

Commissioners vote to prohibit wild animals from Orange County

By TRACY ADAMS
Staff Writer

Lions and tigers and bears beware. The wild animal controversy in Orange County has ended. After hours of debate, the Orange County Board of Commissioners voted 3-2 early Tuesday morning to allow owners of wild animals to keep their pets here but not to allow new animals to be transported into the county.

Commissioners Shirley Marshall, Don Willhoit and Chairman Richard Whitted voted for the ordinance. Commissioners Norman Walker and Ben Lloyd voted against it.

The ordinance states that owners of wild animals already in the county must prove they have a $100,000 liability insurance for each animal and must provide a list of incidents where animals have escaped or someone has been injured.

The ordinance will not become official until it is unanimously approved at a later date.

"Lloyd and I were not in favor of a total ban," Walker said. "We wanted an ordinance that would regulate the animals and still keep the citizens safe."

Walker said he favored an ordinance that would not require county citizens to pay for the regulation of the animals.

"My position all along has been for a total ban on these animals," Whitted said. "There was just not enough support on the board to pass that kind of resolution."

If an owner does not register his animals within 30 days he may face criminal charges and a fine of $50 a day per animal. There is no fee for registering the animals with the Orange County Health Department.

"We didn't impose a registration fee because of the uncertainty of the state action," Willhoit said. "We'll probably have to reconsider our action after we see what the legislature does."

Thirty-six animals were registered with the health department by the Monday 5 p.m. deadline.

Twenty-four of the 36 wild animals in the county are owned by Tim Greene. Last summer, the escape of two bears from Greene's farm sparked the controversy. Greene owns 10 tigers, eight leopards, four bears and two pythons.

Greene declined to comment on the commissioners' decision.

"I felt the county could regulate three to five animals, but not 24," said Lori Stephenson, Greene's neighbor and a proponent of the proposed ban.

Speaker says Greeks must provide leaders to combat American racism

By STUART TONKINSON
Assistant News Editor

Racism continues to exist today as a modern form of slavery, said Robert Leach, vice president of student affairs for Florida State University, to UNC Greeks Monday.

"We must act now, before it's too late, to correct the abuses of racism," Leach told the audience. The lecture, along with a banquet for officers of fraternities and sororities, was the kickoff to the 1983 Greek Week.

"We can no longer accept racism," Leach said. "It is socially untenable. It is politically unsound. It is morally wrong."

Leach called Greeks the future leaders of America and said they have a responsibility to end racism.

"My generation has really messed things up," he said. "It's up to you to change things."

Leach began his speech by pointing out what he called racism at the banquet. "What I'm looking at right now is polarization," he said. Black fraternity and sorority members were sitting in separate groups at the banquet.

"This (separation) cannot go on," he said.

The theme for this year's Greek Week is "Greeks . . . Building Bridges." Race relations is a theme which has been given special attention as a bridge which must be constructed, said Alpha Delta Pi Ellen Rue, Greek Week co-chairperson.

The Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils presented several awards to fraternities and sororities after the lecture. The Robert B. House Award for Outstanding Fraternity went to Delta Upsilon in the large division and Kappa Psi in the small division. The Service to the Greek System Award went to Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

Greek Week activities will continue today with games of Ehringhaus field at 4 p.m.

Orange County registered the lowest unemployment rate in the state for the fifth consecutive month February, according to statistics released by the N.C. Employment Security Commission.

The county logged a 3.9 percent jobless rate for the second month this year.

The statewide unemployment rate was 10.2 percent for February 1983. Dare County had the highest jobless rate in the state with 41.9 percent of the work force out of work.

Unemployment in neighboring Triangle counties also was low for February.

Wake County had a 5.0 percent jobless rate, while Durham County's rate was 4.9 percent for February.

Of the 100 counties in North Carolina, 65 had increased rates, 30 had decreased rates and five remained unchanged.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — Hundreds of poor Honduran villagers were reported fleeing their homes along the Nicaraguan border Wednesday, fearing attacks by Nicaragua's army in retaliation for attacks by exiles based in Honduras.

Eighty residents of the tense Choluteca border zone, on the Gulf of Fonseca between Nicaragua and El Salvador, petitioned President Roberto Suazo Cordova for troop reinforcements. They claimed Nicaragua's Sandinista government had put 1,500 troops on the other side of the border.

The petition said hundreds of peasants have been leaving their villages in recent weeks.

The Sandinistas "are constantly watching our every movement," said the petitioners. "We cannot live, we cannot work, we cannot breathe in a . . . climate charged with tension due to constant incursions by air and overland by Nicaragua's Sandinista guards."

There was no immediate comment from the Honduran government, which has 400 soldiers patrolling the Choluteca area.

Britain proposed an unusual two-tier reduction in the price of its North Sea oil Wednesday, seeking to pacify its buyers without provoking a price war.

Analysts and oil executives said they believed Britain's major oil customers would accept the offer, and that it would avert a confrontation with OPEC.

Meanwhile, sources in Rome said Iran had told its Italian customers that it was cutting the price of its top-grade Iranian Light crude by $3.20, to 128 a barrel. That would put the official Iranian price approximately in line with the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.
