

Chapel Hill has restaurants to suit tastes of all

DTH/Larry Childress

A sign at Snoopy's Grill suggests it sells hot dogs for peanuts

By LOCH CARNES
Staff Writer

With the advent of each school semester, students flood Chapel Hill with a wide range of tastes and attitudes. The town abounds in restaurants. As unique as they are numerous, they satisfy most preferences and whimsical occasions.

Snoopy's Grill Masters, for example, is a hotdog, cheeseburger and barbeque spot at 1506 E. Franklin St. You won't find any beagles here; just good food.

With a relaxed atmosphere, Snoopy's is like a cousin to the curb-side restaurant. Customers can pick up orders at the service window and eat in their cars or on one of the sheltered picnic tables.

It's small, with a charm that attracts permanent residents and students.

Two friendly "grill masters," Lynn and Faye, explain that they cater to no particular group. Their business is good food and quick service.

Before most people have even pushed their alarm's snooze button for the first time, Janet Allen and her morning crew are preparing for breakfast. Allen runs the Sunrise Biscuit Kitchen, a fast-lane pickup restaurant at 1305 E. Franklin St.

Their speciality is biscuits — from simple buttered ones to chicken or steak biscuits. The lunch menu includes a homemade soup and a chili, the recipe for which Allen said he had to kill for.

Though the only contact with the customers is through the pick-up window, Allen says she believes in being "courteous and polite and making the customers feel that they are always correct."

She adds, "We want to be the fastest and the friendliest, with the best biscuits in town."

The person in the mood for something different may want to try WEOS. Conceived and managed by John Simkins, a junior at UNC, WEOS offers a variety of burgers and Philadelphia steak sandwiches.

From the beginning, Simkins says, his aim was to create a special atmosphere in his restaurant: "a fun, happy, different kind of place."

The result is a bright-faced building with a warm, friendly personality. A room adjacent to the open kitchen has barstools along a narrow food counter extending from the walls. A jukebox plays in the corner, and a commodious outdoor deck offers an ideal place for large groups.

For Simkins, the key word is "different." WEOS is designed with the change-of-pace student in mind.

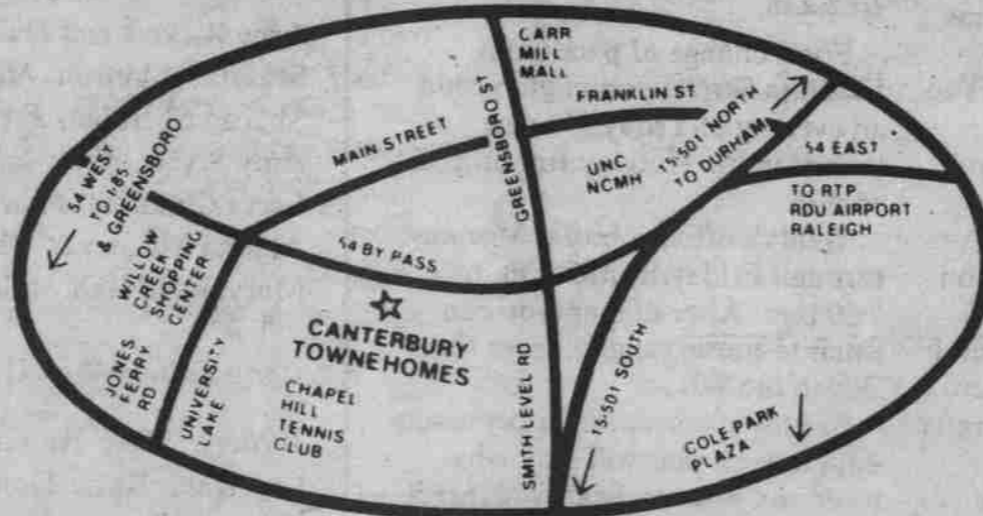

Canterbury Townehomes

Experience Canterbury... Private, Convenient, Affordable

Features:

- 1,030 Square Feet
- 2 Bedrooms
- 2 1/2 Baths
- Light and Airy Open Interiors
- Fireplace
- Washer-Dryer Connections
- Energy Efficient Hotpoint Appliances
- Carpeted
- Insulated Drapes
- Wallpaper Accents
- Private Patio w/Sliding Glass Door
- Double Thermopane Windows
- Dead Bolt Locks & Peepholes
- Sound Proofed
- Delta Faucets
- On "J" Bus Line
- Cablevision Available
- Water Included
- Qualifies For Duke Power's Energy Efficient Rate

Just minutes from Research Triangle Park, NC Memorial Hospital and UNC

Office Hours
M-F 10:30-6:30
Sat. 11:00-4:00
Sun. 1:00-5:00

132 Marlowe Court
Carrboro, N.C. 27510
919-929-7096

BRAND NEW
NOW
LEASING

BACK THEN VINTAGE CLOTHIERS

The place to find something old, something new & something different for men & women.

From paisley ties, bow ties, cummerbunds & suspenders to rhinestone jewelry, hair accessories, paisley blouses & much more.

We even have Victorian-style lace-up boots
Create your own style

405 W. Franklin
Chapel Hill, NC
929-6221

We have rentals too.