5 Driving for Monterey

Senior Tee Burton and junior Pat Moore lead an experienced group of golfers in North Carolina's pitch for a national championship in memory of former teammate Neal Sullivan.

By STEWART CHISAM

6 'We are Family'

UNC head coach Mike Roberts claims his squad must be close-knit for a return to the College World Series. Every Tar Heel must pitch in, but Roberts will be counting on the emergence of a strong starting rotation to go along with his fantastic firemen.

By NEIL AMATO

7 Estroff's no joke

While his humor may rely on bad puns, there is nothing funny about Steve Estroff's game. The burly Atlanta native was an All-America last year and hopes things will fall into place this year if he can recover from a wrist injury.

8 Women leg it at Belk

Blessed with the new Irwin Belk track facility, the UNC women are ready to take advantage of their first home meets in three years. Dennis Craddock's squad is prepared to make a run at the national championship.

9 Waller leaps into spotlight

South Boston, Va., native Tisha Waller high-jumped 6-feet-4 in the indoor season, the third-best collegiate jump ever. With help from coach Jeff Ward, Waller hopes refining her technique will take her to new heights.

10 Relaxed and ready to go

New coach Dave Klarmann hopes to continue UNC's annual trip to the NCAA Final Four. After eleven years as an assistant coach, he knows the Tar Heel system and has the manpower to pick up where Willie Scroggs left off.

12 Heels Donna new look

UNC head coach Donna Papalooks toward a group of promising freshmen to join an experienced starting corps and lift the Tar Heels to higher levels. Tracy Brower and Yvette Davis ruled the mound last year and will receive help from freshman Paige Lauby, the Los Angeles Times player of the year.
