Saunders questions policy

By Bill Peschel

Although some disagreements over the new campus food service brochure have been resolved, Student Body President Bob Saunders said he still sees problems with meal-plan refund provisions.

ARA Services said that under one of two meal plans offered, refunds will not be available.

Saunders met last week with Carver Camp, ARA's student relations coordinator, about the refund problem and the brochure recently sent to students.

There are two types of meal plans available to students. With the board plan, refunds are made only to those who drop out of school or begin eating at the athletic training table. ARA does not consider fraternity and sorority members special groups; thus, they are not eligible for board plan refunds.

With the budget plan, customers make a deposit for meals at the beginning of the semester. Any money not spent during the term of the meal plan will be refunded, minus a small service charge, according to the brochure.

Saunders has three objections to the refunds. "Students are not going to read the fine print (on the brochure), they are not going to make the decision to rush until they are on campus, and the budget plan will not be refunded until the end of the spring semester. That will bring problems for students paying house dues," Saunders

Shampoo at 7:30 p.m. and 20th Century at 9:30 p.m. in the Gross Chemistry Auditorium on the Duke University campus. Shampoo stars Warren Beatty, Julie Christie, Lee Grant and Goldie Hawn, and is a satire on the decadent 60s. 20th Century with John Barrymore and Carole Lombard is Howard Hawks' comedy about theatrical drive and egomania. Admission $1.50.

"I believe Bob has a good point, (about the delayed refunds)," Camp said. But the refund plan is mentioned in two places on the brochure and in the final contract, she said.

"We do not want to create the fraternities and sororities as a special group," she said. Students should not get a refund under the board plan because they're interested in Greek life, she said.

"I am not sure whether ARA has fully analyzed the situation," Saunders said. He said he plans to inform all incoming freshmen who are planning to rush not to buy the board plan and will send letters to fall rush chairpersons, informing them of the meal plans.

Other aspects of the meal plans have been clarified, Saunders said. "The small service charge for budget plan refunds is only going to be $5. Therefore, Student Government does not see a problem with a service fee that low."

Chase Snack Bar, open until 10 p.m., will have its hours lengthened as an experiment. "We are pleased with that," Saunders said.

Saunders also said he noticed an improvement in Student Government's relations with the food service. "The interaction between the food service and Student Government has been good. They're making an attempt to contact us. That's something that did not happen in the past."
