IM ATHLETES OF THE YEAR

Xavier Cherry
IM Official of the Year
 Sophomore Xavier Cherry of Garysburg, N.C., has plenty of opportunities to use his training in psychology on the courts or fields while calling his games. He doesn't have to, though. He's a top notch official who enjoys calling games. "I really like the program here at UNC," he says, "it is really a top level organization and I just appreciate the opportunity to be able to 'work' in the program."

Rob Briley
IM Supervisor of the Year
 When Rob Briley steps on the court, players and officials alike take notice of the IM Supervisor of the Year. He does his job that good. Through thick and thin, Rob has stuck it out as an official and supervisor for four years, and he still enjoys it. "Four years of running, sweating, blowing whistles and getting yelled at, not a bad way to earn a buck," he concludes, plus a word of advice for would-be referees. "Be an official—it's not an adventure, it's a job."

Ben Prince
Rookie Official of the Year
 For Ben Prince, just taking pictures of intramurals wasn't enough, he had to take on the duties of officiating in addition to serving as IM staff photographer. A senior industrial relations/economics major from Durham, Ben remains modest with his award, "This award is just icing on the cake when compared to working with the other officials, supervisors and administrators."

Allan Holmes
Rookie Official of the Year
 Senior journalism major Allan Holmes was his reticent self at the official's banquet that in part honored him. Nonetheless, after a successful year as a player and official, Alan thought it was necessary to thank the little people, "I would like to thank the Academy for making this possible."

Steve Potter
Residence Hall Manager of the Year
 Steve Potter should be getting tired of winning championships, but this is another award for him to add to his collection at Teague. The junior political science/history major from Granite Falls, N.C., doesn't like to take credit for all of Teague's success. "I appreciate the effort put into the program by my athletes," explains coach Potter, "Teague is the absolute best dorm on campus—it's a team effort and I have been blessed with a great team!"

Linda Nixon
Women's Manager of the Year
 Linda Nixon will miss intramurals next year after she graduates, but if she is anywhere near as good a journalist as she is manager, she'll have no problems succeeding in life. She couldn't resist one more plug for her athletes. "I'm lucky in a lot of ways to receive this award," she says, "because these past years when I've been captain, I had the best group of teammates that anybody could wish for."

Lloyd Evans
Fraternity Manager of the Year
 Kappa Psi Fraternity has a limited membership because it is a professional fraternity, but Lloyd Evans has done a remarkable job of keeping the Kappa Psis at peak level all year long. A senior pharmacy major, Evans credits the dedication of his fraternity brothers for his success. "Extra hardwork was needed to keep the fraternity involved in all the IM sports with few brothers," he points out, "but this award not only reflects my hardwork, but the winning attitude the brothers of Kappa Psi maintain."

Gary Bigelow
Graduate/Faculty Manager of the Year
 Gary Bigelow always finds time to blow off his law studies to participate in an intramural activity and lead his team to victory in any sport, from in-tube water polo to softball. His favorite activity, though, is organizing his teams. "I enjoy organizing the teams and keeping everyone informed, even though getting over to the office early to instant schedule can be tough with a hangover," he says.
