"A lot of times I find notes in deposit envelopes from people who know me," he said.

Two attempts to rob Warren have occurred since he began the job more than a year ago. Both times, he was able to get inside the bank in time to call the police.

"When I transport money at night, I call the Chapel Hill police, and they escort me to and from the machines. We even have codes between us if I get lost in traffic."

NCNB is so security cautious that Warren needs six keys to get to the machine, enclosed in a vault. He has one vault key, two door keys and three alarm keys. "Even I set off the alarm without needing to sometimes," he said.

A common reason for a machine breakdown is the result of people not following directions. "It happens a lot at the first of the year with freshmen using the machines for the first time,"

Warren said. "Then, it takes forever to figure out who did what."

To assure proper credit is made to a person's account, Warren said they should remember to place money in the available envelopes and include a deposit slip with their correct account number. "Their card number is not their account number," he said.

People should also beware of inserting bank cards too quickly after another person has used the machine. If the machine is not given enough time to think after a previous transaction, it will take their card.

Warren, who is currently applying to law school, considers himself an opportunist. His 60-hour workweek also includes a job as a law clerk and a job as a subcontract painter.

"I like to grab every opportunity that comes up and make the most of it."

THE LITE BEER ALL-STARS STRIKE AGAIN.

When famous bowler Don Carter invited 23 Kingpins to the First Lite Beer Bowling Tournament, it seemed like a great idea.

It was the guys who drink Lite Beer from Miller because it tastes great, against the guys who drink it because it's less filling. And once again, the All-Stars proved they're in a league by themselves.

After a lot of pins (and quite a few Lite Beers) went down and the smoke finally cleared, the score was

All he needed to win it was one pin. A klutz situation: Rodney, in top form, got the same amount of pins as he gets respect. None.

Teammate Ben Davidson felt Rodney deserved a break, or at least a fracture. Billy Martin didn't argue with that. Jim Honochick couldn't believe his eyes. Neither could Marv

Throneberry.

So the First Lite Beer Bowling Tournament ended in a draw. And the argument over the best thing about Lite was left unsettled.

But there was one thing everyone agreed on. It was truly everything you always wanted in a bowling tournament. And less.

EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED IN A BEER. AND LESS.

BSM sponsors tribute

The Black Student Movement will sponsor "Ebony Evening," a tribute to Eubie Blake, in the Great Hall of the Carolina Union starting at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The evening will feature three performing groups of the BSM — the Opeyo Dancers, the Ebony Readers and the BSM Choir — and a drama guild, choir and dance group from Duke.
