CGA brochure stirs heated budget debate

By MARK STINNEFORD Staff Writer

In a session marked by some of the liveliest debate vet in its current budget hearings, the Campus Governing Council Finance Committee proposed that the Carolina Gay Association receive $788 of the $1,307 in Student Government appropriations the group requested for the 1983-84 fiscal year.

If approved by the full CGC, the action would represent a nearly 40 percent cut in the CGA's request. Budget '83 The CGA received a Student Government appropriation of $608 last year.

On Monday, the Finance Committee set the CGA's fund-raising quota at $900. Under the proposal, more than 53 percent of the recommended $1,688 CGA budget would come through fund-raising efforts. The CGA is expected to raise the additional $900 through social events, sale of an information sheet on gay activities and services, and subscription and advertising revenues from the CGA newsletter, Lambda.

Much of the debate surrounded an informational brochure the CGA is hoping to place in Orientation packages beginning in the fall. The Finance Committee proposed that $80 be appropriated for the project, while the CGA had requested $175.

Committee members Sherri Watson (District 14) and Fred Baker (District 9) proposed the reduced funding, suggesting that CGA co-sponsor the brochure with the Sexuality Education and Counseling Service.

The committee recently proposed a 1983-84 budget of $4,633 for SECS, providing funding for such informational brochures.

Committee member Tim Newman (District 11) initially proposed cutting all funding for the brochure. The brochure would only promote CGA membership and would not be in the general interest of the student body, he said.

"I don't think we should publicize membership in a group that is based purely on sexual preference," Newman said.

"If you think sexual preference is of general interest, why don't we start a straight association and seek funding for a brochure on it?" he asked.

Lee Mullis, a CGA newsletter staff member, countered that the brochure was designed for heterosexuals and did not even have the organization's name printed on it. Newman withdrew his opposition to funding the brochure after Mullis' statement.

However, committee member Randall Parker (District 14) was not convinced.

"If I wanted to know about homosexuals, I wouldn't want to find it in an Orientation package. I'd look it up in the library," he said.

Zollie Stevenson (District 2) said such a brochure would serve an important informational service.

"Not everyone is urbane enough to understand everything about homosexuality," he said. "This provides answers to questions people usually ask."

The Finance Committee also proposed that the CGA receive $155 for Gay Awareness Week, $688 for the newsletter Lambda, $60 for an information sheet on area gay activities and services, $25 for publicity of the CGA's Outreach program, $450 for office expenses and $230 for miscellaneous expenses including speaker fees, publicity costs, literature purchases and fund-raising parties.

In other action, the Finance Committee proposed that WXYC receive $16,881 in Student Government appropriations during 1983-84. The radio station had initially requested $18,591. The committee also proposed approval of $3,148 of $6,725 WXYC had requested in capital expenditures for equipment.

In today's hearings, the Association for Women Students will present its budget request at 6:30 p.m. The Judicial Branch will present its request at 9:45 p.m.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua - Anti-Sandinista exiles from Honruas laid siege to the town of Rancho Grande on Monday, and fighting between rebels and government troops was reported at other points in northern Nicaragua.

The guerrillas in the Nicaraguan Democratic Force attacked Rancho Grande, a town of 5,000 people 138 miles north of Managua, early Friday. Residents reported by telephone Monday that the town was surrounded, and the insurgents were firing .50-caliber machine guns and mortars.

The mortar fire has destroyed some buildings, the residents said.

"Battles in different regions of the country continue," a spokesman for the Foreign Ministry said Monday. He gave no details, but other military sources reported clashes in the northern provinces of Jinotega, Matagalpa and Nueva Segovia.

SAL SALVADOR, El Salvador -Three U.S. congressmen argued loudly Monday with Defense Minister Jose Guillermo Garcia over human rights abuses, and one claimed an army colonel had lied about a purported massacre.

They also said at a news conference with the defense chief that they had not received a satisfactory explanation about the arrest of free-lance journalist Thomas J. Western, 32, of St. Paul, Minn.

The congressmen, James Oberstar, D-Minn., Bill Richardson, D-N.M., and James Jeffords, R-Vt., are here on a four-day visit sponsored by the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee, a human rights organization based in Boston.

Western and another journalist, Joan Ambrose Newton, 31, were arrested Saturday morning as they were years, was questioned and released, but Western is still in jail.

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Lebanese news media and Israeli sources said Monday that the role of militia commander Saad Haddad, Israel's ally in southern Lebanon, is the last obstacle to progress in the troop withdrawal negotiations.

"The talks remain deadlocked because Israel insists on giving Maj. Saad Haddad and his militia a major security role in the South," the Lebanese state radio reported as U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib returned to Beirut from Israel with no indications of a breakthrough.

The U.S.-Israeli-Lebanese talks on the withdrawal of foreign troops from Lebanon resume Thursday in the Israeli border town of Kiryat Shmona. Israeli sources, who asked anonymity, agreed that settlement was blocked by the dispute over Haddad's future role in security arrangements to keep Palestinian guerrillas out of south Lebanon.

WASHINGTON — The country's top conservation groups said Monday it will take more than a new team at the EPA to reverse President Reagan's "uninformed and uncaring" environmental policies.

At a joint news conference, the nine organizations said Reagan's antienvironmental policies at the Environmental Protection Agency were just as prevalent in the dozen other government agencies charged with protecting the public.

"EPA is but the tip of the iceberg," said Louise Dunlap, president of the Environmental Policy Center. "The Reagan administration's campaign to strip the American people of adequate environmental protection has suc-

'Survival Symposium' for '84 to deal with environment

Although it is still a year away, students are hard at work now planning for the 1984 Carolina Symposium.

"Survival Symposium II" is the title of the lecture series for next year, which will be chaired by students Jack Mohr and Wienke Tax. Their proposal was selected by committee members who worked on last year's Symposium "America: In Pieces." "Survival Symposium II" will deal with issues pertaining to population, resources and the environment, Mohr said. Lectures will explore the 1.7 percent annual world population growth, which has a doubling time of 40 years, in connection with the depletion of natural resources, he said.

"Survival Symposium II" is a spin-off of the 1975 "Human Survival Symposium," which featured then-Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter. "Carter told the audience 'I want to be your president,' "

Mohr said. The Symposium, a biennial event which alternates with the Fine Arts Festival, is schedule for late March or early April 1984. It will feature speakers from within and outside of the University and discussions, Mohr said.

"We would like to make students, faculty and administration more aware of these problems," Mohr said. "The current approach is to treat the symptoms and not address the causes We want to make people ask questions and consider solutions that woud have more of a long-term, rather than temporary, effect."

Tax said that involvement with the Symposium would be encouraged. "We'd like to get a lot of people involved, not just to work, but by really reaching out to many out there who are economically minded."

The Carolina Symposium originated in 1927 as a means for students to discuss current and long-term issues. The budget for the event will be approximately $30,000, Tax said. Funding will come from the Campus Governing Council, University departments and a benefit concert being planned.
