W. D. TOY DIES AFTER 48 YEARS WITH UNIVERSITY

Oldest Member of Faculty Succumbs to Complications of Arthritis

COMMUNITY MOURNS LOSS

Walter Dallam Toy, resident of Chapel Hill and member of the University faculty since 1885, died Tuesday night at eight o'clock and was buried yesterday afternoon at 3:30. His death, little more than a month before his 79th birthday, was due to complications resulting from arthritis.

The funeral, at 3:30, was at the Episcopal church with Rev. Alfred S. Lawrence conducting the services. Burial followed in the local cemetery.

Active pallbearers were Dr. W. deB. MacNider, Robert B. House, Louis Graves, Archibald Henderson, W. C. Coker, R. E. Coker, George C. Taylor and George R. Coffman.

Honorary pallbearers were President Frank P. Graham, Dr. J. B. Bullitt, Kent Brown, A. S. Wheeler, M. C. S. Noble, Dr. I. H. Manning, A. C. McIntosh, H. V. Wilson, Clyde Eubanks, Dr. C. S. Mangum, J. M. Booker, H. M. Wagstaff, C. T. Woollen, T. J. Wilson, Jr., E. W. Knight, George McKie, W. S. Bernard, R. D. W. Connor, M. E. Hogan, Dr. Leonard Fields, Dr. Rainey Stanford, Dr. Foy Roberson.

Mr. Toy was born at Norfolk, Va., November 13, 1854. His parents were Thomas Dallam and Amelia Anne Rogers Toy. Educated at the University of Virginia, where he took his master's degree, he studied at Berlin and Leipzig before coming here in 1885 to head what was then the French and German department of the University. Fifteen years later he became head of the German department and continued so down the years.

Although the oldest member of the faculty in years and service, he met classes until last week. For 43 years he was secretary to the faculty, but relinquished that post last fall, to the great regret of colleagues who listened to his whimsically humorous minutes of the last meeting which made all of them taking part therein appear to best advantage.

Frank Graham, who as a freshman became a friend of his in the fall of 1905, says of Dr. Toy:

"The University has lost a precious part of its own life. In 48 years his spirit has been woven into the inner texture of the institution that can never let him die. A teacher, an eminent scholar, and a gracious

They're in Ibsen Now

When Mme. Borgny Hammer, famous Norwegian actress, appears in Ibsen's "Ghosts" this afternoon and "The Master Builder" tonight at Memorial hall she will be supported by two former members of the Carolina Playmakers. Miss Marion Tatum of Raleigh and Robert Proctor, both last year's graduates, are members of the troupe.

The Maples Are Turning

The campus maples on Cameron avenue are putting on their annual show in scarlet, which the drought threatens to cut shorter than usual.

THE TAX ELECTION

This issue of the Weekly had to go to press before the result of yesterday's school tax election was known.

Co-Eds at Commons

Mary Frances Parker Hostess University Dining Hall

Miss Mary Frances Parker, last year's president of the University Woman's Association, has been employed by the management of Swain hall as hostess for the regular term. This plan was thought advisable because of the large number of commuting girls in school who have to have lunch in town. Swain hall has been open for women during summer school, and for the past two sessions there has been a hostess.

The presence of a hostess creates a more tolerant attitude for co-eds in the dining hall and supplies the feminine touch that might not otherwise prevail.

Already the influence of the hostess on some of the freshmen and sophomores has been felt in that girls may now enter the hall without attracting yells and cat calls from all over the place, as was the case during the last two years or more.

Miss Parker is always on hand to welcome any girls that may enter into the hall and to make them feel at home, or show them to their tables. Several girls have been coming to Swain this year for meals. They may sit at the tables reserved for them or at tables with boys, just as they choose.—C.B.

W. B. Neal at Home

W. B. Neal, one of the town's most popular citizens in spite of the fact that he operates the one bakery, is back at home after a prolonged stay in Philadelphia, where he has been undergoing medical treatment. Mr. Neal is able to sit up for a short while each day and seems considerably improved.

Mrs. Wootten's Exhibit

The Academy of Arts in Richmond, Va., is putting on an exhibit of Mrs. Bayard Wootten's Carolina folk camera studies in the three weeks from Monday, October 15, to Saturday, November 4. The Academy is to give a reception for Mrs. Wootten on the opening day.

Lively Old Boys

Mrs. T. E. Best's father, W. T. Stallings of Clayton, with his twin, J. A., is visiting her this week. The brothers are 85 years of age, having celebrated their birthday jointly at Clayton last week when the Bests went down. They are quite active.

D. A. R. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Davie Poplar Chapter, D. A. R., will be held at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. B. Lawson.

Visits Father in Mexico Jonathan Worth Daniels, of Raleigh, has arrived in Mexico City to visit his father, the ambassador, for a month.

James B. Bullitt, 3rd

Dr. and Mrs. James B. Bullitt have a grandson. He was born in Philadelphia October 8 and is named James B. Bullitt, 3rd.

Poteat's Address

Raleigh Minister Speaks Here in Opposition to Repeal

"If we can't prove liquor is positively not dangerous all the time, the only thing to do is to withdraw it from human use," declared Rev. E. McNeill Poteat of Raleigh in an address here in the Baptist church Sunday afternoon. Poteat spoke on the "Philosophy that underlies prohibition" before a fair-sized audience of townspeople.

Quoting from an article in the Elks magazine by Dr. Cannady stating that only fanatics, romanticists and politicians believed in prohibition, the speaker denied that he is in any of these categories, but declared that the repealists are.

"We nearly all agree on prohibition and what should be prohibited," he said, "but disagree on the extent of prohibition. We are bound to believe in the principle of prohibition whether we acknowledge it or not, for we hold our hands and obey other traffic signals which are merely prohibitions."

Alternatives of the wets he held to be ridiculous. An article was cited which stated that a sober nation was promised with repeal of the 18th Amendment, yet 150,000,000 gallons is reported ready for consumption after repeal. Mr. Poteat stated that in the peak year of 1911 only 110,000,000 gallons was consumed.

"The Capitalists (I think I can refer to them without being run from town) with a lust for gold want repeal so that the poor people will pay the taxes of the rich and so that the people will be so stupefied that they can't revolt."

In referring to the beer situation in North Carolina as a refutation of the revenue that the wets claim will be received, he stated that the first beer committee report in the legislature promised $1,200,000 dollars per year revenue on beer and that according to A. J. Maxwell, the compromise amount of $500,000 dollars will not be reached this year.

Mr. Poteat was introduced by Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the Greater University. In introducing the speaker Graham said, "The University has always found in him a true friend." The meeting was presided over by Dr. Binkley, pastor of the church.—C.B.

A Get-Together

A get-together meeting of the women of the Methodist church that got a hundred and ten together for a supper and its accessories of speech, general and specific, was held in the church social rooms Tuesday night. Mrs. A. M. Gates of the Duke faculty colony made an address on "Sharing."

Kiwanis Scholarships

The Chapel Hill Kiwanis Club, which recently voted to give two scholarship loans in the University for the fall quarter has awarded them to Paul Rendograph and Elizabeth Rainey, both of this village.

University Graduate Club

Henry Farr, of Brunswick, Ga., has been inducted into office as president of the Graduate Club at the University of North Carolina.

Water Holds Out

So For That Matter Do the Heavens—It's Powerfully Dry

In spite of the drought visitors to University Lake find that while there is no water running over the dam, and the stuff that comes to the citizenship through the pipes has a flavor that smacks of tide out, there's plenty of it such as it is.

When it is realized that for the entire month of September only .77 of an inch of rain fell here it can be seen that the University authorities did not begin too soon or go too far with the provision of an adequate reservoir.

There was precipitation on but three days. September 12 .66 of an inch fell. There had been a barely perceptible drizzle on the 5th and 6th.

Gardens have suffered horribly, especially late tomatoes. Turnip greens contrive to make out somehow. Chrysanthemums, just emerging for their annual appearance, are finding great difficulty in sustaining themselves. Cosmos bloom feebly on attenuated stalks. Zinnias, sturdiest of all flowers, droop disconsolately. Mint-beds resemble pipe-cleaners, and even the Johnson grass has curled up and quit.

There's greensward out at Kenan stadium; but that is because the athletic association operates a sprinkler system for the protection of the gridiron turf.

Hurt in 40-Foot Fall

Scaffold Breaks under Two Painters, One a Former Student

C. R. Brown, student in the University last year, and P. G. Baldwin were still in Watts hospital in Durham last night as a result of injuries sustained Monday shortly after noon when the ladder-scaffold from which they were painting the rear of Phillips hall split and dropped them about thirty-one feet to the rocks and hard ground beneath.

In the fall from about the middle sash of the third floor—about 124 three-inch tiers of brick from the ground—Baldwin sustained a broken right ankle and internal and external bruises about the chest. Brown fractured both arms, suffered a diagonal fracture of the right thigh and a fractured skull.

Maxwell, who was one of the first to reach the injured men, says that neither lost consciousness except momentarily. Brown told Maxwell, who picked him up, to be careful of his legs and arms.

Baldwin is married and lives in Chapel Hill. This is the second accident of this nature in the last month. Just before school opened, Wesley L. McKeithan, self-help student from Fayetteville, fell from an upper story of Spencer hall and fractured his back. He is still in the infirmary but is reported to be on the way to recovery.—C.B.

Freshmen's First Game

The University's freshman football team will open its season at 3 o'clock this (Friday) afternoon on Emerson field. The Tar Babies' starting line up will probably be: ends, Buck and McCann; tackles, Trimpey and Killings; guards, McIver and Oberne; center, Folger; quarterback, Dunham; halfbacks, Dashiell and Cooner; fullback, Hutchens

AN ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The editor of the Weekly acknowledges with gratitude the services of O. J. Coffin and his journalism class in getting out this issue of the Weekly.

Chapel Hill Chaff

Mrs. Paul Green and Mrs. W. A. Olsen go out bicycling early in the mornings.

The football squad was out for early practice the other day (on freshman field) and as the women went along the Raleigh road the players cheered them, and some players "thumbed" them—and asked: "Raleigh? Raleigh?" The usual hitch-hiker's salute and greeting. One morning later they rode out to Carrboro and the population there observed them with keen interest. Truck drivers yelled: "Are you riding or walking?" and other such jibes.—L.G.

Dean Dudley D. Carroll, Mrs. Carroll and Elliott, Eleanor and Donald Carroll spent Sunday at Mizpah, Stokes county, attending to the business of a family reunion. Dean Carroll made a speech. Dee Dee, Jr., stayed at home and played touch football. He does not particularly care for his father's speeches, and he tried the family reunion last year and did not think the food outweighed the remarks of older female relatives who appraised his growth of the preceding twelvemonth.

Mrs. Elliott of Ridge Lane, who in addition to helping with the nurture and admonition of the Carrolls, to whom she is mother and grandmother, cultivates one of the best flower gardens in these parts, is not doing so well with her efforts at brightening her corner of the Gimghoul section this fall. In—and it might also be said out

Mrs. Vining Better

Notes from Mrs. Morgan Vining and her mother, Mrs. Gray, to friends here say that the former's condition is encouraging. Mrs. Vining was to have been taken to her mother's home in Philadelphia this week. Recovery will take some time.

Halliburton Visits Pahlows

Richard Halliburton, author of The Royal Road to Romance and other chronicles of gay adventure, was here with the Pahlows Wednesday, on his way to lecture in Greensboro. He is coming back to Chapel Hill again this fall.

Cain-Cummings Marriage

Mrs. Marvin Hendrix Stacy announces the marriage of her niece, Miss Edna Cummings, to Frederiak Caldwell Cain, last Saturday in Memphis, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Cain will live in Canton, Miss.

Scarred by Crash

Lawrence McClellan is back at Eubanks's drug store bearing a long scar on his neck, resulting from a recent motor collision in Durham.

Koch Smokes While Marching

Frederick H. Koch upheld the Bohemian tradition of the stage by smoking his pipe while he marched in the faculty procession to Memorial hall yesterday.

BIG DAY WHEN CAROLINA MEETS GEORGIA ELEVEN

Evenly-Matched Teams Fight It Out in Kenan Stadium Tomorrow

VILLAGE ALL AGOG

There will be a hard-fought football game here tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in Kenan Stadium when Carolina meets the powerful Georgia eleven, foe since 1895, who was battled to a 6-6 tie last year. The two teams usually are evenly matched. Seven men who started last year's game for either side are back, indicating that the relative strength is again about equal. Both teams are coached by former Notre Dame men, pupils of the great Rockne, Chuck Collins for Carolina and Harry Mehre for Georgia. Both teams use the wide-open and driving Rockne attack with certain variations taught by their respective coaches.

Chapel Hillians, busy with preparations during the week, will turn out for the occasion. The students will be there, yelling themselves hoarse. The professors and some of their wives will be there. The professors' children will be there, and at least one young hopeful will get tangled up in the drums or big bass tuba or some other musical instrument. And there will be a stray dog or two trespassing on the gridiron to draw a laugh from the spectators and to annoy a football player with his heart in the game. And there will be people from all over this state and from other states as well.

In addition to the size of the crowd, heavy advance ticket sales indicating widespread interest in the game, there will be two additional features at tomorrow afternoon's gathering. Two new battle songs, written by Kay Kyser, former cheerleader here, will be used for the first time. Their titles are "Split It for the Team" and "Tar Heels Join Hands."

Several days ago R. A. Fetzer, director of athletics, announced that a general admission section has been set off at the west end of each side of the regular stands, accommodating approximately 2,500 people. This is the first game at which there has been such a section. Admission for these seats will be exactly one-half the price of reserved seats, or $1.00 plus ten cents federal tax.

Preparations have been made which will facilitate the easy handling of the crowd. Holders of reserved tickets on the north side of the stadium will be admitted through the main or No. 2 gate as usual. But Carolina students and those holding reserved tickets for the south

Half-Price Football

Two regular sections of Kenan stadium are being reserved for general admission spectators at tomorrow's game with Georgia. General admission tickets are to be sold at $1 plus 10 cents federal tax, which is exactly half this game's usual price. These tickets will be available at gate No. 5 on the south side of the stadium.

Season tickets are being offered at almost half the regular price of single admissions.
