

Bush observes Marine camp; more bodies found

The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Vice President George Bush donned a flak jacket and helmet to look at the horror of the bomb-devastated Marine camp in Beirut Wednesday and declared that "insidious terrorist cowards" would not shift U.S. policy in the Middle East.

"International terror in the world is simply driven home when you see this," Bush said as he stood before the crushed concrete of what had been the four-story headquarters of the Marines' battalion landing team headquarters.

Bodies continued to be pulled from the rubble during Bush's visit. The U.S. death toll stood at 219 from the bombing Sunday. The French said 54 of their troops died in an almost simultaneous bombing in a building a mile north.

Cpl. Randy Barefoot, 21, of Kenly, who was helping to dig through the wreckage at the Marine Camp, said: "We've given up hope anybody is alive. All the floors are pressed down and everything is squished."

During his three-hour stay, Bush met with President Amin Gemayel and the commanders of the French and Italian peacekeeping forces in Lebanon.

He landed while the Marines at Beirut airport were on their highest state of alert following a dawn attack with small arms, mortars and bazookas.

"The shooting all along our eastern perimeter stopped shortly before 7 a.m. when we fired two rounds from 81mm mortars," said Marines spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan. No Marines were hit.

Bush arrived amid tight security shortly before 9 a.m. by helicopter from the USS Iwo Jima off the Lebanese coast. He had flown to the amphibious assault ship nearly two hours before and his arrival in Beirut was delayed, presumably by the firing on the Marine camp.

Bush put on a flak jacket and a steel helmet for the tour of the building that had housed up to 300 Marines when it was flattened Sunday by a truck loaded with explosives driven into the lobby by a suicide terrorist.

"I hadn't expected this much destruction," he said. "You heard about it. You read it. But until you see it... I guess it's the horror, just the cowardly horror. You know what happened, what somebody did."

Bush said that he had spoken with President Reagan just before leaving Washington and that Reagan would not change U.S. policy toward Lebanon because of the attack.

"Foreign policy is not going to be dictated or changed by terror," he said. "We're not going to let down friends. We're not going to let a bunch of insidious terrorist cowards shape the foreign policy of the United States."

Bush's visit came 48 hours after French President Francois Mitterrand had visited his country's troops here, and

President Gemayel said the two visits "reassured the solidarity of the two friendly countries."

Bush made no comment to reporters after meeting with Gemayel. At the airport he also met with Gen. Francois Cann, commander of French troops in Beirut, and Gen. Fanco Angioni, commander of the Italian contingent of the multinational peacekeeping force.

Meanwhile, the Gemayel government repeated that it is still planning to convene a reconciliation conference among Lebanon's warring Moslem and Christian leaders Monday in Geneva.

The privately owned Central News Agency, which has close ties to Gemayel's administration, said invitations were sent Wednesday to Syria and Saudi Arabia, requesting them to send observers to the meeting.

Such a move, along with the meeting itself, was called for in the Sept. 26 cease-fire ending three weeks of Christian-Druse fighting in the central mountains.

The fighting began after Israeli troops pulled out of the mountains to safer positions in southern Lebanon.

The Israelis, who invaded Lebanon in June 1982 in an attempt to smash the Palestine Liberation Organization, have agreed to withdraw from the country if the Syrians get out.

But the Syrians, who have been in Lebanon since ending the 1975-76 Moslem-Christian civil war, refuse.

State and Nation

The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua—The invasion of Grenada raises special concern in Nicaragua, which the Reagan administration views much as it did the Caribbean island nation—a country governed by a leftist regime in an impoverished region ripe for revolution.

Daniel Ortega, head of the three-man junta that governs Nicaragua, said the Grenada invasion and the Reagan administration's "irresponsible" attitude toward Nicaragua "can lead to a generalized war in all of Central America."

Nicaragua has long claimed the United States plans to invade it, and the Grenada incursion gives the Marxist government in Managua a precedent to point to U.S. troops are already stationed near Nicaragua's borders, and American-backed rebels attack Nicaragua regularly.

Ortega told 50,000 protest marchers in Managua Tuesday night that there is proof of CIA plans "to provoke military attacks on economic objectives in Honduras and Costa Rica with the aim of blaming them on our country, thus providing a pretext to undertake a greater aggression against Nicaragua."

for deployment in Western Europe in mid-December.

The missiles were the first of a series of major weapons programs in President Reagan's military buildup facing floor challenges as the House began a paragraph-by-paragraph examination of a $247 billion military spending bill.

Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., chairman of the defense appropriations subcommittee, moved to delete the $432.8 million earmarked for buying 95 missiles, but he lost in a voice vote.

Addabbo argued that the 108 missiles needed for deployment in Europe already have been bought and that technical bugs that showed up in flight tests should be corrected before more are purchased.

An Addabbo ally, Rep. Les AuCoin, D-Ore., argued that deployment of the missiles, intended to counter Soviet SS-20 missiles already arrayed against Europe, would be provocative and add to the arms race.

But Reps. Norman Dicks, D-Wash., and Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., said a vote against further procurement would send signals of weakness both to America's allies and to arms-control negotiators.

BOSTON — AIDS may be caused by a plant fungus that mimics a drug used to lower immunity in organ transplant patients, federal scientists say.

"We are working around the clock on it," said Dr. Thomas Folks, one of the researchers. "We are very excited about it."

The fungus, which has never been known to cause disease in human beings, has been found in the blood of victims of AIDS.
