

to say." Anthony Peay, a member of the attorney general's staff and a spokesman for the Black Greek Council, said the BAC

The Far Side

"(BAC members) realized they cannot hurt you or take anything from you, but they can ask you to leave," he told a reporter "They wanted to speak to everybody in private. The press many times will misquote things.'

Alan McSurely, a local civil rights attorney who attended the meeting and who has represented University Police officer Keith Edwards and the UNC housekeepers in their respective grievances against the University, said the meeting was a strategy session, not an official announcement, and therefore BAC members could exclude the media.

"I believe people have the right to have strategy sessions," McSurely said.

"I think they have the duty at some point to tell people what their plans are, but there's a difference between strategy meetings and announcements, and this is still in the strategy stage. "The press has to respect the difference."

Matthew Stewart, a local civil rights activist, said that although he thought the BAC had made a mistake in excluding the press, they did have the right to ask the press to leave.

He pointed to a meeting earlier this week between state legislators, university and state officials, and the UNC housekeepers during which Rep. Anne Barnes, D-Orange, asked reporters to leave.

"If Anne Barnes can exclude the press, then the BAC can as well."

Stewart, a spokesman for the UNC housekeepers movement, also said that at the BAC meeting three members of the housekeepers' steering committee had announced they were planning a march for Sept. 17. The housekeepers, Marsha Tinnen, Barbara Prear and Larry Farrar, asked everyone at the BAC meeting to support them.

The Associated Press

BISHO, South Africa - An angry Nelson Mandela Tuesday called for the removal of the black homeland ruler whose troops killed 24 protesters and wounded 196, sparking a major confrontation between black and white lead-

Religious leaders, including Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu, tried to persuade the ruler of the Ciskei homeland to hold a referendum on returning the nominally independent territory to South Africa. They said the ruler, Brig. Gen. Oupa Gqozo, refused.

The killings Monday deepened South Africa's political crisis, making it unlikely Mandela's African National Congress will return soon to stalled talks on giving blacks the vote and ending apartheid. ANC leaders said President F.W. de Klerk's government bore direct responsibility for the killings.

In a sign of growing confrontation, the ruling National Party lashed out at the ANC in one of the harshest attacks in recent months, saving the opposition group was trying to seize power The National Party called ANC leaders "hard-liners hooked on the Communist shortcut of trying to force the country to its knees and seizing power by force."

rica. "We will not rest until Gqozo is removed "

In an interview with British Broadcasting Corp., Gqozo rejected calls for his resignation.

white government for deaths

The people that are calling for my standing down are foreigners to the Ciskei country," he said.

Mandela was escorted by South African police with guns ready as he walked about 20 yards into Ciskei to lay wreaths. Ciskei soldiers with lowered guns stood nearby, but there were no incidents. "There are many people who came to this place with hope and never returned," the ANC president said. "It is a very emotional moment for us that those fighting for democracy, for peace ... should be mowed down by those who fear democracy."

Ciskei troops fired on about 20,000 ANC supporters who marched into the homeland to call for Gqozo's removal. Angry blacks scuffled Tuesday with police outside the Ciskei consulates in phannesburg and Cape Town. Several blood of those shot.

Police and protesters traded punches and kicks in Johannesburg when protesters tried to haul down a U.S. flag at a nearby hotel.

Other protesters said the U.S. flag was singled out by mistake and yelled to pull down an adjacent South African flag

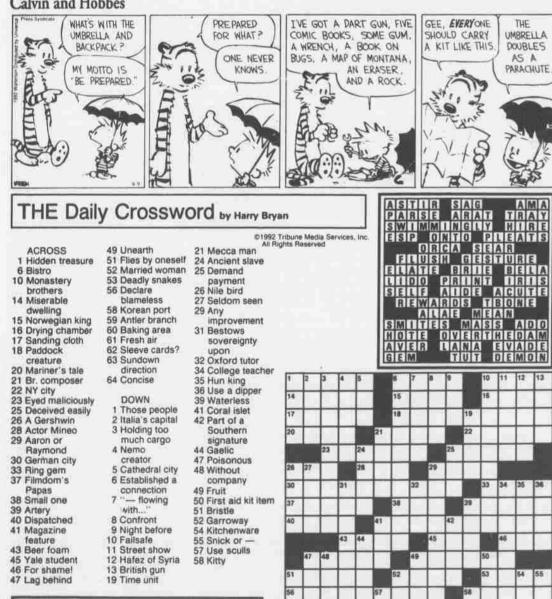

ANC secretary-general Cyril Ramaphosa, who was in the march Monday, said relations with South Africa's government were at the lowest ebb ever and expressed pessimism about resuming talks.

"My own assessment is that negotiations are in serious jeopardy," he said. Ciskei, a land of about one million people living on several tracts totaling about 3,600 square miles, is one of several homelands formed by South Africa under apartheid to create sepa-rate nations for blacks.

The homelands, dependent on South African aid, are mostly dominated by authoritarian regimes, and almost no one recognizes them as independent.

Red Cloud's ultimate nightmare

Calvin and Hobbes

Need help with this crossword puzzle? Call 1-900-454-3014. Your phone company will bill you 95 cents per minute. Rotary or touch-tone phones.

The talks collapsed in June after 39 blacks were massacred in Boipatong township. The ANC, the largest black opposition group, has accused the white minority government of encouraging fighting between black factions. De Klerk denies that.

ANC leaders in Johannesburg, meanwhile, called for the removal of two other homeland rulers who are major foes of the ANC - President Lucas Mangope of Bophuthatswana and Mangosuthu Buthelezi, chief minister of KwaZulu

Buthelezi heads the Zulu-dominated Inkatha Freedom Party, whose support-ers have been battling ANC backers for years of Maj. Gen. Bantu Holomisa, military ruler of the Transkei homeland, who is allied to the ANC.

The ANC considers the homelands illegitimate creations of the apartheid system and wants them reincorporated

Mandela, after laying flowers at the spot where ANC marchers were gunned down by Ciskei troops, called for an independent investigation into the killing you," Mandela later told thousands of cheering supporters at a rally in King William's Town, just inside South Af-

FROM THE DIRECTOR OF 'STRANGER THAN PARADISE' & 'MYSTERY

A FILM BY JIM

2 • 4:30 • 7 • 9:30

t.

0

"BEST MOVIE OF THE YEAR!"

-BRUCE WILLIAMSON, PLAYBOY

protesters occupied the building housing the Cape Town consulate, and protesters sprayed the Johannesburg consulate with red paint to symbolize the actly why Penny quit.

Billy

"I guess he was burnt out and got a new job," Williams said. "He decided to take a little vacation, I guess."

Williams said there was still a good chance Penny would return.

"We'd love to have him back, and he may come back whenever he'd like,' Williams said.

Student Body President John Moody was surprised and sad about the loss of Penny at Time-Out.

"Who are we going to heckle at two in the morning?" Moody asked.

Penny was used in Moody's SBP campaign last spring. Campaign posters pictured Penny and Moody in front Gqozo initially was supported by the ANC when he seized power in a 1990 coup, but relations became strained as he adopted an independent course.

from page 1

of Time-Out.

Moody said Penny was an effective campaigner because everyone recognized and liked him.

"Billy is a landmark, like the (Old)" Well and the Bell Tower," Moody said "I'll miss him."

Some students said they'd like to see Penny and tell him how much he was missed. "As soon as possible, we'll runover and tell him to come back," said junior Joan Carr.

The ANC did not call for the removal into South Africa.

"Gqozo is not going to last, I can tell

"THE BEST AMERICAN

COMEDY OF THE YEAR !"

PGR

EAST FRANKLIN

MERCHANT IVORYS

WARDS ENE

ed on the Novel by E.M. FORSTER