

Sports

Increased vocals mark latest sound of Love Tractor

Love Tractor is a rock band from Athens, Ga., but no one would know that just by listening to them. They have evolved a sound all of their own, seemingly uninfluenced by the current drive for a southern rock revival, as was demonstrated to a crowded Cat's Cradle on Saturday night.

The band is currently on a regional tour, concentrating on the East Coast. Just a few weeks ago, they headlined at The Ritz in New York. And for the second time in just the last several months, Love Tractor brought their unique sound to Chapel Hill fans.

Love Tractor has been, up until recently, primarily an instrumental band. But their last album showed a definite trend towards a greater use of vocals, a trend to continue in the future. Bassist Armistead Wellford remarked after the show that the move towards vocals, though it was a new experience for them, was a natural move. "I like our instrumentals but I also get into the vocals. I wouldn't like having just instrumentals or just vocals."

The group uses not two but three guitars — and three guitarists who do their own thing up on stage. No synchronized dancing for these three; they stare at the wall or at the floor as if seeking some sort of divine inspiration for their playing, hardly paying any attention to each other or to the audience. Wellford explained, "We've always tried to sound as different as we could, but we still mesh. Michael (Richmond, guitarist and lead vocals) has a more tinny sound and Mark (Cline, guitarist and vocals) has a rougher sound, but even though we do different stuff, the sound doesn't clash."

Julie Olson Concert

Rounded out by the steady beat of drummer Andrew Carter, the band certainly does mesh. Tightly constructed melodies interplay between the three guitars — sometimes an eerie, almost minimalist sound and other times a faster danceable rock/pop. Changing from song to song with barely a pause in between, Love Tractor was there to play.

Though a few of their older songs were played, many of the tunes performed Saturday night may have been unfamiliar to Love Tractor fans. It has been a year since their last release was recorded, and they have already started some studio work for an upcoming album. Though they haven't begun any of the real recording, Wellford claimed most of their set was the new material slated for the future album.

But even though Love Tractor has switched to an increasing use of vocals, the sound system was an uncooperative factor. The vocals, ironically, could barely be heard over the guitars and the singers had to visibly force their voice to carry through the sound. But no one else seemed to be too upset, for the Love Tractor instrumentals were quite enough to keep the music and the crowd going.

Swimming

from page 1

place. "We knew we were going to win coming into today," Bloch said. "We just went out to have a good time and swim to the best of our abilities, and I'm glad it happened."

In addition to their Rolls-Roycean individual feats, Bloch and Davis continued their impressive performances in the three relay contests. North Carolina not only won the 400-yard free relay, the 400-yard medley relay and the 800-yard free relay, but the Tar Heels shattered one ACC record and qualified for the NCAA meet in all three.

Other members of the various relay teams were Rich Gleason, John Fischetti, Tony Monasterio, Ralph Vick, Schroeder and Guenther.

Tradition was also upheld as all the coaches were tossed into the water in the post-meet victory celebration. The swimmers spared no one, as even Assistant Sports Information Director Dave Lohse was chucked into the pool.

But the real key to winning the title was the performance of the Tar Heel divers. Virginia had only one qualifier for the three-meter event, but North Carolina placed four people in the top eight of both the one- and three-meter competitions, with Esposto leading the way with two second-place finishes.

Davis said the Tar Heels simply did the job they had talked about doing since August. "I'm ecstatic that we were able to pull off the ACC championship," he said. "We did it with a lot of class, and I think that's something that should be noted for us. We came in here just as humble as we could be, knowing that we had a job to do."

Noting all the freshmen and sophomores that North Carolina has, Emerson looked ahead to the rosy future. "They're just going to get better in the future, and I'm just looking forward to it," he said. "This could be the start of a tradition here of winning the ACCs."

Tennis moves to 5-0; Women's hoops falls

From staff reports

The UNC women's tennis team upped its record to 5-0 this weekend with victories over Georgia Tech and North Florida at the UNC Tennis Center.

In winning 9-0 over the Yellow Jackets on Friday and 8-1 over UNF on Sunday, the Tar Heels improved to 2-0 in the ACC.

Ann Stephenson, UNC's No. 1 singles player, dropped the first set against Tech's Kristy Kottich but rallied for a 2-6, 6-2, 6-0 victory. Stephenson got past UNF's Lori Webster on Sunday, 6-2, 7-6.

Gina Goblirsch, UNC's No. 2, won both her matches, as did No. 3 Spencer Barnes, No. 4 Landis Cox, No. 5 Dana Kanell and No. 6 Valerie Farmer.

Goblirsch won both her matches in straight sets, 6-2, 6-0 on Friday, and 6-2, 6-1 on Sunday.

The only Tar Heel defeat came in No. 1 doubles on Sunday, where the team of Cox and Goblirsch lost in three sets to the top UNF team.

On Saturday in Clemson, S.C., the women's basketball Tigers went on a 14-0 run in the second half and clung to a 66-60 win over slumping UNC.

The Tar Heels finished their ACC season with a 4-10 record, 10-15 overall. Clemson finished 8-6, 20-7.

The Tigers kept UNC at bay down the stretch by hitting all four of their free throws over the final 1:40 of the game.

Leading the way for the Tar Heels was senior Kathy Wilson, who hit for 18 points.

The Tar Heels wrap up their regular season tonight at 7:30 in Carmichael Auditorium when they host Miami of Florida.

ACC Basketball Standings

Team	Men's
	Conference	Overall
North Carolina	10-2	21-4
Duke	8-4	20-5
Georgia Tech	8-4	21-6
N.C. State	8-4	20-6
Maryland	5-7	15-10
Virginia	4-8	12-16
Wake Forest	3-9	10-15
Clemson	2-10	12-13

Today's Game

UNC-Asheville at N.C. State, 7:30 p.m.

Wednesday's Games

Duke at Clemson, 7:30 p.m.

Virginia at Wake Forest, 7:30 p.m.

UNC at Georgia Tech, 9 p.m.

Campus Calendar

The DTH Campus Calendar is a daily listing of University-related activities sponsored by academic departments, student services and student organizations officially recognized by the Division of Student Affairs. To appear in Campus Calendar, announcements must be submitted on the Campus Calendar form by NOON one business day before the announcement is to run. Saturday and Sunday events are printed in Friday's calendar and must be submitted on the Wednesday before the announcement is to run.

Monday

7:30 p.m. RACIAL, the UNC race relations group, is presenting a forum dealing with the segregation of the Greek system. Moderated by Vice Chancellor Harold Wallace, the forum will be in the Union Auditorium.

8:30 p.m. Fellowship of Christian Athletes will meet in Kenan Field House with speaker Albert Long.

Items of Interest

GPSF has information on the Residency Center for those interested in applying for in-state tuition posted on the bulletin board outside Suite D of the Union.

Senior Class nominations for the Chancellor's Awards are due Tuesday, March 1. Please turn them in to Lee Marks, Basement of Steele Building, Student Affairs.

Delta Zeta Sorority is having a pre-Spring Break giveaway. For 50 cents guess the correct amount of jelly beans and win suntan lotion, a beach towel, a beach chair, sunglasses and a cooler at a table in the Pit Feb. 29-March 2.

Lab Theatre presents an ensemble event, "Nora Is Dead," on Feb. 29 at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. and on March 1 at 5 p.m. No admission charge.

UNPREPARED, IT'S UPHILL ALL THE WAY.

The LSAT, GRE, or GMAT is no different. Take any one of them without solid preparation and you'll get blown off the course. We've trained over one million students to test their best. We'll do it for you. Call Kaplan.

KAPLAN
STANLEY H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER LTD.

OTHER COURSES AVAILABLE: PSAT/SAT, MCAT, NCLEX, CPA, BAR REVIEW, AND MORE.

Classes Starting Soon!
Call 489-8720 or 489-2348
2634 Chapel Hill Blvd., Suite 112

SPRINTAK

With A NEW ARENA SWIMSUIT!

Men's & Ladies

25% OFF!

with ad

through March 5th

ATHLETIC WORLD
University Square
942-1078

It's good for you. It's bad for you. It causes cancer. It prevents cancer. It makes you more fertile. It makes you less fertile. You should get on it. You should get off it.

All the conflicting information floating around about the Pill is enough to make you contemplate abstinence. We recommend a far less drastic measure: educate yourself. Gather all the information you can from reliable sources and, together with your doctor, make the decision that's right for you.

Here are a few facts to start you off. First, the Pill is actually many women may experience a short period of readjustment after discontinuing the Pill. Even so, they usually become pregnant soon.

Some women wonder if their bodies need an occasional rest from the Pill. The simple truth is, they don't. And switching to a less effective form of birth control increases your chances for unplanned pregnancy. So much for giving your body a "rest."

TRUTH RUMOR

pills. Since its introduction in 1960, it's evolved from one high dosage product into many much lower in dosage. From 150 mcgs. of estrogen in 1960, down to 35 or less today. Yet, it's still the most effective form of birth control available to you other than sterilization.

What about the Pill and breast cancer? Although there are conflicting reports concerning this issue, the Centers for Disease Control reported that women who took the Pill—even for 15 years—ran no higher risk of breast cancer than women who didn't.

The CDC also reported that ovarian and uterine cancer are substantially less common among women who use oral contraceptives. In addition, Pill users are less likely to develop benign breast disease, pelvic inflammatory disease (tubal infections) and ovarian cysts.

One of the Pill's greatest areas of misconception is conception. Does the Pill make you less fertile? Studies indicate that if you were fertile before you took the Pill, taking it should not affect your ability to have children later. However, some You've also probably heard that there are risks associated with taking the Pill. That is a fact. And you should know what those risks are. For example, if you are taking the Pill you should not smoke.

Especially if you are over 35. Cigarette smoking is known to increase the risk of serious and possibly life-threatening adverse effects on the heart and blood vessels from Pill use. What's more, women with certain conditions or medical histories should not use the Pill.

Even if you're already on the Pill, you should see your doctor at least once a year.

Decisions about birth control aren't easy and shouldn't be taken lightly. Moreover, they should be based on information from first-rate sources, not secondhand advice. If you're a Pill user, read the patient information regularly. Learn everything you can about what you're taking.

Whether you're considering getting off the Pill or getting on it, the better informed you are, the better you'll feel about your decision.

And that's the truth.

When the topic is the Pill, they're hard to separate.

A message from the Association of Reproductive Health Professionals through an educational grant from Ortho Pharmaceutical Corporation.