The U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency recently has begun spraying marijuana plants in isolated areas with the weed-killer paraquat. Opponents of the spraying say it is expensive and dangerous to crops, livestock and people in nearby areas. The Reagan administration says it is needed to control marijuana use.

Do you think the DEA should be allowed to spray marijuana with paraquat?

Moses Watson, sophomore pre dental major, Laurinburg: "It should be allowed as long as they can do it and have it not be a hazard. As far as marijuana goes, I don't care what they do with it."

Paul Brandes

Paul Brandes, professor of speech communication, Chapel Hill: "Absolutely not. I don't think it's fair to have a fallout for everyone else. The breeze blows it on someone's cabbage. We don't have enough agencies to test it out."

Laurie Ford, junior industrial relations major, Henderson: "No. It's not fair to punish people who don't use marijuana. Innocent people may be harmed."

Laurie Ford

Scott Earp, sophomore chemistry major, Wrightsville Beach: "I think they should be allowed to do this. It helps drug awareness. It must be important to the DEA, so it should be of concern to the society."

Molly Wilson, freshman art history major, Winston-Salem: "No, not if it's harmful to crops. They can find better ways to control marijuana. They're cracking down on alcohol hard enough."

Patty Nelson, junior economics major, Atlanta: "No, not only does it kill marijuana, it kills other vegetation. It does more harm than good. There are other ways to eliminate drug use."

Granville parking lot kidnapping to be tried

By MARK STINNEFORD
Staff Writer

A Chapel Hill district court judge ruled Tuesday that there is sufficient evidence to pursue a case against three Durham men accused of kidnapping a UNC student from the Granville Towers parking lot in May.

Judge Stanley Peele forwarded the case to Orange County Superior Court.

Jeffrey Masler, 22, testified that three black men kidnapped him at gunpoint from the Granville lot at 11 p.m. on May 25 as he was getting in his car. Masler testified the men drove him to Durham and then fled on foot. Masler said the men stole a $400 watch and a $300 spare tire from him.

Masler was a student at the School of Pharmacy at the time of the incident but has since transferred to another school.

Kevin R. Canion, 19, of 911 Price Ave. and 6-D Wabash St., Calvin E. Wiggins, 17, of 908 Springdale St., and Maurice O.

Wiley, 20, of 211-B Cornwallis Road, are charged with second-degree kidnapping. Canion also is charged with robbery with a dangerous weapon and Wiley is charged with armed robbery.

Peele dismissed a charge of possession of stolen goods against Wiggins.

None of the accused is a UNC student.

Masler testified that the three men approached as he was getting into his car, and one asked him for the time. As Masler looked up from his car's clock, one of the men, whom he identified as Canion, pointed a gun at his midsection, Masler said.

Masler also identified Wiggins as one of the kidnapers but said he did not recognize Wiley.

After driving around Durham, the men ordered him out of the car and fled on foot, Masler said. Masler called police from a nearby house.

Lt. Robert Brooks of the Chapel Hill Police Detective Unit said all three men admitted to being involved in the kidnapping in statements to police.

Franklin Street Post Office undergoing renovation

The Franklin Street Post Office will be getting a facelift in the next few weeks.

Work on the building, which is the second phase of a remodeling plan for the building's exterior, began Wednesday.

Improvements to the post office's appearance include creating a plaza with benches, extending the front steps while adding a wheelchair ramp and making the center door wider to accommodate the handicapped.

A screened area designed to house newspaper racks will also be constructed in front of the building. The entrance to the District Attorney's office will also be improved.

Architect James Webb did remodeling plans for the post office. Delta Construction Company of Durham will handle the construction work.

The building, which houses the post office, a district courthouse and the Orange County District Attorney's office, was purchased by the Town of Chapel Hill in 1980. Since then, Chapel Hill has spent $600,000 on interior renovations.

SEMINAR: STUDY-SMART STRATEGIES FOR GETTING HIGH GRADES

NEVER SWEAT ANOTHER EXAM... STOP CRAMMING...
RELAX IN CLASS... CONTROL YOUR CAREER OPTIONS

NOW you don't have to be just "an average student" anymore! AT LAST, a practical, test-proven approach that shows you HOW to get the A's and B's you want, plus WHAT you need to know and do, and WHY. You don't have to be a genius either... and you'll still have plenty of time to party... because it's study-smart. Your seminar will be personally conducted by B.W. Quay, consultant, author and lecturer. He is a one-time college dropout who developed this study-smart system out of his own mistakes, then used it to become a double-major Dean's List student and university teacher.

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN: A total package from the basics to subtle persuasion tactics... Why 95% of students never actually study... How to study in "junk" time... Insights and strategies that your teachers won't and can't reveal to you—from an ex-teacher... Simple, sensible do-it-once techniques... Visualization skills that can make your memory almost photographic... How your classmates make it easy for you to gain the secret edge that jumps you way ahead in the race for A's... The 3 hours per month spent not studying that will raise your scores... How to guarantee your grade... Put an end to Test-Tension... and much, much more! STUDENT RATE seminar fee of $25 includes workbook with additional reading and resources. GUARANTEE: If you are not completely satisfied with this seminar after just the first hour, your tuition will immediately be refunded in full.

Decide THIS SEMESTER to stop settling for C's and start going for what you really want to be!
