

Limon dance group makes UNC debut tonight in Memorial

The third largest modern troupe in the United States, the Jose Limon Dance Company, makes its debut at 8 p.m. tonight in Memorial Hall.

Founded in 1946 by Mexican-born Jose Limon (1908-1972), the company distinguishes itself from others as the first major American dance company to continue after the death of its founder and head choreographer.

During his lifetime, however, Limon created 69 different works which succeeded primarily in giving male dancers a distinction previously not obtained. The company currently features 12 dancers (six men and six women) whose repertory consists not only of Limon's choreography but also arrangements by Doris Humphrey, Carla Maxwell and Murray Louis, to name a few.

Characteristic of the Limon Company is its unique style of dance. Critics have described the company's technique as "a concentration on the oceanic flow of movement, the concept of fall and recovery, use of breath, rhythm and retention and release of energy."

Tickets are on sale for $5.50 and $7.50 at the Union box office.

the UNC-operated facility and have proposed officials to examine the phasing out of operations at Horace Williams.

Tom Shumate, consulting architect for the UNC Facilities Planning office, said the main concern of University officials is the stability of the proposed privately owned airport. The University would not want to transfer all of its operations to Midway and have to support the airport if it ran into financial difficulties, he said.

"We're not going to give up our airport until their idea becomes a reality," Shumate said.

The planning department's airport survey evaluated the Midway site and found it to meet much of the evaluation criteria. According to the survey, the main deficiency of the site was soil suitability. Architect Mehler questioned the accuracy of the study in this area and felt certain criteria, such as proximity to urban areas, should have been weighed more heavily.

The county commissioners will announce their decision on the Midway proposal at a public hearing on April 20.

Humanity walk to raise funds

By ROBERT MONTGOMERY Staff Writer

The Chapel Hill Walk for Humanity has been scheduled for April 3. The UNC Campus Y, which sponsors the walk hopes it will be a fund-raising and educational event.

The Walk for Humanity is a 10-mile walk along a prescribed route in Chapel Hill. Anyone can participate as long as he obtains sponsors who are willing to pledge money for each mile walked.

Walkers can pick up a walk card at the Campus Y. Those who wish to contribute directly to the Walk for Humanity can also visit the Campus Y.

"The purpose of the walk is to raise funds for organizations with humanitarian needs," said Mike Devine, a co-chairperson for the Walk for Humanity.

The project allows the Chapel Hill community to have input into raising funds for such organizations. The Campus Y decided to divide the funds into three areas—international, regional and local.

The international project which will benefit from the walk is the Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service, also known as CROP. Funds to this project will aid in buying water pumps for the dry lands of Niue.

The regional project which is benefited is the North Carolina Student Rural Health Coalition. The funds it receives will go to the Migrant Farm Workers Program to aid in migrant workers' health and living conditions.

Two local projects also will benefit. One of these is the Orange County Day Care Coalition. Funds this project receives will help support a nutrition program in local nonprofit day care centers.

The other local project is Joint Orange-Chatham Community Action. "We give poor families a three-day supply of food until they can get government assistance," said Gloria Williams, director of JOCCA. JOCCA is happy to be involved in the Walk for Humanity, she said, which is a "mobilization effort."

The Campus Y has other goals for the walk besides fund-raising, Devine said. "There is an educational purpose to the walk," he said. "We will walk through contrasting communities to let people see the differences that exist."
