

ACC title women's goal

By STEPHANIE GRAHAM
Staff Writer

The UNC women's basketball team opens play in the first round of the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament today when it takes on Wake Forest at 1 p.m. in Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh.

The Tar Heels, 16-10 overall and 6-1 in the ACC, tied with nationally-ranked No. 9 N.C. State and No. 11 Maryland for the regular season championship, but were awarded the No. 1 seed in a draw last week by league officials. Wake Forest is seeded eighth.

"It was a pleasant surprise to be seeded first," UNC coach Jennifer Alley said Thursday. "Every year we end up tied with someone and we always end up with the lowest seed."

"When they called and told me we had won the drawing, I didn't believe it."

The winner of today's UNC-Wake game will face the Clemson-Georgia Tech winner at 6 p.m. Saturday. The other two teams surviving the first round will meet at 8 p.m. Saturday. The championship game is scheduled for 4 p.m. Sunday.

Though Alley was pleased with the seeding, she said she did not consider being bracketed with the lower seeded teams to be that much of an advantage for her squad.

"I don't think it helps us that much," she said. "There are potential upsets in every game of the first round. We will have to play three days of intense, head-scratching basketball in order to win."

Though the Tar Heels defeated Wake Forest (11-16) twice this season by lopsided scores of 96-63 and 82-56, Alley refused to look past the first-round opponent.

"This will be a tough game," she said. "I know that even when we played them here, most of the first half was a two- or four-point game. Our intensity level will dictate the game, but Wake has very good individual talent."

This season, the frontcourt has been the strength of the Tar Heel team, and junior forward Kathy Crawford leads the squad with 57 percent shooting while scoring 16 points a game.

Frontcourt teammate Tresa Brown is scoring 13.8 points a game while center Henrietta Walls leads the team in rebounding with 8 boards and 12 points a game.

Regardless of who they play, this weekend is especially important for the Tar Heels if they hope to receive an NCAA tournament bid. The ACC tourney winner will automatically be invited to the 32-team post-season event, and 21 at-large berths will be awarded.

"If we don't win, I don't know if we'll have much of a chance of getting a bid," Alley said. "I feel we're as good as any of the 32 other teams, but then Clemson (18-10) feels the same way."

The Wolfpack, 22-4, and the Terrapins, 19-6, have to be considered co-favorites because of their high national rankings. Still, Alley would not give the edge to either team.
