

Ellis seeks flexibility in Union chairpersons

By OPHELIA DAVIS
Staff Writer

Larry Ellis, newly appointed president of the Carolina Union, said he looked for flexibility and leadership in choosing the 1981-1982 chairpersons of the eleven Union committees, last week.

"I tried to gain a sense of how well the person approaches conflict, their ability to grow, their ability to work with others from different backgrounds and their ability to influence others," he said.

The chairpersons are Donna Devereux, a junior from Charlotte, of the Film Committee; Kimberly Klean, a sophomore from New Providence, N.J., of the Forum Committee; Tim Rogers, a sophomore from Williams-town, of the Gallery Committee; Kathy Williams, a junior from Hamlet, of the Human Relations Committee; and Ernie Johnston, from Chevy Chase, Md., of the Performing Arts Committee.

The newly formed Public Relations Committee will be chaired by Bill Ragland, a junior from Raleigh; the Publicity Committee by Nadine Bourgeois, a sophomore from New Bern; the newly formed Recreation Committee by Wayne Plummer, a sophomore from Stokesdale; the Social Committee by Elbert Avery, a junior from Fayetteville; the Special Projects Committee by Virginia Snow, a sophomore from King; and the Video Tape Committee by Karen Bowers, a sophomore from Hillsborough.

Ellis said the Public Relations Committee was formed to serve as a link between the Union and the University community. The Recreation Committee was created because the Activities Board saw a need to coordinate the present administrative handling of the College Bowl and game tournaments.

News In Brief

Reagan running slight fever

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ronald Reagan, described as alert and in good spirits, was running a slight fever Monday and doctors took the precaution of giving him additional antibiotics, although they said there was no evidence of infection in his lung.

A morning chest X-ray showed "modest clearing" of lung particles — probably dried blood or damaged tissue — along the track of the bullet that entered his left lung in an assassination attempt last Monday.

If, after the UHB hears the case, the verdict remains "guilty," the student can appeal the decision to the chancellor. The decision of the chancellor is final.

The sanctions given to a guilty student range from censure to indefinite suspension. Usually a grade of "F" accompanies any of these punishments when connected with a violation of the Honor Code.

The chancellor may decide that total expulsion from the University is necessary and impose this sanction if he sees fit. Only the chancellor can impose or rescind the expulsion sanction.

"Students can now expect harsh sanctions for cheating. It works as a deterrent," he said.

Applications for persons interested in serving on the Undergraduate Court are now available in Suite C of the Carolina Union. They are due by noon Monday.

"The Soviet Union is so preoccupied with its troubles in Afghanistan, with its own economic problems. It is not of any expansionist kick in the Western Hemisphere," Manley said.

Manley said, "there was a scarcely concealed delight among many power-brokers in Washington that this troublesome fellow (Manley) is out of the way," when he was defeated last year. He blasted the lack of communication between the developed countries of the Third World.

"There is no dialogue. We're not talking about the same thing," he said.

One of the answers to the problems of world economic inequity, Manley said, was to "release the Third World by economic development," which would, in turn, help those countries which invested in the Third World.

"The ideological conflict will recede," Manley said, if the world was unified in a common economic strategy and coalition. "The world out there is more complex than the good guy — bad guy view."
