Monroe pours in 48 points; State topples Jackets, 90-83

From Associated Press reports

RALEIGH - Rodney Monroe scored a career-high 48 points, helping North Carolina State rally in the second half for an 90-83 victory Sunday over 24th-ranked Georgia Tech.

Monroe got within nine points of the school single-game scoring record by former Wolfpack All-American David Thompson, who was on hand. Monroe also scored the most points of any N.C. State player in an ACC game.

N.C. State (8-3, 2-0) trailed 50-38 at halftime before Monroe went off. He scored 31 points in the second half on 13-of-21 field goal attempts. Malcolm Mackey's short jumper boosted the Yellow Jackets' edge to 52-38 with 18:52 left.

From there, Monroe began his assault with a leaning jumper from 15 feet and a 3-pointer. When he connected on another 3-pointer with 9:07 left, the Wolfpack tied the score at 70.

Ivano Newbill completed a 3-point play with 4:40 remaining to give Tech (9-5, 1-2) a 77-75 lead. But Monroe scored five more points in succession to put the Wolfpack on top with 3:45 left.

Jon Barry hit a 3-pointer to give Tech an 81-80 lead at 2:55, but Tom Gugliotta followed up his own miss with a basket and Monroe scored with 57 seconds left to give the Wolfpack the lead for good.

eight assists — many to forward Pete Chilcutt, who had a team-high 25 points lead the squad.

"He took a pull-up jumper, but he wasn't facing me," Crotty said. "He took a dribble sideways, jumped up in the air and turned and threw it up. I wanted to keep him in front of me and make him take tough shots and make tough shots. He was fortunate enough to do it tonight."

Many of Rice's points resulted from the 44p, a play that his teammates quoted as Rice's favorite. Similar to an option play in football, Rice has three choices once he starts his drive: pull up for a jumper, penetrate all the way in or dish off to one of UNC's big men waiting underneath.

Logically, if the big men are covered, the other side of the mirror shows them positioned perfectly for an offensive rebound should Rice's shot miss its

But when it counted, Rice's shots hit. That, many onlookers said, is what really matters in the end.

"King was doing what's best for the team," Harris said. "Crotty's a step slower. (Rice) just took advantage of him tonight. Anybody that didn't see King outplay John tonight — even though John hit some threes — doesn't know basketball."

Crotty and Rice, though, know each other after four years. The two have battled repeatedly in games and in various camps enough to draw comparisons from scouts and coaches throughout the league. In the past, Crotty has gotten the nod, often a justified nod. This season, his 15.9 ppg rank second on the team behind Bryant Stith's 21.6, and his 85 assists — nearly seven per game — lead the team. His 1,353 career points rank him 12th in Cavalier history; he ranks in the Wahoos' top ten in assists, steals and 3-pointers.

that we controlled the boards," said Wake head coach Joe Sanchez. "We controlled the tempo. We knew coming into the game that they liked to run, and we didn't want to get into a track meet with them. We felt before the game that defense, tempo and rebounding would be the keys to this game."

Wake jumped out to an early lead in the first half. After a UNC basket by Toni Montgomery tied the score at two, the Deacons scored the next seven points and continued to lead until North Carolina regained the lead, 18-17, on two foul shots by Kennedy. The Tar Heels even managed to lead by as much as five points, 30-25, late in the first Then Davis and Mitchell keyed a 10-1 run that gave the Demon Deacons a 35-31 halftime advantage. UNC never lead again.

"Duke is tough offensively, and they played well against N.C. State," Hatchell said. "It'll be a great game. It's been really close the last few years and it's a charity game, so it seems to draw a bigger crowd than usual."
