 The cost of keeping the dormitories open will depend on the amount of rent collected, Ptaszynski said.
 "It depends on how many people actually sign up whether or not the ($16 interim) rent will make up for the costs of keeping these buildings open," he said. "It will definitely cost us several thousands of dollars to operate these buildings and keep the staff and security people, as well as pay for the tremendous utilities used."

 If approved, the moratorium resolution will only affect people who apply for building permits after Tuesday.
 Davis said he had received several calls from citizens expressing their opinions on the issue. He said some people favored the moratorium because they were opposed to all growth in the area while other people, those who will be directly affected by it, are against it.
 The hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Carrboro Town Hall.

 become much closer. "In a regular neighborhood, it may take years for people to get to know each other," he said. "It's a lot easier to avoid each other than to get to know each other. But here everyone must negotiate with everybody, working for a common interest and a common community."
 The residents at Turkey Farm Road are living in a unique situation, mixing what they see as the good things from communal-type living and the nice things from good old-fashioned neighborhoods.

For the record

The Daily Tar Heel inaccurately reported Thursday that the ointment form of Zovirax prevented 85 percent recurrence in herpes patients studied. The article should have said

Terri Creagh-Kirk reported that in clinical studies of the oral form of Zovirax, recurrent herpes outbreaks were prevented in 85 percent of the patients studied. The DTH regrets the error.

Because of a proofreading error, former Vice President Walter Mondale was misidentified in the story, "Levine says 1984 to be 'fascinating.'" The DTH regrets the error.

TOKYO — A Japanese lower court found former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka guilty today of accepting more than $2 million in bribes to promote the sale of Lockheed Corp. aircraft in Japan, according to Japanese news reporters in the courtroom.
 The Tokyo District Court ruling culminated a seven-year trial in which 16 government and airline officials and Lockheed agents were charged in Japan's biggest postwar scandal.
 Tanaka was accused of accepting the 500 million yen to promote the sale of Lockheed TriStar passenger jets in Japan when he served as prime minister from 1972-1974.
 All Nippon Airways, Japan's largest domestic airline, bought 20 of Lockheed's L-1101 wide-bodied TriStars between 1974 and 1978.
 Sixteen high-ranking Japanese government officials and businessmen have been tried since January 1977 in three separate trials in the Lockheed case.
MOSCOW — An official source said Tuesday that two Soviet radar failures and confusion by defense commanders allowed a South Korean jetliner to fly through Soviet airspace unnoticed for more than two hours before it was shot down.
 The source, who spoke on condition that he not be identified, contradicted the official government version of events that led a Soviet warplane to destroy the Korean Air Lines Boeing 747 near Sakhalin Island in the Sea of Japan.

 He said two of three radar stations on the Kamchatka peninsula that should have detected the plane Sept. 1 were not working and that the plane's intrusion of Soviet airspace was not confirmed until it reached Sakhalin Island, 400 miles southwest of Kamchatka.
RALEIGH — Several North Carolina Republican leaders with ties to the National Congressional Club say they can support Bill Cobey in another bid for Congress, but not in a challenge of Rep. Jim Martin for the gubernatorial nomination.
 Patric Dorsey of New Bern, 1st District chairman, one of several party leaders meeting Monday for an informal discussion of the 1984 campaign, said Cobey would be defeated if he opposes Martin and would be lost to the party in the future as a candidate.
RALEIGH — Former House Speaker Carl Stewart said Tuesday he'll seek the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor in 1984 and will make it a part-time job if elected.
 The Gastonia native, who lost his 1980 bid for the office to Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, is the second man to enter the race. State Sen. Bob Jordan, D-Montgomery, said last month that he is a candidate and Sen. Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir, is expected to get in the race soon.
 "There are no full-time responsibilities of the lieutenant governor," he said in an interview later. "I believe the people want to see less of the lieutenant governor rather than more of the lieutenant governor."
