Briton views education as way to prevent war

By J. BONASIA
Staff Writer

The only way to preserve peace, patriotism, freedom, and democracy is with better education, not explosives, said Col. Stephen Love, former British defense attaché in Argentina. Love spoke Monday night in Hamilton Hall on the recent Falkland Islands War in an informal lecture sponsored by the Institute of Latin American Studies, the Office of International Programs, and the Peace, War and Defense Curriculum.

"I'm naturally proud, as a military man, that my army was able to do what it did," Love said. "But, in terms of the much bigger picture, this is, of course, to be viewed as a great disaster, a tragedy."

Love explained that the degree of outrage in Great Britain after the April invasion was incredible. He said there was no possible recourse for the British government action.

Love said he thought that Argentina's invasion of the Falklands was not in the best interest of that country. He said that Argentina sacrificed its young men, of whom it already had too few, for a completely foreign territory.

"Peace is a complex building which must have a good balance of all forces, or else the building collapses," Love said. "The junta failed utterly to understand this balance of forces when it undertook the invasion."

Love pointed out two major mistakes in Argentina's understanding of the situation. First, he said he saw the totalitarian method they used as an unworkable proposed for the democratic-minded Falkland natives. Love also added that Argentina's refusal to listen to the natives' opinions was a mistake.

"The people there are of true British stock. Their culture is as British as Chapel Hill's is American," he said.

After the lecture, Love answered questions from the audience of 70 people. When an Argentine student posed questions concerning his country's occupation of the Falklands prior to 1833, Love replied: "We're talking about two different currencies here. You speak of a territorial occupation of nearly 150 years ago. I'm talking about the livelihood of 1,800 people for the last 149 years."

Love proposed that if it was legal for a country to come back into an area in an aggressive fashion after 149 years, then there were many places around the world that were vulnerable today.

He said that a period of five generations of people living in an area was "a long enough time for them to regard it as their own."

RALEIGH — The first truck carrying PCB-laced soil is scheduled to dump its load in a Warren County landfill Wednesday, setting up a promised confrontation between citizens who do not want the toxic chemical dumped in their county and authorities who say it must be dumped.

"It's our intention to stop them," the Rev. Leon White of the United Church of Christ's Commission for Racial Justice said Tuesday. "We'll hold the line in a nonviolent, Christian manner."

The trucks will go through as scheduled, promised William W. Phillips, special assistant to state Department of Crime Control and Public Safety Secretary Heman Clark. Phillips is in charge of the PCB removal.

"We will take care of any situation that arises," he said. "They will not stop those trucks."

Removal operations are supposed to start at 8 a.m. on N.C. 58 in Warren County, one of 14 counties that were the sites of illegal PCB dumpings in 1978.

PCBs — an acronym for polychlorinated biphenyls — were used as an agent in oil to cool electrical transformers before its use was banned. The chemical was linked to cancer in laboratory animals several years ago, leaving some businessmen with gallons of the toxic chemical on hand.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco — Princess Grace, who gave up her career as Oscar-winning film star Grace Kelly for a storybook marriage to Prince Rainier of Monaco, died Tuesday night of injuries suffered in an auto accident. She was 52.

On Monday, it had been announced that she had suffered a broken leg, ribs and shoulder when her car crashed off a twisting mountain road coming down from the French town of La Turbie. Her younger daughter, Princess Stephanie, was also in the car, which plunged 120 feet off the road, but Stephanie escaped with minor injuries.

Di Phi debates U.S. aid to Israel

By STACIA CLAWSON
Staff Writer

U.S. military aid to Israel has resulted in an arms race allowing the country to gain military superiority, senior Leake Little said Monday night in a debate sponsored by UNC's Dialectic and Philanthropic Society in New West.

Speaking before an audience of 20, freshman Vance Trefethen said military aid should be cut because American arms sales to Israel are undesirable since Israel has the capacity to defend itself.

Trefethen said Israel should not receive support because it misused American arms to keep the West Bank. Furthermore, Trefethen said he thought U.S. support of Israel would hurt American foreign relations, especially with the Arabs. "The advantages of an Arab oil supply far outweigh the advantages of supporting an unreliable ally," he said.

Trefethen and Little then outlined a plan which would in effect give military aid to Israel, but only in the event of an actual war.

Junior Michael Rupen and sophomore Sheryl Graham then spoke against cutting American aid to Israel. "Israel needs our help to survive," Rupen said.

Graham said Israel especially needed our money to survive since the United States gave $1.8 billion to the country of its total $5.5 billion military defense spending budget.

Rupen also argued that since the United States gave aid to Saudi Arabia in the past, it should keep aiding Israel now.

Whereas Trefethen and Little said Israel was an unreliable ally, Rupen and Graham said Israel was a good ally because it did not violate the rights of its citizens and was willing to negotiate in the Camp David talks.

Rupen also said the U.S. policy had always been to support anti-Communist countries such as Israel.

"If we give aid to El Salvador, Nicaragua, Taiwan, Korea and Saudi Arabia, why not Israel?" Rupen asked.

All ABS members are urged to attend.

HAPPY THIRD YEAR ANNIVERSARY Marilyn! It's been a wonderful three years — (mono, 3 months arguing, hospital stay, Hilton Head, my car "accident," long hours, Nursing school, crying all night, 3.7 GPA to a 2.65 GPA, 2 trips to overcast MB, and of course Lee Strasberg, New York and the "pink sky" for your ring!) You have shown me over the years how beautiful you are and I hope that you can always be as close as we are today. It's the strength I see in you and the little things you do for me that make my life happy and warm. From the #1 Box Office attraction to the #1 Nuptial Move over Tom Selleck and Florence Nightingale. All my love, Ashley, P.S. Tell Jackie and Lynn and Tom and Angie to cut it out — they're making me sick. P.S.S. I wish you wouldn't play with the food in Red Lobster, it's embarrassing! (Hal Hal)

SUE — HAD ALOT OF fun at the Inn. Should have gone to the house earlier. Save next time. I'm still bleeding! Hope you don't mind a frosh. Call me! Love, Rich.

ALLISON J. TWERENT nothin' I'd do it again in a second. You can cry on my shoulder anytime. Keep in touch! DS.

BOBBY WITH THE SECOND place BMW I'm sorry I haven't come by to see you. Doesn't mean I don't want to or that you can't call me! We'll go to McDonald's or for some ice cream! Your Hilton Head Sis.

IN RESPONSE TO THE Onija Board. Flowers, Candlelight, and Wine. Romance even King Arthur would have applauded. Pondering road trips and scholarships — the possibility of a Paper Chase. Crucified for so long, you came and made me see the Southern Cross as van Gogh would have painted it. And maybe that is why I cried at "Chariots of Fire." Thank-you for this summer, thank-you for right now. My only hope is that it has indeed been reciprocal. A.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY DELI Hope to make this day special for you. I love ya and feel fortunate to have such a terrific roommate "Party Hearty" on your birthday! I will, too! Love, me.

JOSEPH PATRICK DALY — COME by the DTH office. Ask for Linda.
