

HPAA combines health, business careers

By MIKE ALLEN
Staff Writer

Students who are torn between a major in business or in a health-related field could find a solution in the Department of Health Policy and Administration in the school of Public Health.

The department, located in Rosenau Hall, emphasizes specific professional preparation for health policy and administration. Program graduates are prepared for beginning and middle-level line and staff positions in hospitals, nursing homes, public health departments, mental health centers, family planning programs and a variety of other health organizations.

Charles Grubb, director of the undergraduate program, said the program "allows you to combine an interest in business with a humanistic concern."

The program, which started in 1976, accepts only

20 students each academic year. This, Grubb said, encourages a close association with advisors and faculty and fosters more communication and a "small school feel within a large university."

The program is highly selective, and this is one reason why the program has experienced growth and nationwide recognition in the eight years since its inception, he said.

Students who apply to the program must do so their junior year. The program consists of two years of course work and a 12 week field training experience during the summer between the junior and senior year.

Scott Clay, a senior in the program, said the atmosphere is completely different from other undergraduate departments. "Everyone is very close in the program. You are on a first name basis with the faculty and your fellow students," Clay said. "The best facility is the faculty."

Susan Jones, another senior enrolled in the program, said students were always allowed to form their own opinions and develop skills for use in the working world. "Health care is dynamic, it changes all the time. The program teaches you to be assertive and able to adjust with changes in the field," she said.

The students in the program are comfortable with their surroundings, but are challenged by the subjects discussed and taught in the program, said senior Jennifer Elston. Students have the opportunity to socialize and work with graduate students in the department and, Elston said, "get a realistic picture of outside jobs."

The undergraduate HPAA program will sponsor a day in the Pit today, from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Interested students can receive information at the display or stop by Rosenau Hall for more details.

Career panels planned

University Career Planning and Placement is presenting a series of panel discussions designed to introduce students to people in career areas which many students will be entering after graduation. The discussions offer students an opportunity to explore career ideas and learn what skills are needed for different jobs, benefits and drawbacks of various career fields, and what it takes to enter today's job market in different careers.

Computer equipment taken

By LORRY WILLIAMS
Staff Writer

More than $3,300 worth of computer and office equipment was reported stolen from University buildings, according to University Police.

A computer network was taken from the Old Dental Building and a dictaphone and calculator were missing from MacNider Hall, reports said.

The computer system reported missing included the keyboard, display terminal, repair manuals and a diagnostic disk. The computer was in the shop for repairs, said Ron Goldstein, electronic technician at the Old Dental Building. Goldstein reported the computer missing Sept. 26.

"The computer was broken. The cover was off and it was sitting on my desk," Goldstein said. Goldstein also said there were television and other items in the room that would have been easy to take and sell. "All they took was the computer," he said.

According to Goldstein, the equipment had identifying marks on it and was insured.

"The room was locked that night when I left," said Joseph R. Wilkins, a technician in pediatrics. "Whether someone came in and left it unlocked is still unknown."

Exum case sent to center

A charge of simple assault against former Campus Governing Council Speaker James Exum last week was referred to the Dispute Settlement Center by the Orange County District Court.

Exum is charged with assaulting Louis Best, a sophomore from Kenansville, N.C.

Best filed charges after a shoving incident that occurred between the two

Sept. 20 in the fourth-floor lobby of Morrison Residence Hall.

Exum and Best will meet with the Dispute Settlement Center Oct. 3 to "discuss the mutual problem and resolve the issue," Exum said.

If Exum and Best do not reach an agreement, they will appear in court again on Oct. 11.

Improve your love life.

For Free.

Semicid, a vaginal contraceptive suppository, is an effective form of birth control that doesn't interrupt the mood. Because Semicid is so small and discreet, it's almost like using nothing at all.

There's no mess, no smell. No unpleasant taste. Nothing to remove. And it's available without a prescription.

And Semicid works. It contains the most effective contraceptive spermicide — nonoxonyl-9. And Semicid has no hormones that can cause unpleasant side effects. If your doctor has said you should not become pregnant, ask him or her about Semicid. Semicid is approximately as effective as vaginal foam contraceptives in actual use, but is not as effective as the Pill or IUD. Some Semicid users experience irritation in using the product. For best protection against pregnancy, it is essential to follow package directions. And it is essential that you insert Semicid at least fifteen minutes before intercourse. But you may insert it up to an hour before, if you wish.

Stop using messy, clumsy birth control methods. Try Semicid for free, and see how it can improve your love life.
