

Neighborhood Notes

Miss Hattie Merritt, after teaching for four years in Johnson County, is now working toward her degree in the University. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Merritt, who live out about two miles south of town, and the sister of Edgar Merritt, mail carrier on Route 4.

M. C. S. Noble, Jr., receives high praise in the latest issue of the Harvard Alumni Bulletin for a thesis he wrote in connection with his graduate work in education. His topic was the University of North Carolina.

Mrs. James M. Tilley of Goldsboro and her two children are visiting Mrs. John Whitaker.

Captain Edmund Lily and his wife and Miss Frances Lily came up from Fayetteville to spend Sunday and Monday with Mrs. R. S. MacRae.

Alex. Blackwood's Death

Alex Blackwood, a farmer who lived in Chatham a few miles southwest of Chapel Hill, died last week. The funeral ceremonies and burial, at Lystra church, were attended by a large company of his relatives and friends. Mr. Blackwood was operated on at Watts Hospital several months ago. After this he seemed to improve, but not long ago began to fail again. He was well known and well liked in his community.

CHAPEL HILL SCHOOL NEWS

The Morrison Literary Society of the Chapel Hill High School held its first regular meeting Monday afternoon in the school auditorium. The President, Estelle Lawson, was installed by Miss Gardner, a representative of the faculty advisory committee. Then in turn the president installed Mildred Walker, vice-president; Betsy Woollen, secretary; Sidney McIver, treasurer; Harry McGalliard, critic; and Walker White, monitor.

Literary Society work this year is to be on a new basis. Every one of the 225 pupils in High School is to be enrolled in the Club work that satisfies his particular interest. That interest may be in dramatics, debating, public speaking, art, music, science, or agriculture. Each club will meet once a week under the guidance of a teacher who wishes to share interest in that particular work. Once a month at the general meeting a public program will be given by one of the clubs.

A. V. Christman Dead

A. V. Christman, a sheet metal worker who had shops both here and in Durham, was found dead in his automobile parked beside the old Cornwallis road Sunday morning. His death was attributed to dilation of the heart. Mr. Christman came from Pennsylvania to Durham about 10 years ago. The funeral took place Monday at the Christman home in Durham.

The Terpsichorean Club, made up of girls from ten to thirteen years old, gave a performance in the Forest Theatre Saturday afternoon. Miss Nancy Battle was the director.

THE COUNTRY ROUNDABOUT

Elm Grove

Baptist Church Opening

It is announced that next Sunday at half past seven, at the closing services of the day of formal opening of the new Baptist Church, Dr. A. Paul Bagby of Wake Forest will preach. Also, he will preach every evening during next week. There will be the regular morning services Sunday, and then, in the afternoon, a special meeting in celebration of the completion of the new church. At this afternoon meeting greetings will be delivered to the Chapel Hill and University Baptists by representatives of the principal educational institutions in North Carolina.

An Old School in Orange

Recent references to the Bingham school, which was in Orange county for nearly a hundred years, call to mind another famous school of Orange, conducted by Samuel W. Hughes, third of the ten sons of Joseph D. Hughes. The father, in the beginning a farmer, had himself turned to teaching, and it was in his school that the son got his first training. Thence young Samuel went to Bingham in Hillsboro; completed the course there, and was an instructor a year or two; and then entered Hampton Sidney College in Virginia, working his way through. It is related that on one occasion he walked home from college, 160 miles. . .

In 1845 he opened his school for boys at Cedar Grove, and he taught there until his death in 1884. Mrs. Charles Johnston of Orange Church, his daughter, remembers seeing a group of young men stand around his bed and recite after he was stricken by paralysis. Among his pupils were Rev. N. B. Cobb, Judge Spier Whitaker, W. F. Dortch, Rev. D. I. Craig, George T. Winston and his brother Patrick Henry Winston (for whom the professor of law now in the University is named), and Rev. A. L. Phillips.

He merely published a report of happenings that unquestionably constituted news. The thing is getting stale now and he is disposed to drop it—unless there occurs, in connection with the episode, something else of sufficient interest to require publication. He hopes that the pastor and the deacons will somehow settle their differences with the three women, that the women will be reinstated in their membership, and that henceforth all will go harmoniously in the Carrboro Church.
