Alert Cable may add Playboy Channel

By BRIAN MULLANEY Staff Writer

The Playboy Channel may soon be available for Alert Cable subscribers since the Carrboro Board of Aldermen's approval last week of the first reading of a franchise agreement.

The board voted 4-2 in favor of Alert Cable's proposal to increase its rates by $10 and its number of channels from 20 to 35. One of the 15 additional channels would be the Playboy Channel.

Alderman Zona Norwood, one of the two voting against the proposal, said she had reservations about allowing the Playboy Channel into Carrboro residences. Claiming its programming is full of filth and vulgarity, Norwood said, "I don't see anything good about it."

She said 1,300 Carrboro residents had presented a signed petition opposing the proposal.

Responding to First Amendment concerns pointed out by Town Attorney Michael B. Brough, Norwood said she was aware of the legal ramifications. "My responsibility . . . (however), is to vote for what I think is best for Carrboro," Norwood said.

Mayor Jim Porto said he supported the proposal because of the benefits it would bring Carrboro.

"(The Playboy Channel) is the only question mark in our minds. The new channels would bring more live local programming. . . (from) the ArtSchool, the grammar school, and town hall," Porto said.

In other action, the board voted unanimously to continue the public hearing on a request for rezoning property on the N.C. 54 Bypass.

James A. Moore of Jacksonville requested that the board change the zoning of a 9.43-acre tract across from Chateau Apartments and south of Tar Heel Manor apartments from high-density residential to commercial use. If approved, Moore plans to build a Ford dealership on the land. The Carrboro Planning Board, voting 3-2, opposed the change. A number of members of the Board of Aldermen and Mayor Porto wanted further studies to be made before the board took any action.

The board also voted to establish a Human Services Advisory Commission and voted to hold two public hearings Oct. 23 concerning a conditional use permit for 132 apartments on Jones Ferry Road and a request for a conditional use permit renewal by Byrd's Shopping Center.

houses and apartments to be removed to make way for the extension. "Anytime you come through with a plan like this you impact upon people's lives," he said

Speaking of other places that the town could possibly build the extension,

Caldwell said, "A lot of people come in by Merritt Mill Road. If those people can be routed around Carrboro then Merritt Mill Road is a viable option."

He said that if the bond referendum was approved by the town he wanted the Board of Aldermen to discuss other places to build the extension.

Porto said that part of the plan for the extension as proposed may include building a new bike path from Chapel Hill to Carrboro so that students would be able to travel between the two towns more easily without passing through heavy traffic along one of the town's main thoroughfares.

A tunnel under the extension would be necessary for the bike path so bikers would not have to cross the extension, according to Porto. But Sutton said he doubted the town would build the tunnel because the land is flat in that area and the tunnel would cost too much.

A proposal of a second referendum will be presented to Carrboro voters Nov. 6 includes also building bike lanes along the sides of the Franklin Street Extension and on other roads in Carrboro, but Sutton said he questioned whether the town would actually include the lanes.

He said he also doubted the guarantee of a bike path. "If they need extra width on the street, then there goes the bike path."

"The worst problem (for bikes) is cars turning right into the right turn lane. It is a very dangerous situation," he said.

But Porto said that before the extension was built, "We would have to have some way to accommodate bicycles so bicycle traffic is protected from vehicle traffic."

"We think we can work with the Department of Transportation to accommodate (the bike path)," he said, explaining that it would not cost much more to build the bike tunnel.

Also, UNC College Republican Allen Taylor was the source of the statement: "I don't think Mondale can cut the mustard when it comes to cutting the deficit . . . In the words of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, you cannot get the American government out of the red by putting the American people in the red." The DTH regrets the errors.

For the record

In Thursday's story, "College Republicans, Young Democrats spar," Young Democrat debate team member Jaye Sitton was incorrectly identified as the source of the statement "Reagan had not denied blacks jobs, but was committed to providing jobs . . . on ability." A UNC College Republican member made the statement.

Tutu receives Peace Prize

From Associated Press reports

OSLO, Norway — Anglican Bishop Desmond Tutu, the moral voice of South Africa's powerless black majority, was awarded the 1984 Nobel Peace Prize yesterday.

With its decision, the Norwegian Nobel Committee restated a position it first took a quarter-century ago, when it honored Tutu's black countryman Albert Lutuli that people who work for human rights work for peace.

"The word 'peace' is more and more considered a matter of human rights," committee Chairman Egil Aavik said after announcing the award to the anti-apartheid leader. "If human rights are violated in any place of the world, . . . a peace would not be real or would not last."

Tutu, 53, a visiting professor at the General Theological Seminary in New York, called the award "a wonderful political statement" and said it was recognition that anti-apartheid forces "are instruments of peace and justice" and are winning.

Banks reduce prime lending rates

Several major banks reduced their prime lending rates today to 12.5 percent from 12.75 percent, one day after another big bank went further by cutting its prime rate to 12.25 percent.

Citibank, the nation's second largest bank, led the move to a quarter-point reduction in the prime rate, which is considered a benchmark for bank loans to business. Chase Manhattan, the third largest bank, No. 6 Chemical Bank and No. 7 First National Bank of Chicago quickly followed.

Meanwhile, First Union National Bank, based in Charlotte, announced that it would follow suit, dropping its prime rate to 12.5.

"Any move of less than a half percent is considered an adjustment," said Jim Singleton, spokesman for First Union. "We've moved down two quarters in the last three weeks. We'll have to wait and see if this is significant."

First Union and other North Carolina state banks cut their prime rate from 13 percent to 12.75 percent on Sept. 27.

News in Brief

Martin: Edmisten has abused privileges

RALEIGH — Attorney General Rufus Edmisten has exploited his office, thwarting investigations of some "cronies" while showing favoritism to others, his Republican rival in the race for governor charges yesterday.

U.S. Rep. Jim Martin said in a news conference he wanted to focus public attention on Edmisten's record, which he said belies Edmisten's claim that he is a champion of the average person.

Edmisten press secretary Dan Hoover, who attended the news conference at state Republican headquarters, told reporters afterward: "A stuck pig squeals." "I heard the same old smoke screen, the same old diversionary tactics."

Martin gave reporters a collection of photocopied newspaper stories dating as far back as the mid-1970s. Some contained allegations that Edmisten had "seriously damaged" State Bureau of Investigation morale by letting politics influence hiring and promotional decisions. Edmisten denied it.

Hunt criticizes Helms' allies

CHARLOTTE — Democratic Gov. Jim Hunt yesterday continued his attack on what he called the "ultra right-wing connections" of Republican Sen. Jesse Helms, but he said "big oil is Jesse Helms' favorite special interest."

"He has voted for tax breaks worth hundreds of billions of dollars for oil interests, and they have returned the favor by pumping hundreds of thousands of dollars into his campaign," Hunt said at a Charlotte news conference.

Helms, who was campaigning yesterday in northwestern North Carolina, could not be reached immediately for comment. But he criticized Hunt on Monday for "attacking these fine Americans who have done nothing but stand up for their God and country."
