

Delayed '84 'Yack' coming in March, April

The 1984 Yackety Yack will be ready for distribution at the end of March or early April if no unforeseen problems occur, said Bryce Lankard, the yearbook's production manager.

Yack Editor Lisa Granberry said she had hoped the book would be ready in November, but complications delayed its completion.

"Several pictures and layouts were stolen over the summer," Granberry said, and those pictures and others could not be taken until photographers returned to school in the fall.

Staff changes in the middle of the year also resulted in a late start, she added.

"The Yack could have been out earlier but that would have meant sacrificing quality," Lankard said. "We'd rather have lateness than poor quality."

According to Granberry, the '84 book will have at least 400 pages and will not contain a lot of written copy. "It's a traditional Yack," she said.

"The students should be pleased with what they get," Lankard said.

A waiting list has been started for students who want to purchase an '84 Yack but did not order one. Books not ordered by subscription probably will sell for $20-$30 a copy, according to Granberry.

Extra '83 Yacks also are available in the Yack office. Students who ordered books can pick them up at the Yack office, and others can purchase them for $20 per copy, Granberry said.

County residents can take a bite out of unsolved crimes

The Orange County Community Watch Association has started its Crimestoppers program, offering rewards of up to $1,200 for information leading to arrests and indictments for crimes committed in this area.

In the program, the Orange County Sheriff's Department, in conjunction with other local law enforcement agencies, releases information each week concerning an unsolved crime in the county. This information is released through newspaper, radio, and television announcements asking area residents to help solve the crime.

Anyone with information about that or any other unsolved crime can call the toll-free 24-hour Crimestoppers number, said Furman Herring, media coordinator for the Orange County program.

"No one who calls us will be asked to leave his name," Herring said. "All callers will be given a code number, and any rewards are claimed with that number."

According to Detective Steve Chalmers of the Durham Public Safety Department, the Durham Crimestoppers program has been very successful since it began in July 1983.

"I think the program is really a service to the community," said Chalmers, coordinator of the Durham program. "We've paid about $6,500 in rewards, and all the cases that have gone to court have led to convictions."

Crimestoppers is a non-profit citizen's group and obtains its reward money from donations. Herring stressed the need for contributions, saying, "Although the organization is made up of volunteers, money is needed to pay phone expenses and rewards."

Anyone wishing to report crime information to Orange County Crimestoppers can call 1-800-851-7867.

Carrboro urged to save water

By BETH OWNLEY
Staff Writer

Carrboro residents living in the vicinity of the Orange Water and Sewer Authority on Jones Ferry Road have been asked to conserve water today because of a waterline which burst under the OWASA plant Sunday.

Pat Davis, systems development coordinator for OWASA, said that he did not know why the 10-inch waterline burst. He said that the waterline was taking a long time to fix because of its size. OWASA plans to open a line from Hillsborough today to provide more water to Carrboro. The line would be flushed to avoid odor and discoloration, Davis said.

OWASA is asking its Carrboro customers to conserve water because of the low water pressure and low water supply. Davis said that OWASA would inform residents near the plant if their water service would be interrupted.

Doug Terry, superintendent of OWASA, said that all residents should have water, but some people may experience short interruptions.

Sandlin arraignment postponed

From staff reports

HILLSBOROUGH — District Attorney Carl Fox yesterday suspended the arraignment of Lester Sandlin until Feb. 11.

An Orange County grand jury indicted Sandlin Dec. 10 on 25 counts of embezzling cadavers from the UNC School of Medicine. Sandlin was curator of anatomical material at the University until August 1984.

Sandlin was indicted in August on 11 charges of embezzling cadavers. He also faces 25 additional charges of defrauding the Veterans Administration and the UNC medical school.

Sandlin's arraignment was scheduled for 10 a.m. yesterday.

'Star Wars' may hinder talks

From United Press International reports

MOSCOW — President Reagan's "Star Wars" missile defense program is a "trump card" and cannot be used as a bargaining chip in U.S.-Soviet arms negotiations, a Soviet commentary said yesterday.

The comments carried by the official Tass news agency followed warnings by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that continued deployment of U.S. missiles in Western Europe could jeopardize the talks, and failure to halt Star Wars could block other progress.

Marcos: Rebellion growing

MANILA, Philippines — President Ferdinand Marcos, in a message to the National Assembly yesterday, admitted for the first time that a communist rebellion in the Philippines is growing and has taken on a "new dimension."

The message comes just two days after a U.S. envoy pledged American help in fighting the rebels — a pledge opposition leaders say could get U.S. forces involved in a Vietnam-type conflict in the Philippines.

Kennedy stirs South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Sen. Edward Kennedy's eight-day tour of South Africa has left the nation's minority whites united against the pullout of U.S. investment and blacks divided over strategies for their liberation.

"He certainly has stirred things up," said his official host, Nobel Prize laureate Bishop Desmond Tutu, Sunday after Kennedy left Johannesburg for Lusaka, Zambia. "No one has been able to ignore him."

Thai fighting continues

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand — Heavy fighting was reported early yesterday in Thai border regions of Cambodia where Vietnamese invasion forces have been bearing down on strongholds of Khmer Rouge rebels.

Residents of Aranyaprathet, 120 miles east of Bangkok, said they could hear the sounds of heavy artillery and small arms fire from inside Cambodia.

Preliminary reports said the fighting yesterday was centered in the

News in Brief

Klong Namsai area, 10 miles southeast of the key Thai border town of Aranyaprathet. It was the second straight day of fighting in the Khmer Rouge-held border regions. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

Vessey: 'Much to learn'

PEKING — The chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff told Chinese military cadets yesterday the armed forces of the two nations had much to learn from each other.

Gen. John Vessey, the highest-ranking U.S. officer to visit communist China, addressed cadets at the Peoples Liberation Army Military Academy prior to an afternoon meeting with Premier Zhao Ziyang.

Vessey's comments and the fact that he will meet with someone of Zhao's stature indicated the importance both sides place on promoting Sino-U.S. military exchanges, analysts said.

Two French dead in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Two French truce observers assigned to duty in buffer zones between Lebanon's rival factions were shot and killed yesterday as they drove through a Moslem neighborhood of Beirut, police sources said.

The shooting came as the Israeli Cabinet prepared for a special session to vote on a phased withdrawal that would remove all Israeli troops from south Lebanon by fall.

Reagan urges NATO strength

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, touting "alliance solidarity" as key to arms talks with Moscow, placed the deployment of cruise missiles in Belgium at the top of his agenda yesterday for talks with Belgian Prime Minister Wilfried Martens.

Concerned his negotiation hand would be "seriously weakened" by any hint of allied discord, Reagan hoped to persuade Martens to resist political pressure at home and proceed with NATO missile deployments set to begin in March.

CLIMB THE LETTERS TO SUCCESS.
Success is a long way up. But after taking the first step, the second one comes easier. Air Force ROTC can help you climb that ladder by providing a helping hand during college. It can enrich your college years and also help you with some of those school expenses at the same time.
You can compete for a two, three or four-year scholarship that pays $100 a month during the school year, while it picks up the tab for all tuition, lab and incidental fees and books.
The AFROTC program has many extras. Like the Flight Instruction Program (FIP), where you qualify for Air Force flight training through a screening process and receive introductory flight instruction. You'll also learn about leadership, management, Air Force history and traditions, and much more through AFROTC. The program prepares cadets to take command after they graduate and are commissioned as Air Force officers.
The list goes on. Check it out today. See if you can climb the letters to success and meet the challenge and accept the commitment. You'll find that the Air Force is a great way to serve your country, and that AFROTC is a great way to get there here.
