

The Chapel Hill Weekly

Vol. 16, No. 2

LOUIS GRAVES
Editor

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., FRIDAY, JANUARY 14, 1938

$1.50 a Year in Advance. 5c a Copy

Crawford Plans Lake as Feature Of Development

Coker and Sparrow Have Nearby Tracts on Ridge to West of Chapel Hill-Durham Road

55-ACRE WATER SURFACE

A lake with a surface area of 55 acres, plenty of fish, and swimming and boating; homes on the wooded hillsides nearby; and maybe a clubhouse; all within three miles of Chapel Hill—this is the development that W. S. Crawford is planning for a ridge-and-valley tract off to the north and west of the Durham highway (to the left as you go toward Durham).

Mr. Crawford visualizes a home colony and recreation resort for University of North Carolina and Duke University faculty members and other people in Chapel Hill and Durham.

The land which Mr. Crawford owns and has under option comprises 400 acres along the watershed of Booker's creek, the stream that flows under the two-mile bridge. The proposed lake area is beyond the ridge that is seen from the highway at Harwood's dairy farm.

Adjoining the Crawford property on this side are a 210-acre tract owned jointly by W. C. Coker and the Isaac Pritchard estate and a 22-acre tract of which 14 acres is owned by W. C. Coker and 8 acres by Jack Sparrow. Mr. Sparrow, who is Mr. Coker's agent, and Mr. Crawford took me out one day this week to show me the lay of the land.

We turned off the highway to the left at the Harwood filling station and drove by the house (Continued on last page)

Claire's Long Walk

5-Year-Old Girl Makes Her Way Home Alone as Automobiles Whiz by

Claire Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips Russell, is just a little more than five years old, and so of course she does not go about the village and the surrounding woods by herself.

The other day her father took her to visit Nancy Bailey, with whom she was to stay until he came back for her. He saw her run to the door, waited a minute or two, and then drove off to his classroom on the campus.

About half an hour later Claire entered her home, far out to the south of Chapel Hill. Her mother, astonished, asked: "Why, darlin', how did you get here?" The slender and golden-haired girl was pale and had little beads of perspiration on her forehead. She answered faintly: "I walked."

There had been nobody at the Baileys'. Obviously the only thing to do was to go home, and so, with the automobiles whizzing past, she had trudged the long mile and more down the Pittsboro highway. When her mother asked her if she had had any trouble crossing the streets and the roads she said: "I just waited, and looked both ways, and kept on waitin' till I didn't see any cars."

Rotarians Hear Limericks

Nicholson B. Adams, the Spanish professor, has had the collecting and memorizing of limericks as a hobby for many years, and the Rotarians, at their meeting night before last, enjoyed the fruits of his enterprise. He recited limericks one after the other and was rewarded with loud laughter and applause.

Athletic Rules Discussed by Faculty

A set of regulations for the conduct of athletics in the University were discussed by the faculty at its meeting yesterday afternoon.

They were recommended by a unanimous vote of a committee composed of President Graham; R. B. House, dean of administration; R. A. Fetzer, director of athletics; Oliver Cornwell, director of physical education; Harry Comer, chairman of the self-help committee; Francis Bradshaw, chairman of the loan committee; A. W. Hobbs, dean of the college of liberal arts and chairman of the athletic council; D. D. Carroll, dean of the school of commerce and chairman of the scholarship committee; and H. D. Wolf, member of the faculty committee on athletics.

A subcommittee made up of Messrs. Hobbs, Carroll, and Bradshaw first prepared regulations. Their report was then discussed by the full committee, and every proposal that did not receive unanimous approval in the committee was stricken out before the recommendations went to the faculty.

The proposed regulations are:

1. The one-year residence rule.
2. The three-year varsity participation rule.
3. The five-year limit for athletic participation.
4. The transfer rule.
5. There shall be a scholastic requirement of 40 quarter hours, half C's or better, during preceding three quarters of residence, or 45 hours, half C's or better, if summer school or correspondence work is necessary in addition to three regular quarters.
6. There shall be no discrimination for or against athletes in the award of jobs, loans, or scholarships, directly or indirectly controlled by the University.
7. Any student representing the University in intercollegiate athletics or any other activities either as manager or as participant must qualify as a good campus citizen. The administration of this regulation shall be

(Continued on last page)

Farm Women of Orange County Move Their Market from Carrboro into Chapel Hill

The Orange County Women's Market has moved from Carrboro to Chapel Hill. It will open tomorrow (Saturday) morning in the old Methodist church building at the corner of Henderson street and Rosemary lane (one block down from the post office).

Organized last summer, for the purpose of providing an outlet for products of farms in this county, the market has been a great success. Since mid-September, when it began operations, the sales have averaged $120 a week. The market is open on Saturday only, except that sometimes it opens on the day before a holiday.

About 20 farm women have been selling regularly. Others offer their products from time to time.

Poultry leads in the total volume of sales. Cakes come second, eggs third. Other things that can be bought at the market are butter, fresh vegetables and fruits in season, home-canned fruits and vegetables.

The enterprise is the result of the cooperation of Miss Grace Holcombe, the home demonstration agent, and women who live on Orange county farms. Soon

Salaries

Two Chapel Hillians Are on List Given Out in Washington

Two Chapel Hillians appeared in the list, given out in Washington last week, of corporation officials receiving salaries of more than $15,000. Collier Cobb, Jr., and Roy Homewood, officers of Cobb and Homewood, Inc., contractors, were down for $24,000 each.

Other persons in the list who are well known in Chapel Hill are Claiborne Carr, $56,000; A. H. Bahnson, $76,000 (listed twice, with $33,000 as president of the Bahnson Company and $43,000 as president of the Washington Mills); F. F. Bahnson, $33,000; L. V. Sutton, $17,500; Thurmond Chatham, $50,000; W. S. O'B. Robinson, $20,000; R. Grady Rankin, $15,000; K. P. Lewis, $65,000; W. H. Ruffin, $25,000; James G. Hanes, $80,000; A. H. Carr, $16,000; John F. Wiley, $23,000; John L. Morehead, $17,000; S. C. Williams, $60,000; and James A. Gray, $50,000.

Chapel Hill Chaff

A Chapel Hill woman went into a furniture store in Durham one day last week. The man who came forward to serve her was small, meek, and hesitant, and the way he stroked one hand with another gave him a peculiarly pathetic look. "Here," the customer said to herself, "is one of those downtrodden wage-slaves I read so much about in the newspapers." She pictured him as a poor wretch with a large family, cringing as he would ask the boss for a meagre raise in pay. Her sympathies were deeply stirred, and she asked the man his name so that when she paid her bill she could make sure that he got credit for the sale. The next morning she was reading in the newspaper the list of corporation officials' salaries given out by the Government. Presently her eye lit upon a certain name. The meek little man for whom she had felt so compassionate was down for a salary of $22,000.

"But what about my path?" asked Phillips Russell in a rather aggrieved tone when he was told where the University's new medical building was to rise, between the Pittsboro road and the Kenan stadium. Mr. Russell lives on a hill overlooking the Morgan creek valley. Frequently he walks through the woods to the campus, taking sometimes this route and sometimes that. One path has a special charm for him because of the hazel buds that he sees while strolling along it in the springtime. When this next springtime comes, the path will be blocked by a great horrid exca-

(Continued on page two)

Fluoroscope in Trailer Is to Be Used by Health Department In Fight against Tuberculosis

The Burlages Get a Boy by Airplane

H. M. Burlage, professor of pharmacy in the University, and Mrs. Burlage announce the adoption of a son. He is named Robb Kendrick Burlage.

One month old January 8, on that day the boy was taken by Mrs. Burlage on an airplane from Boston, Mass., to Newark, N. J. There a change was made to another plane bound for Richmond, Va. In Richmond Mr. Burlage met the travelers and brought them on to Chapel Hill by automobile.

"The baby seemed to enjoy traveling by air," said Mrs. Burlage yesterday. "The motion of the plane did not disturb him at all, and he behaved perfectly all the way."

Robb Kendrick is apparently as well pleased with Chapel Hill as with the airplane. He continues well and amiable.

Mickey Loses a Friend

Cokers' Terrier Stands Guard over the Body of His Playmate

At the bend in the Durham road a little way down from Dr. J. P. Jones's home, on the night before New Year's, one dog was seen struggling to drag the lifeless body of another dog from the pavement where it had been struck and killed by an automobile.

Mickey, the W. C. Cokers' fox terrier, was getting his friend out of further harm's way. Maybe nobody knows—he thought the spark of life had not gone out. He tugged and tugged, and presently he had the body on the soft earth beside the concrete.

For months people had seen the two dogs playing together in the neighborhood and had remarked upon their devotion to one another.

Jack Sparrow drove by early New Year's morning and saw Mickey, whom he recognized at once, standing guard over his friend.

"I called him and tried to get him in the car with me," Mr. Sparrow said yesterday, "but he wouldn't come. He just sat there and whimpered. Then I went home and got my son, who loves dogs and knows how to talk to 'em, and brought him back up the hill, and he persuaded Mickey to go home with us. That was when Mr. and Mrs. Coker were out of town, and we kept Mickey for a while. He was mighty sad."

Fire at Coker House

Origin of Blaze Was Spark Falling on Roof, Loss Not Great

The roof of the W. C. Coker home at the northeast corner of the village caught fire about noon Sunday. The most plausible explanation of the origin was that a spark from the fire in Mr. Coker's study fell upon the shingle roof. Already a contract has been let for a roof of asbestos.

The blaze on the roof was discovered by Mrs. Coker. She sent in an alarm by telephone, and the fire company responded promptly and did a good job. The water in the storage tank was adequate, so it was not necessary to run a hose line from a hydrant. Aside from the roof, the main damage was to the plastering in one room.

40 Persons Can Be Examined in a Day; Positive Cases to Be Passed on to Physicians

X-RAY VIEWS TO BE MADE

A new house trailer equipped with a fluoroscopic x-ray unit for use in the campaign against tuberculosis, has been received and is just about to be put in service by the District Health Department which serves Orange, Person, and Chatham counties.

The cost of the trailer and equipment was contributed by various civic organizations in the three counties.

"The unit employs the latest type of fluoroscopic screen for chest work and makes possible the detection of most chest lesions," said Dr. William P. Richardson, the health officer, yesterday. "Since examination of the chest is done directly, without the taking of pictures, the cost of operation is very low, and as many as forty patients can be examined in a day."

"The examination clinics held by the health department will be for diagnosis only, and every patient found to be positive or suspicious for tuberculosis will be referred to his family physician for treatment with the recommendation that x-ray pictures be made for confirmation and for a permanent record. For the present clinics will be held once a month in each of the department's offices (that is in Roxboro, Hillsboro, Chapel Hill, and Pittsboro) and will be free to all.

"The need for this service is vividly brought out by an analysis of reported deaths and cases of tuberculosis in Orange county. This analysis shows that since the health department was

Kenfields in Mexico

They Are on Automobile Trip; They Expect to Return about Feb. 15

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kenfield, traveling by automobile, will arrive in Mexico City tomorrow. They expect to stay there until February 8 and to get back to Chapel Hill about the 15th. Their address in Mexico City is Shirley Court, 151 Calzada Villa Longin.

They left here Monday morning; drove to Pensacola, Fla., by way of Atlanta and Montgomery; and then followed the Gulf Coast route to New Orleans. They are to reach Laredo, Texas, today and Ciudad Victoria in Mexico tomorrow.

Miss Dorothy Webster, Mr. Kenfield's niece, has come from Chicago to take command of the home in Westwood and look after the two boys. Miss Webster, who used to be a student in the high school here, said yesterday: "I'm devoted to Chapel Hill and it's a great delight to me to come back."

School Basketball Tonight

The basketball teams of the Chapel Hill and Bethel Hill high schools will meet here this (Friday) evening. Chapel Hill and Hillsboro are to meet Tuesday.

Car Loaded with Logans, Etc.

Mrs. George B. Logan, returning from Florida, brought with her in the car her four daughters, luggage, two jars of tropical fish, a Scotch terrier, fruits, and a varied assortment of plants.