

Sanford group formed to publicize race

By CHRIS CHAPMAN
Staff Writer

As candidates gear up for the homestretch of the off-year elections, political activity on the state's campuses is predictably increasing.

The state-wide version of Students for Sanford was officially formed last week in Chapel Hill, where a campus version existed in the spring. The organization is assisting former Gov. Terry Sanford, a Democrat, in his U.S. Senate race against incumbent Sen. Jim Broyhill.

Students for Sanford was founded by Shep Moyle, former 1982 Duke University student body president, and Kevin Monroe, UNC's student body president in 1983-84. Moyle was also president of the American Association of University Students in 1983-84.

Moyle said Sanford wanted a state-wide student organization because Sanford believes it will be a close race, and students could make the difference.

Moyle said the organization also stems from Sanford's commitment to education. Sanford was president of Duke University from 1969 to 1985. "When I was at Duke, Governor Sanford had an open-door policy. Students could walk into his office any time," he said.

Moyle said the group was unique in its independence. Both he and Moyle meet frequently with Sanford, and there is no level of bureaucracy between the candidate and the group, he said.

"We have our own budget, office and theme, and that's something that's never been done before," Monroe said.

Moyle said, "Students for Sanford will have more than a chance just to be the arms and legs of the campaign. Students have a chance to make policy."

Monroe said the group will not stray too far from proven approaches in raising money. Students for Sanford will collect contributions through picnic lunches, rallies, bumper stickers and buttons.

The organizing effort undertaken by Monroe and Moyle was unprecedented in breadth. Using the theme "Terry's Team," Students for Sanford plans to organize every college campus in North Carolina, Monroe said. In just over a week, "we're already over forty schools," he added.

By targeting community colleges, the group is "honestly committed" to organizing over 100 campuses, Moyle said.

Moyle said the most schools organized in a campaign was 21 during the Hunt-Helms 1984 Senate campaign.

Students for Sanford is also planning three major rallies for the fall campaign. One will be held in Charlotte, another in Chapel Hill and the third at an undetermined site. The dates for the rallies are also undetermined.

Moyle said the rallies will make politics fun. "They'll be events, with entertainment," he said. "We're not talking about typical campus rallies."

Finally, Students for Sanford is producing a music video showing the candidate meeting with students at various sites around the state. The video will feature footage filmed by students at UNC and Duke.

Last week saw Students for Sanford conduct a recruitment drive in the Pit, garnering over 150 signatures. "I was very pleased, but we need all the help we can get," Freeman said.

Terrorists bomb Paris, again

From Associated Press reports

PARIS — Terrorists struck the French capital Wednesday for the fifth time in 10 days, demolishing a clothing store with a bomb thrown from a car. Five people were killed and 58 injured, authorities said.

Three people were killed and more than 100 injured in the previous bombings, which prompted the government to adopt tough anti-terrorist measures.

Groups calling themselves the Committee for Solidarity with Arab and Middle East Political Prisoners and the Partisans of Rights and Freedom have issued conflicting claims of responsibility for the earlier bombings.

State & National

183 injured in mine fire

EVANDER, South Africa — A welding accident touched off a fire in a gold mine Tuesday, killing at least 44 workers, injuring 183 and trapping more than 150 in a mile-deep underground shaft, officials reported.

The state-run South African Broadcasting Corp. quoted Kobus Olivier, manager of the Kinross mine, as saying there was only a slight chance that the missing miners had survived.

Olivier said 128 black workers and 55 whites were hospitalized in Evander, which is on the edge of the mine, most suffering from smoke inhalation.

Congressional candidates Cobey and Price seek area business support

By KAREN McMANIS

The race for the 4th District congressional seat has accelerated as incumbent Republican Rep. Bill Cobey and his challenger, Democrat

David Price, seek the support of local businesses for their campaigns.

Over 120 business leaders, including about 30 from Orange County, have agreed to endorse Cobey.

Price, a Duke University political science professor, has also said that he has support among local business leaders.

David Murray, Cobey's press secretary, said that Cobey's supporters came mostly from the sales and marketing fields, who are encouraged by Cobey's efforts to reduce the federal deficit and attract more federal procurement contracts to the area.

Murray said Cobey had helped local businesses by attempting to reduce federal spending and by keeping federal taxes low.

As a member of the business committee in Congress, Cobey has supported the proposed balanced budget amendment to the Constitution, which would require Congress to have a balanced budget each year. In addition, he has proposed such measures as a 1 percent reduction in the federal deficit budget, which he classifies as "excess federal spending."

the 4th District congressman to be referred to as a "Watchdog of the Treasury," a title given to him earlier this year by the National Taxpayers Union.

Murray said Price is attempting to reverse the trend toward decreased federal spending and lowered taxes. He said that Price has been quoted in area newspapers as saying that he thought Congress should consider a tax increase. Price has proposed many new federal spending programs, he said, which would hurt both area businesses and private citizens if implemented.

Margaret Lawton, Price's press secretary, said the candidate has the support of a diverse group of area from page 1 business leaders, including members of the banking, real estate and home builders communities.

She said he does not want to increase taxes, but instead favors a tax reform policy that would reduce taxes for four out of five taxpayers.

Lawton also said Price did not want to increase new federal spending programs, preferring to follow a target approach by closing unproductive loopholes and making sure that federal funds are being spent in a productive manner for beneficial programs.

Assault from page 1

UNC head football coach Dick Crum was unavailable for comment Wednesday.

Marriott has no prior record of offenses in the area, according to the Chapel Hill clerk of courts.

UNC Sports Information spokesman David Lohse said Wednesday Marriott had not been suspended from the football team and had played in the Kansas game last weekend.

No action would be taken until UNC athletic officials had reviewed the incident, he said.

"There's no standard procedure for this type of situation," he said last week. "It's handled on a case-by-case basis."

For the Record

The Daily Tar Heel incorrectly reported Old East residence hall's construction date in an article Tuesday, "Fate of Old East and Old West in hands of 8." The actual date is 1774.

In Tuesday's editorial, "SFA tests the liberal arts," the Carolina Gay and Lesbian Association was incorrectly identified as Campus Gay and Lesbian Association.

In an article Monday Sept. 2, "Franklin Street: bashed and crashed," the Daily Tar Heel incorrectly attributed statements to Chapel Hill Police officer Eric Smith.

The Daily Tar Heel regrets its errors.
