Reagan fires 2 more EPA officials

WASHINGTON - President Reagan fired two more top officials of the Environmental Protection Agency on Wednesday, and a key congressman said he expected several other ousters to follow. One source said Reagan wants "to clean house at the agency."

Sources both within and outside the White House confirmed that Reagan had obtained the resignations of Inspector General Matthew Novick and Assistant Administrator John P. Horton of the EPA. Reagan had fired another assistant administrator of the agency, Rita M. Lavelle, on Feb. 7.

Sources, who spoke only on condition they not be named, said Novick was offered another job within the administration but was told by the president that he wants "to clean house at the agency."

Earlier, Ms. Lavelle, denying suggestions she made "sweetheart deals" with industrial polluters before Reagan fired her as the agency's head of the "superfund" program, told Congress she was the victim of a suspicious boss - Anne M. Burford - who was herself guilty of mismanagement.

A White House official characterized Novick's and Horton's departures as "part of an effort to strengthen middle-level management at EPA, particularly in the superfund area." The superfund is the $1.6 billion account for cleaning up toxic waste

Responding to a suggestion by Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., that Novick was being fired for aggressively pursuing his job, the official said "we categorically reject that charge," and added that it was "absolutely ridiculous." He also said that Burford - Anne Gorsuch before her marriage last weekend - "was fully consulted throughout ... and is totally on board."

Horton, assistant EPA administrator for administration, said he was asked to resign by Helene von Damm, head of the White House Personnel office, on Wednesday.

Horton said he did not know who else was being fired. He said von Damm said that once the controversy was over, the administration would offer him another position in the administra-

Saudi Arabia threatens price war

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia - Saudi Arabia and its Persian Gulf oil allies the biggest oil-producing bloc in the world - agreed Wednesday to cut their $34 base price and warned OPEC to follow suit or face an all-out price war.

The amount of the cut was not given, but the ministers were reported considering a slash of up to $7 per 42-gallon barrel. Each $1 drop in the price per barrel could mean a 21/2-cent-a-gallon saving at the pump.

OPEC President Yahaya Dikko of Nigeria, which slashed its oil price $5.50 a barrel Sunday, consulted with other oil ministers to determine the time and place of an emergency OPEC meeting, the cartel said in Vienna.

Saudi Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said the agreement to cut the price was reached in a two-day meeting among Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Kuwait, Qatar and Iraq.

Indonesia, another OPEC member, also agreed, he said, as did the Persian Gulf sheikdoms of Oman and Bahrain, which do not belong to the cartel. Libya participated in the talks but its position was not immediately known.

Yamani threatened the gulf producers would throw their "full weight" into the market unless OPEC agreed to a collective reduced price and a new marketsharing formula.

Norway. Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil exporter, is now producing less than 4 million barrels daily, even though it has a capacity of 11 million.

WASHINGTON - Democratic leaders of the House Appropriations Committee, careful to avoid antagonizing President Reagan, drafted a recession-relief bill Wednesday which provides $4.5 billion for jobs as well as food and shelter for the

The full committee is expected to meet Friday to approve the anti-recession measure, which is only slightly more expensive than Reagan's proposal for $4.3 billion.

Many House Democrats had been pushing for a far more costly bill. But the $200 million difference is not expected to provoke a veto confrontation, which House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill has been trying to avoid.

Members of a House Republican task force indicated general approval, although they said they hadn't seen the details. "Generally speaking it certainly sounds like a program I would be likely to support," said Rep. James Jeffords, R-Vt.

RALEIGH - Increased sales tax collections and early receipt of employers' income tax withholdings pushed state revenues 15.65 percent higher in January, Revenue Secretary Mark Lynch said Wednesday.

Lynch confirmed that general tax revenues in January were $261 million compared to collections of $226 million in January 1982, a 15.65 percent increase. He had announced preliminary revenue figures at an earlier news conference but had not explained the increase, which was more than twice as high as in recent months.

"It means things have picked up to the extent that tax revenue collections are any indication of the economy," Lynch said at a news conference.

He said collections for the first seven months of the fiscal year were $1.888 billion compared to $1.77 billion at the same time last year, a 6 percent increase. That boosted revenues closer to those projected in the 1982-83 budget. Spending was based on estimates that tax collections for 1982-83 would rise 8.9 percent over those in 1981-82. RALEIGH - Laws adopted last year have reduced the value of North Carolina utilities in the eyes of investors, making it harder to raise capital to keep pace with economic development, officials said Wednesday.

The General Assembly last June adopted laws that reduced the number of times utilities could file to recover fuel costs from three times a year to once or twice, said William S. Lee, chairman of the board of Duke Power Co.

Despite Duke Power's efficiency record, which has led the nation in 10 of the last 12 years, Lee said the company's stock has failed to keep pace with the New York Stock Exchange Utility Index.

CHICAGO — Defeated incumbent Jane M. Byrne pledged her support Wednesday for Harold Washington in his bid to become Chicago's first black mayor, asking Democrats who voted along racial lines in the primary to rally behind the South Side congressman.

Byrne, who had refused to concede Tuesday night in the city's closest mayoral race in decades, acknowledged Wednesday she had lost and urged her followers to back Washington. "I've been a Democrat all my life," she said. "He is the choice of the people, and, yes, I will support him." Byrne, 48, finished 32,810 votes behind Washington in the race that drew a record 1.2 million voters. Richard M. Daley, Cook County state's attorney and eldest son of the city's most famous political family, finished third. He also pledged to back Washignton.

WASHINGTON - Former Florida Gov. Reubin O. Askew formally declared his bid for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination on Wednesday, saying that while the nation is seriously threatened by foreign technology he would shun "the quicksand of protectionism."

Askew, 54, the U.S. trade ambassador under President Carter, took some pains to set himself apart from his fellow Southerner.

"I'm not Jimmy Carter," he told a news conference at the National Press Club. "In all due modesty, I think I can be a better president than Jimmy Carter because Jimmy Carter gave me the opportunity to have the federal experience he never had. Neither did President Reagan."
