Reagan leaves hospital under tight security

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Ronald Reagan left George Washington University Hospital under heavy guard Saturday, 12 days after a bullet struck his left lung in an attempt on his life.

Wearing a red sweater and sports shirt, the president left by a secluded, canopied hospital door. He said he felt great - but intended to sit down as soon as he got home to the White House.

Only the Secret Service, police, White House staff 'and a small pool of reporters, whose identification had been checked, were permitted near the hospital exit. Bystanders were kept across the street.

At the White House, 200 staff members, Cabinet secretaries and their families huddled under umbrellas to cheer the arriving president. "We love you," one

From the hospital to the White House seven blocks away, security precautions were extraordinary. Secret Service spokesman Dick Hartwig said it was because there was a lot of interest in the president's departure.

About an hour after Reagan returned home, U.S. Park Police arrested a man who attempted to enter the White House grounds in his automobile. The car was stopped by a locked gate, and the driver was taken to a mental hospital for observation when he refused to leave, police Saturday even before doctors gave him an OK. After a morning chest x-ray showed that a tiny white pocket along the bullet track looked satisfactory, the president was informed that he could leave.

"I already made up my mind on that," Reagan said, according to deputy press secretary Larry Speakes. As he left his third-floor hospital suite, the president told doctors and nurses, "I walked in here and I am going to walk out," Speakes said. Police officer Thomas Delahanty, who took a bullet in the neck, also was released from the Washington Hospital Center on Saturday. Secret Service officer Timothy McCarthy, wounded in the liver, had left the hospital on Tuesday.

News In Brief

Boxer Joe Louis dead at 66

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) -Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis, who held the title for 12 years and was ranked as one of history's greatest fighters, died Sunday after being admitted to Desert Springs Hospital. He

"He was in a cardiac arrest state when he arrived," said nursing supervisor Shirley Brown. "They did everything they could to revive him."

Brown said Louis died at 10:05 a.m. PST. "He had been ill for quite some time. He had been hospitalized before. He had had a stroke and different things," Brown said.

She said Louis' wife and some immediate family members were with him when he died.

Called the Brown Bomber for his punch and string of knockout victories, Louis was just 23 when he won the title by knocking out 31-year-old James J. Braddock in the eighth round in 1937 at Chicago.

He had a 35-1 record, including 31 knockouts, at the time he first won the heavyweight title.

In 17 years as a boxer — almost four years of that time was spent in the Army during World War II - he earned nearly $5 million.

Death penalty legislation okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing rising crime rates, the Reagan administration came out in support of a death penalty for certain federal offenses, in-cluding espionage and the assassination of a president.

Assistant Attorney General D. Lowell Jensen said Friday that the Justice Department endorsed the death penalty legislation proposed by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Thurmond said he was considering additional legislation as a result of the March 30 shooting of President Ronald Reagan that would make it a capital crime to attempt to assassinate a president.

Jensen, a former California prosecutor and head of the Justice Department's criminal division for a week, said there was nothing unconstitutional about Thurmond's proposal.

Reagan and Attorney General William French Smith previously had expressed support for the death penalty.

Budget cuts to be discussed budget cuts now being debated in Congress are expected to affect many North Carolina programs. That effect will be the subject of a series of seminars being held this week on the UNC campus. The futures of the N.C. Legal Aid Services, the N.C. food stamp program and the University's Student Aid Office will be discussed by specialists in the respective fields. Barbara Arnwine will speak tonight on the effect the budget cuts will have on the Legal Aid Services. She will speak at 7:30 in Gardner 105.

John Kerr, the director of the N.C. Food Stamp Program, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, in Gardner 08. Kerr will discuss the food stamp program, which recently has been attacked by Sen.
