Anthony doesn't want to be stereotyped as a runner

By MICHAEL SCHOOB
Staff Writer

Sophomore quarterback Kevin Anthony, pleased to accept his first collegiate starting assignment in UNC's Saturday opener against Navy, does not want to be stereotyped as a running quarterback.

UNC coach Dick Crum, who plans to play both Anthony and redshirt freshman Mark Maye on Saturday, believes the two are very similar in leadership ability and intelligence; but Anthony is more mobile while Maye has the stronger throwing arm, Crum said.

"(But) I don't concentrate more on sprint-outs and Mark doesn't concentrate more on pocket-passing," Anthony said.

"If I need to run I can; if I need to pass I can. When I think of a runner (at quarterback) I think of the old Alabama quarterbacks under 'Bear' Bryant who ran the option."

Crum chose Anthony, who backed up Scott Stankavage last season, on the basis of experience. Anthony played in the first six games of 1983.

"Kevin's been under the gun a little bit more," Crum said. Anthony, who won the job over Maye, said that starting Saturday's game will be a big moment for him but the quarterback situation could remain a week-to-week thing. Anthony and Maye alternated with the first team in preseason scrimmages.

Anthony said both players wanted to start, but he understood that playing time would likely be split, at least in the early weeks of the season. "It (the quarterback competition) resulted in a tie," Crum said.

"The two-quarterback system can definitely work," Anthony said. "We both have an opportunity to prove ourselves and do well."

"I grew up in Georgia and watched the University of Georgia play with two quarterbacks for several years in a row and have success."

But Maye, a former high school All-American at Charlotte's Independence High School, grew up in North Carolina. Tar Heel fans have been anticipating the debut of their home state QB almost since the moment Maye chose UNC.

Anthony acknowledged the fans' interest in seeing Maye perform.

"(But) the fans are going to be happy when the team wins regardless of who is the quarterback," he said.

Maye says he wasn't surprised by Crum's quarterback decision

To redshirt freshman Mark Maye, head coach Dick Crum's decision to start sophomore Kevin Anthony against Navy on Saturday came as no surprise.

"To be honest with you, coach (Randy) Walker said something about it beforehand so I pretty well knew what coach Crum was going to say. And in the scrimmages, (Anthony) has worked the majority of the time with the first team." When Crum did talk to his two quarterbacks before practice Monday, Maye said the conversation was pretty one-sided. "I don't think we said a word. He said that basically we'd do it like in scrimmages. Kevin would open up for a couple of series and then I come in for a couple of series."

The decision didn't disappoint Maye much. "I think everybody would like to start. But this could help me out some; for the first couple of series I could see what's going on out in the field."

Maye also downplayed the quarterback "controversy" created by the fans and media. "I think in a way the whole thing has been blown out of proportion," the redshirt freshman said. "Kevin and I have a good relationship, and I think we both have made each other a better player. We each try to help each other out."

Maye believed he gained a great deal of experience as a redshirt, and is now ready to make the adjustment to major college ball. "In high school, I didn't know anything. I just dropped back and saw something and threw it to him. Now I'm learning how to read defenses and motion. It really helped me a whole lot. I also needed to get in some repetitions so I could feel comfortable with the offense."

"REPO MAN" is the saltiest, sweetest, most sublimely sleazy tickle in the Los Angeles ribs. If it doesn't convulse you with belly laughs, then you're a stiff... The most astonishing feature film debut since Steven Spielberg's "Duel."

Once you've tasted Killian's Irish Red, you may lose your yen for Japanese beer.

Now don't get us wrong. The Japanese make some pretty fine beers. But none of them slow-roast their malt like we do.

So no Japanese beer has the color, the rich, incredibly smooth taste of Killian's Red Ale.

So the next time you're about to order your favorite Japanese beer, try a Killian's Red, instead.

You just may lose your yen for anything less.
