gas costs, we still manage to ride in a car?"

It is also important to teach children to express their thoughts openly and debate with their parents, King said.

"The problems of today will be solved by children," he said. "The children are learning to live together.

"Hate is taught. No child came into this world hating anyone. Someone taught this child to hate. Don't teach your children to hate anybody, but teach them to love everybody."

TV

Bair said if the legislation is approved, this system would be eliminated and the network would have a better chance of receiving money.

UNC-TV now receives money through the budget requests of UNC-Chapel Hill, UNC-Greensboro, N.C. State and the general administration budget of the university system.

UNC-TV currently works on an annual budget of $3.6 million, substantially less than the budgets of some other state-appropriated networks across the nation.

The Governor's Task Force on Telecommunications, which recommended the network be controlled under a separate board of trustees, made two other recommendations.

One calls for a state agency for public telecommunications to serve a variety of functions. Included would be purchasing, policy implementation and development of a production center for all the state's telecommunications and media needs.

The other proposal would consolidate and update state statutes dealing with telecommunications, including radio, police communications and computer networks.

Bair said the University has requested $200,000 to go toward planning for a UNC Center for Public Television.

"We are considerably enthusiastic with the direction of the project," he said. "Realistically, though, the completion of the project is still three to four years away."

News In Brief

Officials mum on eve of HEW deadline

Both University and Department of Health, Education and Welfare officials were not talking Tuesday about today's deadline for the HEW Office of Civil Rights to decide whether to accept the UNC system's desegregation plan. Officials also declined to comment on whether the deadline may be extended. "Nothing more's out of OCR today," an HEW spokesman in Washington said.

If the desegregation plan for the 16-campus system is rejected, HEW could begin proceedings to cut off almost $90 million in federal funds to the state.

Military officials: Return to draft likely

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army's top general urged Tuesday an immediate return to the military draft, and the heads of the Air Force, Navy and Marines said conscription is likely if not inevitable.

Gen. Bernard W. Rogers, chief of staff of the Army, called for an annual draft of 75,000 to 100,000 persons for six years of service in the individual ready reserve—a manpower pool that would be used in wartime chiefly to replace battlefield casualties.

The four military leaders—all members of the joint chiefs of staff—recommended, as a minimum, resumption of military registration. There was some difference among the officials on whether women should be required to sign up for possible service.

House, Senate, approve Taiwan bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House and Senate gave approval Tuesday to a new American relationship with Taiwan under which an attack by the Peking government against the island would be considered of "grave concern" to the United States.

The measures giving President Carter authority to implement his new China policies carried in both chambers by a wide margin, but minor differences will have to be resolved before a congressional compromise can be sent to the White House.

Soviets, Laos dispute China's pullout claim

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—While China reported a hero's welcome home for its invaders of Vietnam on Tuesday, Laos accused the Chinese of moving near its border and digging combat trenches "in preparation for war."

Chinese television showed troops withdrawing through the Friendship Pass across the border with Vietnam, but the Soviet Union charged "Chinese aggression continues" in northern Vietnam. And Laos charged that the Chinese are moving troops, smuggling spies and commandos into its country and carrying out propaganda to sow division among the Laotian people.

Israel to swap prisoners with guerrillas

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Israel has agreed for the first time to exchange prisoners with a Palestinian guerrilla group, a Palestinian official said here Tuesday.

Fadel Shroucou, official spokesman for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command, said the swap could take place "within a few hours in Geneva under the auspices of the International Red Cross."

SUMMER JOBS FOR N.C. RESIDENTS

Students who apply and are eligible for financial aid in the 1979-1980 academic year may also apply for full-time summer College Work-Study Program jobs in their local N. C. communities. These jobs, available through the PACE (Plan Assuring a College Education) Program, are located in non-profit agencies such as local, state, or federal government agencies; social services; schools; recreation departments; and day care centers. Pay for undergraduates is $3.10 per hour and for graduate students is $3.40 per hour. Employment begins May 20 and ends August 11.

The large savings required from net earnings received will be used for the next academic year's educational costs. Students who have difficulty in finding summer employment or who wish to pursue a more meaningful summer job are encouraged to consider this program.

Additional information and applications are available now at the Student Aid Office, 300 Vance Hall. PACE applications must be completed right away for first consideration and placement by May 20.

People are fanatics when it comes to their Pilot Razor Point pens. They're reluctant to give them up. And when someone borrows one, what happens is inevitable.

First, they love the way it writes. Really smooth and extra-fine. They go wild over its clever metal collar that helps keep the point from going squish. Naturally they "forget" to give it back, although it's only 79¢.

This can be very embarrassing when they're caught in the act. Others have pocketed Pilot's Fineline pen. The one with the slightly less delicate stroke. It's only 69¢.

So if you borrow someone's Razor Point or Fineline pen you'd better be prepared to pay the consequences. But, for much less than a dollar, you'd be smart to buy your own.

Iran purge continues; 12 shah aides killed

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) Firing squads executed two generals, a legislator, the former head of the national news agency and eight other men Tuesday in the purge that has killed dozens of former supporters of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Eleven men were killed by firing squads in Tehran and one in the holy city of Qom, 100 miles to the south, after secret trials without the aid of defense attorneys.

Islamic revolutionary courts are known to have ordered the execution of 57 persons, including 12 generals, for alleged political and sex crimes since the shah's government fell Feb. 12. The shah is exiled in Morocco.

There were indications that the new government is having success in bringing the economy back to life. The National Iranian Oil Co. announced production in the country's oil fields had reached 2.5 million barrels daily, up from 1.6 million barrels a day last week.

Before anti-shah strikes paralyzed the economy, Iran exported about 6 million barrels daily. The company said all but 700,000 barrels daily were earmarked for foreign consumption.

The company said it will resume selling Iranian crude on a contract basis to American, European and Japanese companies April 1. In recent weeks, oil has been sold on a spot basis to the highest bidder. Spot prices are in the range of $20 a barrel compared to the OPEC price of $13.55.

At Tehran University, 40,000 young Iranians rallied and condemned President Carter's and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's Mideast peace efforts.

Iran's Islamic revolutionary council announced the 12 executions in a radio broadcast.

Among those executed were air force Gen. Nader Jahan-Bani, former director of the National Iranian Sports Organization; army Gen. Vali Mohammad Zandkarimi, former director of prisons; and Gholam Hussein Daneshi, a Moslem clergyman and former Parliament member who supported the shah.

Also executed were Mahmoud Jaafari, former head of the official Pars news agency and former deputy director of the national radio and television service; and Parviz Nik-Khah, also a former deputy director of the radio-TV service. Both were former Communists who were sentenced to death by the shah in 1967, but who were pardoned and later joined the shah's ruling elite.

Firing squads in Tehran also executed a corporal in the shah's Imperial Guard and in Qom, a former police officer was executed. Also executed were five members of the shah's former secret police SAVAK.

Charges against the 12 ranged from corruption to killing anti-shah demonstrators and torture. The new defense minister, Gen. Ahmad Madani, told a press conference here that Iran no longer was willing "to act as policeman of the Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean."

He said the government was reviewing foreign defense agreements and contracts. Madani accused the shah of squandering money on the military and bringing in thousands of "spies disguised as foreign experts."

Demonstrators at the university carried placards that declared "Death to Carter" and "Carter-Sadat get lost," and they listened as Hani Al Hassan of the Palestine Liberation Organization condemned the United States.
