

Carolina women netters open year in Tenn.

By MARK TAYLOE
Staff Writer

As cool weather begins to settle in Chapel Hill, the women's tennis team begins its quest for a third consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference championship as it opens the fall season Friday and Saturday with the Blue Raider Tennis Tournament in Murfreesboro, Tenn.

The lady netters, who won this event last year, will be trying to upend favored South Carolina as well as Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas State, Shorter College, Mississippi University for Women and Middle Tennessee State.

"Last year we beat South Carolina by one point," said UNC coach Kitty Harrison. "This year we'll have to make another tremendous effort to repeat. South Carolina finished eighth in the nation last year."

The Tar Heels have the nucleus of their nationally 15th-ranked team of a year ago. The top six consists of Margie Brown, Jennifer Ballent, Donna Lies, Sandy Fleischman, Lloyd Hatcher and Nancy Davis. The doubles lineup is headed by Fleischman and Lies, followed by Ballent and Marjorie Blank. The third team is Brown and Janet Shands.

The Heels will be led in singles by Brown, a freshman from Kingsport, Tenn. Harrison calls her a polished player who has a lot of experience in junior tournaments.

"Margie had an unblemished record in preseason," Harrison said. "She is so smooth and experienced."

Playing No. 2 for the Tar Heels is Jennifer Ballent. She played one and two all of last season and is expected to challenge Brown for the top position. "It's a toss-up between those two (Brown and Ballent)," Harrison said. "Jennifer is so steady and concentrates better than anyone I've ever coached."

Donna Lies, a transfer from Northwestern, plays No. 3. She is a very aggressive player with a strong serve and volley game, Harrison said.

An elbow injury and a lack of playing time this summer, have dropped Fleischman, last year's No. 1 player, to the No. 4 spot. "Sandy's a super player, but I feel she needs to rebuild her confidence," Harrison said. "She can beat any of the players above her when she's in top form."

Junior Lloyd Hatcher, who missed virtually all of last season following an automobile accident, will fill the No. 5 position. She played No. 1 and 2 as a freshman. "Lloyd is a natural hitter," Harrison explained. "She has a great deal of talent as well."

Rounding out the top six will be Nancy Davis, who played that position most of last year. "Nancy is an up-and-down player," the coach said. "However, she has been very consistent up to this point."

Other members of the team expected to challenge for starting positions are Margaret Scott, Lindsay Linker and Robin Waters. "All of these players have outstanding potential, and I look for them to all continue their improvement," Harrison said.

The fall tennis season runs through Oct. 21. After the Blue Raider Tennis Tournament the lady netters play each conference school once, then conclude the season with the ACC tournament at College Park, Md.

"We're hoping to repeat as champions for the third straight year," Harrison said. "But we'll have to perform well. Virginia and Clemson are greatly improved, and I expect challenges from the other conference schools as well."

Defender Buckley doing job for booters

By NORMAN CANNADA
Staff Writer

It's tough for an athlete to come in and make a big contribution in his first year of varsity play. The situation is made even more difficult if he also has to adjust to an entirely different position.

That, however, is exactly what has happened to Walter (Bucky) Buckley.

Buckley, a sophomore defensive stopper for the UNC men's soccer team, spent his freshman year at Carolina as a midfielder for the Tar Heel junior varsity squad. When he was elevated to the varsity team at the beginning of this season, Buckley was moved to the middle man in the defense.

"I was a little skeptical at first," Buckley said of the move. "But I was happy to be playing anywhere as long as I was on the varsity."

The change has proved to be beneficial to both Buckley and the Tar Heels. Through Carolina's Sept. 22 match with Towson State, Buckley had regained the ball from his opponents 54 times, while losing it only 13 times.

"He's just been superb," Tar Heel coach Anson Dorrance said of Buckley's play so far. "We knew that he'd help us this year, but we really weren't sure how much."

Jayvee coach Geoff Griffin also had high praise for his former player. "Bucky has an amazing ability to regain the ball. He has a great attitude and we always seem to get 110 percent out of him."

At stopper, the Tar Heel sophomore is usually matched up against the opposing team's best offensive player. Although he said this does put some pressure on him, he tries not to worry about it.

"I try not to think about the game until I go out on the field, otherwise I'll get too nervous before it even starts," he said. "On the field I just have to remember that if the man gets by me, we have a sweeper (Hugh Bennett) to take care of him."

Although he has been happy with his performance, Buckley said the Tar Heels have not played their best soccer yet.

"I think we finally clicked in the Towson State game (a

6-0 win last Saturday)," Buckley said. "Until then, we had dominated every team we had played, but we were still really shaky."

The addition of Buckley has made the Tar Heel defensive attack as strong if not stronger than last year's squad.

"Our midfield is better, and that has taken a lot of pressure off the defense," Buckley said. "Most of the goals we've given up so far have been flukes."

The Heels play some of their toughest competition this week, facing two nationally ranked teams in three days. Carolina upset No. 17 Appalachian State 1-0 Wednesday night, and No. 14 George Washington Saturday in the first round of the Williamsburg Kiwanis Classic in Williamsburg, Va.

"These two games are going to tell a lot about our season," Buckley said before the match with Appalachian State. "George Washington, Appalachian and Clemson are going to be the toughest teams we play this year, and we've got two of them in a week."

WINSTON-SALEM—The Wake Forest women's golf team took advantage of playing its home course, the Old Town Golf Club, to forge a 14-stroke lead after the first round of the 36-hole Big Four tournament.

Amy Geithner of Wake had the day's low round with 37-37-74, followed by teammate Charlotte Grant with 39-36-75. Deacon Patty Jordan was third at 38-40-78.

The Deacons hold their 14-stroke edge over North Carolina, which scored 326 behind sophomore Jill Nesbitt's 38-41-79 and senior Page Kennedy's 41-40-81.

Following Wake and UNC in the team standings were Duke at 332 and Appalachian State with 346.

The final 18 holes begin at 9 a.m. today. The Tar Heels are defending champions.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?" Psalms 2:1 and Acts 4:25

School and colleges open their doors, their arms to embrace, and their "mouths to swallow up" myriads of millions of children and young people.

"WHAT MANNER OF CHILD SHALL THIS BE?" So said the people throughout all the hill country of Judaea when John the Baptist was born.

What manner of people will these myriads of millions of young people now entering schools turn out to be? "And Jesus called a little child unto Him, and sat him in the midst of them, and said, Verily I say unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.—But whose shall offend one of these little ones which believe in Me, IT WERE BETTER FOR HIM THAT A MILL STONE WERE HANGED ABOUT HIS NECK, AND THAT HE WERE DROWNED IN THE DEPTH OF THE SEA!"—Matthew 18:2.

Over seventy years ago a young man sat in a class at a university and heard an eminent Doctor Professor say regarding the first part of Genesis: "T'IS MYTH!" About the same time another professor said to his class: "All thinking people have gotten over the idea that the Bible is inspired." Having been raised in the atmosphere and climate of "faith" that "The Scriptures of The Old and The New Testaments were the only infallible rule of faith and practice whereby to glorify God," such statements troubled this young man, for he considered that these men had more sense than he did and that they probably were better educated than his former teachers. However, though just a boy, as he now looks back he is thankful for one reaction he immediately had towards the prominent doctor, for the boy seemed to "smell a rat," or the odor of hypocrisy and asked himself: "What is he doing in the church and a prominent officer in his denomination? Why don't he get out?" For his own profit, and for that of any he might have the opportunity to influence, later on he undertook to make an analysis of these two men.

This analysis was suggested by a question God asked Job—Job 38:4, etc.: "Where were you when I laid the foundations of the world—when morning stars sang together—and all the sons of God shouted for joy? The younger of these two men was probably in his late twenties; so, where was he just about 30 years before He was in his father's loins—rather difficult to imagine what he looked like then? 29 years ago he was in his mother's womb. 25 years ago he was a helpless little baby, unconscious of being alive, and unable to utter intelligent speech. About 27 years ago he was still a helpless infant but beginning to say: "What's this? what's that? why this? why that? etc. Marvel of marvels, however, for in a little more than a score of years, he is sitting in a Professor's Chair in a University passing out the information that The Bible, the Word of God Almighty is not inspired!

THE BIBLE BOOK OF BOOKS, which has endured through the centuries, and has borne the heat and burden of battles with king's, rulers, worldly wise, men and devils, ever since "the snake in the Garden" (Genesis chapter three) lifted up its voice against it. Yet it has come forth victorious over all and still stands. You just ought to read and get familiar with it! Don't try to appraise it, but rather aim at seeing how it appraises you, yourself!
