Black and blue Montross shakes off NCAA beatings

By Mark Anderson
Senior Writer

Eric Montross stood in the North Carolina locker room Saturday calmly answering questions. A swarm of reporters still surrounded him about 45 minutes after UNC had advanced to the NCAA Sweet 16 by beating Alabama 64-55.

A quick look at the relaxed Montross and it would have been easy to think this was a pregame scene — no sweat or gasping for breath. But a closer examination made it obvious that unless Montross' normal pregame routine involves being a butcher's apprentice, he had spent the past couple hours banging in the low post.

Blood stains dotted Montross' uniform, but red had become almost a nightly addition to his Carolina blues this season. In fact, the war paint is now a common sign that Montross has been to work, similar to the stains on a surgeon's gown.

The rest of his body sported cuts and bruises — some new, some old. The scar under his eye is a painful reminder of Montross' bodily sacrifices in the Feb. 5 upset of No. 1 Duke.

Very few 7-foot, 264-pound people suffer regular beatings. Montross is an exception, and UNC coach Dean Smith is not happy. Before the NCAA Tour-ament, Smith said he was making a "Montross film" for Fred Barakat, ACC director of officials.

Smith said that on offense, Montross does not seem to draw fouls at the same rate he is abused. The sophomore center is third on the team in free-throw attempts. Smith said that on defense Montross, who picked up three fouls in the first 11 minutes Friday, is so strong that a simple push sends players flying.

"I really feel sorry for him," Smith said. "He's so big and strong, guys will bang into him and bounce off, and he doesn't fall down, so a foul isn't called."

So far, the NCAA tourney has not made Smith any happier. UNC's battle with Alabama Friday would not have been mistaken for a social dance class.

"This was extremely physical," Smith said. "It's not good for the game. Pretend I'm out of it. I just hate to see the strongest or who teaches his guys to act or hit people win. The game was intended to be more finesse. It's a beautiful game and I'd just hate for it to become hockey."

Montross is not ready to lace up the skates either, but he does not mind a little leeway in the lane. After all, how many people are going to win a battle and a lot of people are going to catch some 'bows.'

Smith is especially upset with the roughness because the NCAA Officiating Committee made post play a point of emphasis this season. Smith said officials were handing out too many warnings and calling too few fouls. Horry agreed that games are actually more physical this year.

"In the past years, they wouldn't let us be that physical," he said. "It seems like this year they're letting us be a lot more physical. As long as the 'bows' were staying down, the refs weren't calling it."

If they do not make the calls, Montross will not complain ... as long as his big body has a couple more weeks to accumulate battle scars.

PRINCIPLES OF SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

WHY YOU SHOULD START PLANNING FOR RETIREMENT WITH YOUR EYES CLOSED.

For retirement to be the time of your life, you have to dream a little—about the things you've always wanted to do: travel, explore, start a business. Just imagine...

With a dream and a plan, you can make it happen. Your pension and Social Security should provide a good basic retirement income, but what about all those extras that make your dreams possible? You'll probably need some additional savings.

THE DREAM IS YOUR OWN. WE CAN HELP YOU WITH THE PLAN.

TIAA-CREF Supplemental Retirement Annuities (SRAs), tax-deferred annuities for people like you in education and research, are a good way to save for retirement and save on taxes now. SRAs are easy—you make contributions through your institution before your taxes are calculated, so you pay less tax now.

You pay no tax on your SRA contributions and earnings until you receive them as income. And saving regularly means your contributions and their earnings can add up quickly.

What else makes SRAs so special? A broad range of allocation choices, from the safety of TIAA to the investment accounts of CREF's variable annuity; no sales charges; a variety of ways to receive income, including annuities, payments over a fixed period, or cash. You may also be able to borrow against your SRA accumulation before you retire.

All this, plus the top investment management that has helped make TIAA-CREF the largest retirement system in the country.

So start dreaming and planning for the time of your life. Because the sooner you start your SRA, the greater your savings and your retirement will be.
