

Nick Fear

Band makes local debut

By BUDDY BURNISKE
Staff Writer

They're billed as the most terrifying band in rock 'n' roll. But that's a misnomer; they're really the most terrified band in rock 'n' roll, according to their lead singer. They'll be making their off-campus debut at The Station in Carrboro tonight. They're Nick Fear.

"We really aren't that terrifying," said Nick Searcy, a junior from Cullowhee who does most of the lead vocals for the band. "In fact most people find us pretty tender. We try to keep it sincere and communicate something more than just sound. Nick Fear was just a ridiculous name I'd been kicking around when thinking about writing some detective stories."

The band, which was formed in January of last year, made its first appearance at the Student Union "All-Nighter" bash last spring and at Henderson Residence College's Springfest in April. Its most recent performance, was on Ehringhaus lawn last Thursday evening.

"We prefer an indoor audience," said Searcy. "We're best in an intimate atmosphere, where people can sit and listen. We're more of a concert band than a dance band." The band does not, however, prevent people from dancing if they're so inclined, Searcy said.

Nick Fear reproduces the sounds of Bruce Springsteen, Jackson Browne, Tom Petty and a wide variety of others. Other members of this high-energy troupe include Chris Long, a senior from Burlington, on bass guitar; Lewis Coppedge, a senior from Charlotte, on drums; David Earnhardt, a 1980 UNC graduate from Burlington, on keyboard; and John Dewar, from Asbury Park, N.J., on lead guitar.

The performance this evening will be both a debut and a farewell for the group, who will be losing guitarist Dewar to the Air Force on Wednesday. "We're really going to miss John," Searcy said, "for a lot more than his guitar playing. That's one thing that should come out in our performance—the fact that we're a pretty tight group of guys. We enjoy doing this, and I think we'd like to try doing it for a living."

Filmmaker conducts seminar

Independent filmmaker Tom Davenport will hold a seminar at 3 p.m. today in room 202/204 of the Carolina Union. Davenport's documentary It Ain't City Music, a light-hearted look at rural America and country music, will be shown.

It Ain't City Music was filmed at the National Country Music Contest in Warrenton, Va.—the oldest country music contest in the nation.

After the screening Davenport will lead a discussion on "Techniques of Documentary Filmmaking."

Four students in CGC run-off

A fourth name will be added to the ballot in Wednesday's run-off election for the District 19 Campus Governing Council seat, a Student Government official said Friday.

Raleigh, was eligible to be on the ballot. James said he had previously thought Moazed did not live in District 19.

Moazed will be on the ballot with Bill Newman, Mike Williams and Hugh Brady.

Elections Board Chairman Gregg James said Steve Moazed, a senior from

HAIR FITNESS™
TIPS: 32 CBW

- Blunt-cut hair that just clears your shoulders is as close as you get to having it both ways: the well-cut shape of short hair with the illusion of length. Have it angled in the front so it swings back and away, blows around your face but never in you eyes! Particularly good for fine straight hair.
- Dampening your comb combats the static that comes with pulling hats on and off, living in dry indoor environments.
- Birth-control pills can be a common cause of hair loss—as is any change in your hormonal balance.
