

Campus political groups find funds without party aid

By JIM TOWNSEND
Staff Writer

Representatives from both the Democratic and Republican state party headquarters say they provide no direct funds to political organizations on college campuses and that groups like UNC's College Republicans and Young Democrats make their own financial decisions.

State Republican Party Chairman David Flaherty said that groups like the College Republicans take pride in their ability to raise enough money to meet their costs: "I don't think they'd necessarily want the money if we offered it to them. Still, they're a valuable part of our overall organization, and we're glad to help them in any way that we can."

But Flaherty said the state party did provide opportunities for college groups to raise money for themselves.

"When Vice President Bush was in Winston-Salem, members of the College Republicans helped us sell 'Fritz-buster' T-shirts, and they got 9 percent of all the profits," Flaherty said. "The Republicans at Wake Forest University organized a rally for Bush of about 5,000 students. The Vice President was amazed at the response."

Ann Hubbard, a representative from the state Democratic party headquarters, said that the Young Democrats and the North Carolina Federation of College Democrats received no financial help from the state organization. Like the College Republicans, the Young Democrats raise their own funds.

"We always managed to stay on our own financially," said former UNC Young Democrats President

Harry Kaplan. "We rely more on the strength of our organization than on the size of our budget."

Now a staff worker at the Orange County Democratic headquarters, Kaplan added: "We had 150 people at our opening meeting on Sunday, and there's a lot of enthusiasm. We use more of a grass-roots—movement apparatus than the Republicans. You can't put a price on that."

College Republican president Ray Shimer expressed similar feelings about his organization.

"With our membership drive and the money we make from the dues, having enough money really isn't too much of a problem," Shimer said. "The success of our organization comes from our having a central core of 15 or 20 people who are just really hard workers," he said. "Money isn't as important as people think it is."

Graham defends Reagan

From Horace and Mildred

TALLINN, U.S.S.R. — The Rev. Billy Graham said yesterday that despite what Soviets think of President Reagan's "unfortunate" joke about bombing the Soviet Union, the president sincerely wants peace.

The 65-year-old American Baptist evangelist told officials of the Baltic republic of Estonia that he has known Reagan for 30 years and, "I believe he is for peace in his heart."

Before a radio address on Aug. 11, Reagan said jokingly: "My fellow Americans, I'm pleased to tell you today that I've signed legislation that will outlaw Russia forever. We begin bombing in five minutes." The remark was picked up and broadcast on an open microphone.

Graham, saying the remark was "unfortunate," added: "But you have to remember that he was a film actor and actors are used to little jokes they don't mean."

Soviets bristled at Graham's mention of the remark. "We hope that it (the joke) is not in his heart," said Meta Vannias, vice president of the Estonian Supreme Soviet.

Convicted murderer called abused child

ASHEVILLE — Witnesses testified yesterday that a 16-year-old convicted of murder and armed robbery was an abused child of alcoholic parents as a Buncombe County Superior Court jury considered whether to invoke the death penalty.

William Rasor was convicted of first-degree murder Wednesday in the ax slaying of 86-year-old John E. McMahan Sr. of Black Mountain. Roger William Giles, 15, was convicted of second-degree murder in the slaying and both were found guilty of robbery with a dangerous weapon.

News in Brief

Alexander County Department of Social Services, said William "Tex" Rasor was legally determined to be an abused child in 1979 after hospitalization for "bruises all over his body." He was placed in a foster home, the first of several institutions that worked with Rasor before he ran away from the Juvenile Evaluation Center in Swannanoa on March 19.

Reagan blames Democrats for deficit

NASHVILLE — President Reagan, accusing his opponents of suffering from "time warp," insisted yesterday that the Democrats — and not his administration — are responsible for the record-breaking deficits amassed during his presidency.

Deriding for the fourth straight day Walter Mondale's plan to raise taxes to stem the tide of red-ink, Reagan declared: "We don't need more politicians insisting we have deficits because you're not taxed enough."

As he left the White House for a campaign trip to Tennessee, Reagan repeated his charge that Democrats are to blame for the deficits.

"Since they (Democrats) have been approving deficit spending for — virtually 50 years and 42 of which they have dominated the Congress, I would have to say they can't remove themselves from the blame," he said.

Reagan's trip coincided with the release of a Washington Post-ABC News poll showing the president with a 16-point lead over Mondale. Nevertheless, Reagan said he still would "run scared."

Merchants

said David Duckett, assistant manager. Football Saturdays are "a nightmare or a zoo," he said. Top of the Hill has eight to 10 employees working on those days. One person stays in the cooler for three or four hours at a time putting beer on the shelves, Duckett said.

At Fowler's Food Store at 306 W. Franklin St. students come in after the game to buy beverages, usually beer or wine, said Jerome Fidwell, the assistant manager. Cook-out supplies are also popular during good weather, he said.

Assistant managers from both Top of the Hill and Fowler's said that before the ban on coolers in Kenan Stadium, more people came in before the games to fill coolers. Their busiest hours now are after the game when, according to Fidwell, people come to either "celebrate or drown their sorrows." At Top of the Hill, the employees usually stay until 3 or 4 a.m. Sunday to clean up after the barrage of customers.

With all the people celebrating and socializing on Franklin Street after football games, it seems that problems would be sure to arise. Not true, say most local merchants.

Bryson said that at Spanky's they have never had any real problems with rowdy crowds. Most of their customers are young alumni who are usually well-behaved, he said. Neither Richland nor Smith had seen any problems with the fans who visit Four Corners or the Rathskeller.

Like Bryson at Spanky's, most local merchants look forward to football season for the money the fans bring in. "People are in a good mood, there is good tipping, and good money," Bryson said.

The mass of people flooding Chapel Hill on game Saturdays can be overwhelming, though. Words like "chaos," "madhouse" and "loud" were used by merchants to describe the post-game atmosphere.

In a story in yesterday's The Daily Tar Heel, "Number of faculty SAC seats multiplies," the number of faculty seats in the Student Activities Center should have been listed as 4-5,000. The DTH regrets the error.
