

ALLPORT PURSUED TRAIN

telephoned to Carrboro, but the train had already passed there. Then she telephoned the alarm to Hillsboro, asking that the cars be searched.

Chief of Police Wright, of Carrboro, happened to drop in at the railroad station at about this time and said to the agent:

"A colored fellow's just brought in a child he found on his way from Chapel Hill. Wonder whose kid he is? Can't get anything out of him except he wants his mama."

The colored man had reported having found the child in a field some distance from the railroad track just before dark. Apparently the truant had followed the rails for a while and then decided to seek another sort of scenery.

The agent let Mrs. Harris know at once. She went out to the Carrboro station in an automobile. Edward told her that he was willing to go home but much preferred that his new friend, Mr. Wright, take him. Finally he was persuaded to go back to Chapel Hill with her.

When Mr. and Mrs. Allport returned from Durham Edward was safe at home, so they did not know a thing about the affair until it was all over. For many years to come Edward is going to be a super-carefully watched boy. His parents vow that he will never again be out of the sight of one or the other of them.

CLUBMEN GRUB STUMPS

ably be a good deal larger in the future; last Saturday many of the men were kept away by pressing business, namely, the high school championship football game over on Emerson Field.

Work on the golf course is going ahead. A hundred tons of rock have already been taken away from the ground near the clubhouse to the stone-crusher of T. C. Thompson Brothers, and more hundreds of tons will be carted away to meet the same fate.

It is on the fairways of the second and third holes that most progress has been made. Chief committeeman Critz George has had workmen busy here with plows and harrows. Terraces have been built along the hill-sides. Grass planted not long ago is already sprouting. The grading of the greens is nearly completed. The stones, which here were small—not like the boulders near the house—have been got out of the way.

Even now golfers might practice their drives and iron shots on these two holes, were it not that the ground recently harrowed and planted must be allowed to rest for a while before being trod upon. All in all, the golf course looks unpromising as one stands at the house, but promising out beyond the rocky stretch. Undoubtedly play will be possible on part of the course long before the whole of it is ready.

Colored School Meeting

Leading colored citizens met one night recently under the auspices of the colored Parent-Teachers' Association, in the interest of the Orange County Training school. M. C. S. Noble, E. W. Knight, J. S. Holmes, and Dr. C. S. Mangum were present as representatives of the white population of the town, and made short addresses voicing the community's interest in the project. "How We Can Build a School" was the theme of the evening's discussion. The colored people have raised among themselves $241 in the last week or so, to make a start on clearing the ground for the new building out at the end of Church street.

A Christmas Gift That Never Wears Out

Candies, flowers, cravats, toys—it's not to be denied that these and other perishable things are proper enough gifts.

But think of a gift that's just as good five, ten, fifteen years afterward as it is the day you give it!

A Share of Preferred Stock Yielding 7 1-4%

This is what you can get from the Durham Public Service Company, paying for it either in cash or by the Easy Purchase Plan. Dividends begin at once and are paid monthly.

This company supplies light and power to a thriving and steadily growing community. A solid, more reliable source of income would be hard to find. And there are other unfailing revenues—for example, from the sale of ice and electrical equipment and fixtures.

The net earnings each year come to many times the amount needed to pay the preferred stock dividend.

You may buy as much stock as you please, from one share up, and may have it issued in your name or in the name of any body you choose to give it to.

Send a check for first payment, at the rate of $10 per share. After that, $5 a month. If you care to call at our office, or to write, detailed information will be cheerfully given.
