

Suite C making plans

By DA. TREVOR
Tar Heel Staff Writer

Although most students have vacated Chapel Hill, the door to Suite C is open for the remaining members of Student Government to continue operations.

Executive Assistant Sharon Moylan is acting as Student Body President Kevin Monroe's eyes and ears on campus. Monroe is working in Burlington this summer but will travel to Chapel Hill for Board of Trustees meetings and to keep up to date on business.

Moylan said that she is "basically making sure that things run smoothly." Although she does not have the power to sign for Monroe, she would be his contact if any problems arose.

Moylan said that the two will maintain especially open communication with issues such as the David Garrow case (in which a professor popular with students was denied reappointment) and the proposed increases in tuition and telephone charges.

Moylan added that most of the committee heads are summer appointees because "they are necessary to attend cabinet meetings. There is not an actual on-going committee system," Moylan said, because "not much is going on."

Rochelle Tucker will continue into the summer as student body treasurer. Jane Anne Rølston, one of four assistant attorney generals for the 1983-84 year, has been nominated by Monroe for the position of acting attorney general but must be approved by the Campus Governing Council.

The CGC will meet Tuesday in order to approve the attorney general and the Honor Court nominations and to decide who will fill vacant officer positions. The committee will consist of representatives who remain in Chapel Hill, and will probably vary throughout the summer, Moylan said.

In a telephone interview at his home in Charlotte, CGC Speaker James Exum said that the CGC "officially has the same powers" in the summer that it does during the regular semesters. He said that usually the returning members "serve in the same capacities," but he added that Ron Everett, student affairs chairperson (District 13) is the only CGC committee chairperson who will be in Chapel Hill for the summer.

When asked what the CGC has planned for the summer, Exum said that the council has only $1,500 to allocate to any campus organization that will remain active. Last year, the CGC sponsored a hot dog night in the Pit as well as a free night of bowling for UNC students. "It is likely that the CGC will do something similar this summer," Exum said.

Moylan added that she is in charge of allocating office space for the fall.

If there are any campus organizations who want to apply, contact Moylan at Suite C.
