

Meese requests appointment of prosecutor

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Edwin Meese III asked Thursday for the appointment of a special prosecutor to make a "rapid, impartial and thorough" investigation into the charges of political and financial improprieties that jeopardize his prospect of becoming attorney general.

President Reagan said he has full confidence in "my trusted colleague for 17 years" and that Meese would remain on duty as presidential counselor while the prosecutor investigates — a process that could take months and throw the issue into the midst of the election campaign.

Meese said he was sure he would be cleared of "the misrepresentations and baseless charges which have been raised in this political year by those who oppose my nomination."

Attorney General William French Smith, who is eager to leave the Justice Department to take an advisory role in Reagan's re-election campaign, was considered certain to abide by Meese's request and ask a three-judge panel to select the special prosecutor, or "independent counsel."

Under the Watergate-spawned Ethics in Government Act of 1978, the prosecutor will be empowered to name a staff, take sworn testimony and subpoena documents. Meese's chief critic, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, called on Reagan to withdraw the nomination without waiting for the prosecutor's findings.

"The continuation of this matter only hurts people's confidence in their own government," he said.

Meese said he wanted "all allegations" investigated. That would cover the political jobs given six people who helped him financially as well as Meese's role, if any, in the receipt of papers purloined from the files of former President Jimmy Carter during the 1980 presidential campaign.

In addition, the prosecutor could look into the latest revelation — Meese's failure to pay income taxes on several hundred dollars' worth of interest on his savings in the White House Federal Credit Union.

A White House official, who asked not to be identified, said Meese would file amended tax returns for 1981 and 1982. Larry Speakes, the White House spokesman, said he assumed that would be done.

The investigation will delay the resumption of Senate confirmation hearings by months and sharpen a developing political issue.

On Sunday, Meese announced that Smith was starting a preliminary inquiry to see if a special prosecutor was needed. Under the ethics law, Smith had to seek the appointment of a prosecutor unless he found the allegations concerning Meese to be frivolous.

From the start, Meese has denied wrongdoing.

Collision causes dispute

From Associated Press reports

WASHINGTON — Spokesmen from the Department of Defense and the Navy disagreed Thursday as to whether the Soviet submarine that collided with the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk was under sonar surveillance at the time of the collision.

Michael Burch, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, said in a news briefing that the ships escorting the Kitty Hawk lost contact with the Soviet Victor-class sub before the Wednesday collision in the Sea of Japan.

Navy spokesman Lieutenant Commander John Woodhouse disagreed, saying that the sonar contact was deliberately broken about two hours before the incident.

"It is not necessary in an exercise to maintain 24-hour-a-day contact," Woodhouse said. "...We know they are there and they know we know they are there."

Burch also disclosed at the briefing that the Kitty Hawk had suffered some damage. An underwater fuel tank containing aircraft fuel had been breached and the fuel mixed with seawater. There was no change in the Pentagon's report that there were no casualties among the Kitty Hawk's 5,000 man crew.

Salvadoran campaign ends

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — The Salvadoran presidential campaign ended Wednesday with a clash between the far-right Republican National Alliance headed by Robert D'Aubuisson and the Christian Democrat Party of Jose Napoleon Duarte.

Colonel Roberto Rodriguez Murcia, head of the 5th Infantry Brigade based in San Vicente, said that members of the Republican National

News In Brief

Alliance were holding a rally in the town square when they clashed with the Christian Democrats who were parading through the city. Members of the rightist National Conciliation Party were also involved. Residents said that one Christian Democrat was hospitalized with a gunshot wound to the head and that several others were stabbed or beaten.

Two convicted of rape

FALL RIVER, Mass. — A jury Thursday convicted two of four men charged with aggravated rape in the case of a woman who was gang-raped on a barroom pool table while spectators cheered.

The other two were acquitted of all charges.

The jury convicted Victor Raposo and John Cordeiro of aggravated rape and acquitted Virgilio Medeiros and Jose Medeiros. Neither of the Medeiros had been implicated in the attack. Instead, witnesses had testified that the two tried to interfere with efforts to stop or report the rape. The two Medeiros men are not related.

N.C. unemployment drops

RALEIGH — North Carolina's unemployment rate dropped one-half of one percent in February according to figures released Thursday by the Employment Security Commission.

The statewide rate decreased from 8.1 percent in January to February's 7.6 percent.

In February 1983, 333,900 people were unemployed across the state. The present rate puts unemployment at 222,100.

Manager says computers will be essential at work

BETH O'KELLEY
Staff Writer

The number of computer terminals in work places will equal the number of telephones in U.S. businesses by 1990, an IBM executive said Wednesday night at a discussion in New East.

Mel C. Deener, manager of market support at IBM's Raleigh office, said 27.5 million computer work stations would be found in offices by the end of the decade.

The discussion was held at a meeting of the International Association of Students in Economic and Business Management. UNC Professor of Economics Anne Witte also spoke at the meeting.

"The computer terminal will become the status symbol," Deener said. "Prudential has just ordered 2,000 terminals for employees to use in their homes."

As a result Deener foresees rapid growth in the computer industry. "The whole computer industry has compounded at a rate greater than 20 percent per year. We think that IBM, which is now a $40 billion business, will be worth $100 billion by 1990."

Witte said changes in public attitudes will be necessary for people to adapt to the increasing use of computers.

"The computer revolution has both good and bad points," she said. "The new technology is something you have to come to grips with. In the future there will be much less hard copy paper. People will have to learn to work in a word processing environment."

Students should be taking greater advantage of on-campus workshops like a recent one offered in Phillips Hall that introduced students to the computer language of UNC's computer system, she said.

Both speakers agreed that communication via computers is increasing. IBM, RCA and Sears have just joined forces in creating a "videotech" system for the U.S. that would provide for the day when every home will have a computer, Deener said. European countries have already begun implementing videotech systems of their own, he said.
